Jersey Cows Home At Long Meadows Farm

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HAMBURG (Berks Co.) - For Helene and Robert Dreisbach at Long Meadows Farm, the practical aspects of intensive grazing have captured their interest in doing something new. Because Robert is a VMD, he gets to see all the new practices farmer clients are using. And if something seems to work for others, they try it at Long Meadows.

And intensive grazing with its reduced labor requirements, especially from April to November, has come home to this beautiful herd of Jerseys and the 130 acres of rolling farmland located two miles west of town. The pasture's seeded in a combination of alfalfa, orchard grass, and perennial rye keep the 100 cows happy, producing well, and more healthy.

While the Dreisbachs still make stored roughage for winter, they like the increased efficiency and better herd health when the cows are out on pasture.

Tobacco Growers Receive Emergency Spraying Lessons

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — Depending on weather conditions tobacco farmers in Lancaster County need to spray fungicide weekly to control blue mold.

"Even if you don't see blue mold, spray," said Lancaster County extension agent Robert Anderson.

That was the bottom line recommendation from Penn State Extension specialists during a Tuesday tobacco meeting at the John Beiler farm in Leola.

The meeting was called by Lancaster County Extension agent Anderson, and John Yocum, manager of the Penn State Extension Landisville research laboratory.

Also participating was Mike Fleming, a representative of American Cyanamid. Amercian Cyanamid manufactures the fungicide Acrobat MZ, for which Pennsylvania has received emergency authorization to use in the battle INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — J. Myron Stoltzfus is a butcher, a retailer, and a restaurateur.

Last week, he was appointed by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman to an advisory committee on meat and poultry inspection.

Stoltzfus is one voice among 15 members who will determine how meat and poultry inspection should be carried out in the U.S.

While many meat processors are wearied by the intensely regulated government control and from vicious attacks from consumer groups and the media, Stoltzfus remains

Holstein Picnic Draws Crowd Of 500

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

KNOXVILLE, Md. — Savage-Leigh Farm in Knoxville was the setting for this year's Maryland State Holstein Association picnic. The picnic was hosted by Wayne and Cindee Savage and family, and drew a crowd of approximately 500. Dairy farmers travelled from Missouri, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, and Maryland to attend the annual function. The state Holstein association has approximately 600 members, according to Jason Myers, president.

Despite temperatures that soared to 103 degrees, guests were able to keep cool in the shade of the farmhouse's large maple trees where lunch was served. Marlin and Eva Martin of Smithsburg catered the meal that ended with their popular strawberry pie. A swimming pool and trampoline were available and many took advantage of them and displays by a number of sponsors were also set up.

A Maryland Junior Holstein calf raffle offered juniors a chance to win Savage-Leigh Stardust Amber, a March calf backed by five generations Very Good or Excellent and MD State production winners. Jeff Sutton of New Windsor, president of the MD junior Holstein club, won the calf. A judging competition starring four of the Savage-Leigh Holsteins rounded out the day's events.

HAPPY FOURTH OF JULY

The Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council's regular newsletter will be in a special section of Lancaster Farming next week. Look for farm features, information about the state hay show competition at Ag Progress Days, forage quality reports, and the PFGC picnic. We'll also have a grassland events calendar and messages from our advertisers.

For this week, we all hope you have a happy holiday over the fourth of July.

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

JUNE 27, 1997

Prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady. Demand remained light to fair. Floor stocks of finished products were adequate. Shell egg supplies were about adequate throughout the East Coast, and prices were generally unchanged. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending June 21, 1997 were 15% less than the prior week, and 20% more than the same week last year.

NE Chicken Pts 1&2

JULY 1, 1997

Trucklot buying activity was spotty with some dealers a bit more cautious than others. Offerings were irregularly available and for the most part confidently held. Most dealers had sufficient floor stocks for immediate requirements. Retail and distributive movement was about moderate, but expected to increase for the long holiday weekend. The market tone was mostly steady.

National Egg Market

JULY 1, 1997

Prices were unchanged to lower for mediums and smalls on the East Coast, and elsewhere, prices were unchanged. The market tone remained mixed with the large sizes generally steady, and light sizes were steady to weak. Demand continued mixed, and was mostly moderate. Supplies of large sizes were tight to adequate and smaller sizes were fully adequate to ample. Offerings of shell eggs to breaking plants were at least adequate for the light and unaggressive demand and the undertone was generally steady. Spent fowl availability was sufficient for this week's reduced holiday schedules.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
JULY 1, 1997

Wheat bids slightly lower, corn and especially soybeans sharply lower. Wheat mostly 2 to 3 cents lower with Minneapolis 11 cents lower. Corn 4 to 7 cents lower. Sorghum 10 to 11 cents lower. Soybeans 34 to 40 cents lower. Harvest pressure, good weather conditions and slow export demand were weakening factors for wheat bids. Harvest progressing and good yields are being reported most places. However, higher protein crops are scarce. Corn bids declined as favorable weather conditions continue across the Midwest. Beneficial rains overnight were reported in places. New crop corn bids and some of the off rail country elevators down around 2.25 per bushel and a couple of months ago they were around 2.40. Very sharp declines in soybean bids again due to USDA's acreage report yesterday with a record 70.9 million acres planted. The largest since 1982. Currently soybeans in very tight supply but beware farmers. New crop bids at country elevators have dropped fifty cents in the past two days and now well below 6.00 per bushel. Expectations of a record harvest this fall is the primary depressant factor. This given some producers second thoughts about following beans behind wheat harvest. U.S. Export Sales:

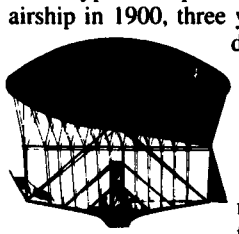
The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

JULY 7-13, 1997

BEWARE CORNSCATEOUS AIR.

BIRTHDAY OF THE BLIMP

July 8, 1838, was the birthday of German Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, inventor of the airship called the zeppelin, or dirigible. It is also known as a blimp, a word that comes from its airship classification as a "Type B-limp." Von Zeppelin put an engine on his airship in 1900, three years before the Wright brothers designed their engine, but the zeppelin was lighter than air, which distinguished it from heavier-than-air craft such as planes. The British used blimps in World War I to scout for submarines. Today, blimps proudly float above most major sporting events, offering televised broadcasts.



Ingenious contrivances to facilitate motion, and unite levity with strength.

– Samuel Johnson ("On the Art of Flying")

TIP OF THE WEEK

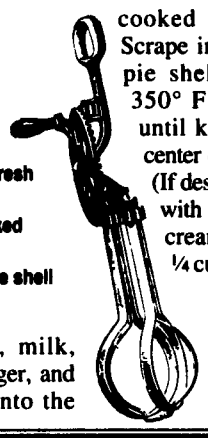
SWEET-POTATO CUSTARD PIE

1-1/2 cups sugar
1-2/3 cups milk
3 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon grated fresh orange rind
1 cup mashed, cooked sweet potato
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell



Mix the sugar, milk, eggs, salt, ginger, and orange rind into the cooked sweet potato. Scrape into the unbaked pie shell and bake at 350° F for 1 hour, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. (If desired, serve warm with 1 cup of heavy cream whipped with ¼ cup of brandy.)

Makes 8 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

When dishes sweat and ditches stink, rain is near.

When the birds nest low, all the year the wind will blow.

If woolly fleeces spread the heavenly way, be sure no rain disturb's the summer's day.

Yellow streaks in the sunset sky, wind, and daylong rain are nigh.

OPINION

God Forbid That We Should Ever Forget

In pursuit of freedom, they came to this distant, unknown land.

Seeking the right to worship freely, they left family and friends, jobs, and the security that comes with living in a familiar setting.

They faced a harsh new environment, wary natives, were unprepared and unfamiliar with how to make a living on these primitive, forested shores.

Indeed, many of them starved to death.

Then, they learned to farm.

Oh, it was surely primitive by today's standards, crude tools, fish for fertilizer, cutting trees and burning to clear land. Back-breaking labor, which many of them had perhaps not before known.

But after they learned to farm, they ate. They put away for the winter. And they survived.

Once fed, they prospered, grew, fanned out to settle this America.

They built settlements, raised families. Elected leaders and established a government.

Because they were fed, our founding fathers could pursue this experiement in freedom. Even then, the rich soils and productivity of American farms freed a good portion of the citizenry to pursue the finer points of civilization. Doctors, teachers, craftspeople, printers, shopkeepers, preachers.

They organized, rebelled against oppression, formed an army. Threw off the yoke of foreign rule. Led by bands of farmers, who laid down their plows and took up rifles, this fledgling, upstart nation of renegades rebelled against one of the world's mightiest powers. And won.

Because they were fed, they could defend this precious freedom.

Seeking land they could call their own to farm, the more adventurous among the populous headed West. Civilization followed as farmers split the virgin prairie soil with plows and fattened cows and sheep for food and fiber on its lush grasses.

Because there was abundance of food, railroads followed. Rutted wagon paths widened into roadways. Ports grew. Immigrants from around the world fled oppression and hunger in their native lands to embrace this land of peace — and plentiful food.

With full bellies, inventive minds were free to dream and dare. To power with waterwheels and belt drives. To dig canals, to mine useful minerals, to raise up institutions of medicine and of learning. To invent the likes of electricity and steam engines and gasoline motors.

A fed country is a country with freedom to grow, to imagine, to try, to dream. A hungry country expends its limited energy stalking its next meal, generally amid political, social and economic chaos.

Because we were fed, American ingenuity has prospered. Curious minds have been freed to develop rocket science and nuclear power, cures for polio and controls for insects which spread killer diseases, lasers, microwaves, instant communication and computerization.

America is certainly not perfect. Still, others continue to arrive at our steps, yearning for freedom from oppression, from dictators, from war and from the wrenching hunger still prevalent in too many parts of the world, hunger which skeletonizes aging bodies and bloats the bellies of starving infants.

Yet, after more than 200 years of abundance, we increasingly seem to take for granted that we are free because we are fed. We have become a citizenry too far removed from the source of plenty. Generations distant from tilling the soil need to know more about the production of food for our national full bellies. It might simply magically materialize somewhere in the dark recesses of supermarket warehouses.

As we celebrate our national birthday on July 4, may we remember that we have come this far because we have not had to scrabble, hand to hand for every daily bite. America's rich agriculture resources and productivity have powered our prosperity.

We are free because we are fed.

God forbid we ever forget or neglect that blessing.

Now Is The Time

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Test Water Supply

Leon Ressler, Lancaster County agriculture environmental extension agent, reminds people who receive their water supply from a private well that monitoring the well water quality is your responsibility.

The only way you can be certain your water is safe to drink is to have it tested periodically. While it would be cost prohibitive to test for every possible contaminate, several screening tests can give you a pretty good idea about the quality of the well water.

A test for coliform bacteria should be run annually. The acceptable tests results are zero colonies in the sample. Make sure the lab running the tests is certified for microbiology tests by the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection.

Another test that should be run routinely is for nitrates. Other tests including hardness, iron, and total dissolved solids, may be run on your water supply if you suspect you have problems with these contaminates.

If you have problems with corrosion of your plumbing, a pH test may be helpful in finding a solution.

To Store Large Bales Correctly

Storing hay in large round bales has become very popular, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County agronomy extension agent.

Many producers leave the larger bales of hay outside until they are ready to feed them. However, outside storage can result in a loss of feed between 15 and 20 percent over time.

Ohio State has found that losses can be reduced by keeping the bale's top half covered and allowing moisture to escape from the bottom. Farmers have used slatted pallets, old tires or poles to allow air to get to the bottom of bales.

In a six-month study, bales which had a top cover and were supported on slatted pallets had losses between 4 and 7 percent. Bales which were covered but set on the ground had losses 7 and 15 percent. Rectangular bales stored in a barn usually have a 4 percent loss.

To Check Tobacco For Aphids

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County agronomy extension agronomy agent, reminds us that aphids usually start to show up on tobacco in mid to late June with the major numbers appearing about the fourth of July.

If Orthene was used in the transplant water, it does a good job of controlling the early aphids, but by early July that control has diminished to near zero.

Aphids can build up very rapidly under ideal conditions. Heavy infestations of aphids can decrease both yield and quality. To monitor aphids on tobacco, begin looking for them around the fourth of July.

When you find 20 percent of the plants with aphids, it is time to being spraying. Most labeled products do an excellent job of controlling aphids when spraying starts before a large buildup occurs and continues as needed throughout the growing season.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHAT'S IN A NAME?
July 6, 1997

WHAT'S IN A NAME?
July 6, 1997

Background Scripture:
Hebrews 1:1-5; 3:1-6
Devotional Reading:
Hebrews 1:6-14

"What's in a name?" asks Shakespeare in Romeo and Juliet. "That which we call a rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

Names are important as signs in helping us to identify people and things, but we err when we assume that the name is equal to the reality we are naming. When someone speaks your name, have they fully defined what you are? If someone calls you be your vocational title — clerk, carpenter, lawyer — is that the sum total of your destiny? Of course not. These names are helpful, but we must never assume they are the last word.

I determined long ago that any language I used to speak of God would be at best inadequate. This is true also of Jesus Christ. We call him by many titles and these all help us relate to him. At the same time, we must remember that human titles — even the word GOD — are but human symbols of a divine reality that quite transcends human vocabulary.

THE NAMES

Look at how many different titles we use for this Jesus of Nazareth. We call him the Christ/Messiah — the "annointed one." The name Jesus/Yeshua means "God saves."

Emmanuel/Immanuel means "God is with us." Jesus usually spoke of himself as Son/son of Man (which can be interpreted to mean "a man"). Contemporaries called him the Nazarene or Rabbi ("My Great One"), while those closest to him addressed him as Master or Lord. Writers of the New Testament called him the Son of God and the Logos or "The Word." Today we still use titles such as Redeemer, Saviour, King, The Good Shepherd, The Bread of Life and many others.

All of these are helpful but none is definitive. I am glad we can use a variety of terms that give our experience of him a depth and richness. The same is true of the term Son of God. It tells us a lot about who and what Jesus is, but like any analogy it has its limitations. Down through the ages people have argued and fought over the precise terms by which Jesus of Nazareth was, became or is God's Son. And to make things even more difficult to nail down, Jesus sometimes called his followers "sons of God."

What does it mean for us to call Jesus the Son of God? The beginning of the Letter to the Hebrews is very helpful: "In many and various ways God spoke of old to our fathers by the prophets; but in these last days he has spoken to us by a Son, whom he appointed the heir of all things, through whom also he created the world" (1:1,2).

THE WORD

God spoke and still speaks to us in many ways — through history, nature, beauty, law, reason, art, other people — and all of these can be valid channels of revelation. But, the writer of Hebrews tells us that his most complete revelation to us comes in the person of Jesus Christ. In the one person God revealed to humanity that we can apprehend and comprehend of his own nature. That is why we speak of Jesus as The Word.

Very often when they meet me for the first time people say that I look like and sound like my father. That does not mean we are physically identical, but that there is in me a resemblance of my father. So it is, says Hebrews, with Jesus Christ who "reflects the glory of God and bears the very stamp of his nature" (1:3). When we encounter Jesus we come as close to God as it is possible for us to come and we understand as much of him as we can.

In chapter 3 the writer of Hebrews compares and contrasts Jesus with Moses. What was exemplary in Moses is even more so in Jesus. Moses was "faithful" to God, but Jesus's faithfulness is that of a son to a father. Faithfulness is the key. Jesus was faithful and he calls us to faithfulness. Actually, faithfulness is much more important than the names and titles we use for either God or his Son. Without faithfulness the names are useless.

AJCA Registers Number 4 Million

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The 4 millionth Jersey female was registered June 16 by the American Jersey Cattle Association (AJCA).

Robins Nest Marty Nancy was bred and is owned by Kenneth and Beverly Robinson, Saint Johnsbury, Vt. "Nancy" is a daughter of Rock Maple Sooner Marty-ET, PTI +221.

"Nancy" is described as "fiesty" and a "nice looking calf" by Beverly Robinson. The Robinsons raise a small number of replacements, so "Nancy" was special from the beginning.

Robinson said they have just gotten their registrations up to date, and was surprised to hear that one of their heifers had become a milestone for the AJCA.

The Robinsons have been milking Jerseys since 1985 and send their milk to AgriMark Co-op where they have received Vermont's highest dairy quality award five times.

Jerseys are a family tradition for the Robinsons, who say the smaller Jersey suits their farm which has limited acreage. Since Beverly was the primary herdsperson when they began milking, she also appreciated the Jersey's mild temperament.

Jerseys continue to be the only dairy breed experiencing growth in registrations. The average number of registrations by breed for the years 1985 through 1987 and the average number between 1994 through 1996 shows that.

A three-year average is used to lessen the impact of fee changes and special registration promotions. Jersey registration numbers are up over 6.5 percent while the other breeds are declining.

For more information on Jerseys, and the American Jersey Cattle Association, call (614) 861-3636 or fax (614) 861-8040. If you are online, visit us at http://www.usjersey.com or send e-mail to usjersey@iwaynet.net.

JOHN DEERE 7000 TEN SERIES TRACTORS

GO AHEAD. LOAD IT UP.

Our full-frame strength carries massive loads and the NEW high-torque power delivers productivity.

The solid-steel John Deere mainframe offers support for loader work like no other tractors in their class.

The frame takes all the shocks, twisting, and jolts of loader work, while the new PowerTech™ engine and transmission deliver power in perfect alignment. Just look at the industrial-strength cross bracing and full-length heavy-gauge-steel design. It's one stout fortress of protection. And because tractor and loader were designed to work together, the lift points, loader geometry, and even the operator's view are uncompromised.

New 6.8- and 8.1-liter engines deliver increased horsepower and high torque to meet demand.

Fast acting hydraulics with over 26 gpm flow (standard on 7610, 7710, and 7810) are another natural for heavy loader work.

Exclusive Caster/Action™ MFWD is an option that gives exceptional power for field and loader work, plus very tight turns. The tractor best built for loader work also gives you a transmission choice on every model.

So go ahead. Load it up. No other tractor/loader combination offers you the support and productivity of a 7000 TEN Series Tractor and 700 Series Loader. See your dealer today for a demonstration.

New left hand reverser lever for 16-speed PowerQuad™ transmission (cab-equipped tractors only)

Dairy Week: Hot temps curb milk output, but cheese stocks firm

By Lisa Wheeler

Bridge News, New York--Jly 2--Hot weather conditions in sections of the US continue to drain bumper milk inventories, but some traders believe that the heavy inventories of cheese continue to keep pressure on milk prices. However, in the "pre-dog days of summer," prices are likely to rebound slightly on seasonal factors.

While grain prices remain low, sources said the current situation is still very negative for milk prices and only a mild rebound is seen in the market.

One broker said that cheese manufacturers are not as anxious to be as aggressive as they were last fall in making cheese, since their current inventories remain heavy.

The broker said many California processors have switched from producing the usual

Another Flock Suspected With A.I.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On Tuesday it was announced that another flock, this one with 72,000 layers in the northern Lancaster County quarantine zone, is suspected of having avian influenza (A.I.)

Conclusive tests were not available as of presstime Thursday morning. However, it is strongly suggested that the flock, also in the quarantine zone, carries A.I.

According to Dr. Max Van Buskirk, director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Animal Health, virus isolation tests were not complete as of late Wednesday afternoon. He noted that industry and the department are reviewing plans for the disposition of the flock.

Just a few weeks ago, officials were hopeful that the quarantine would be lifted after about 80 flocks in the area were tested. One flock was confirmed positive late Thursday afternoon of last week with the H7N2 virus. The flock was destroyed voluntarily on Monday this week.

Only an official confirmation of a positive flock will affect any kind of quarantine release date, according to Van Buskirk. The quarantine area in Lancaster County continues to remain in effect.

Agronomic Field Clinic Set

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Farmers, agriculture industry workers, and Penn State Cooperative Extension agents will have the chance this summer to earn Certified Crop Advisor and pesticide applicator license credits through the fifth annual Penn State Agronomic Field Diagnostic Clinic.

The clinic will be conducted twice — first on Tuesday, July 22, and again on Thursday, July 24. The event will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Agronomy Research Farm at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center, Rocksprings.

Scheduled program topics are growth and development of corn, corn rootworm biology and corn growth, soybean diseases, herbicide and weed/crop screen, assessing soil quality, diagnosing silage and hay problems, planter adjustment and attachments, and weed identification.

"We run a hands-on clinic," said Dwight Lingenfelter, Penn State assistant extension agronomist. "By keeping the clinic size at about 100 people or fewer, there can be more instructor-participant interaction."

This program is one of many Certified Crop Advisor (CCA) programs across the nation that help professional agronomists maintain their certification. "Most of our participants are industry-based or ag extension agents," said Lingenfelter.

The $35 registration fee includes lunch, refreshments and support materials. For more information, contact Lisa Crytser, Penn State Department of Agronomy, at 116 ASI Building, University Park, Pa. 16802, or call (814) 865-2543.

AGA Elects Four Directors

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The members of the American Guernsey Association recently elected four directors to its board, during its annual convention in LaCrosse, Wis.

John B. Morrow of Tyrone, Pennsylvania, was re-elected for District Two.

Morrow and his wife Karen are the owners of Hillside Farm with their children: Melissa, Kristi, Matthew and Douglas.

John has served as president and director of the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders' Association and is currently a delegate for his local Land O'Lakes Cooperative.

Morrow believes the Guernsey breed is the number one breed of dairy cows for intensive grazing. He also feels that Golden Guernsey milk is far superior for drinking, compared to the milk available to consumers today.

He believes the association must promote these strengths while continuing to provide registration and identification for animals with Guernsey genetics.

"We must emphasize production, youth, young sire programs, appraisal and shows for the Guernsey breed to prosper in the future," Morrow said, adding that he feels that his experience as a member of the Executive Committee and chairman of the Finance Committee are among his strengths as a director.

David Cochard of Union, Missouri, was elected to represent District Six.

Cochard and his wife Linda are the owners of Arrow Head Guernseys. Dave has participated over the years in DHIR, TPE, type traits appraisal, type conferences, national conventions and has supported state and national sales and shows.

"The role of the Guernsey breed in the future will be a leadership role in the areas of milk and cattle marketing to increase the income for our Guernsey breeders," he said. "With the products Golden Guernsey Inc. has coming, owning registered Guernseys should become more profitable."

The Milk Marketing Committee is a major key to the future of the Guernsey breed. With a shoestring budget to work with, this committee has set in motion the process which will funnel more of the consumer's food dollar to the Guernsey producer because it is only Guernsey milk that will go into those products. As the value of Guernsey milk and its products increases, so will the value of the Guernsey cow," Cochard said.

Seth Spencer of Gresham, Oregon, is to serve a four-year term as director-at-large.

Seth's greatest strength is getting people to work toward a common goal. It is his belief that the Guernsey breed will continue to have a positive role in the dairy industry.

"Both the showring and the milk pail will be important in this endeavor; but most importantly, we must show that the Guernsey cow is a profitable dairy breed," said Spencer.

His previous leadership experiences include president of the Oregon Guernsey Breeders' Association, a director for Western Guernsey Sires and a member of the sire selection committee.

He has been in partnership with his parents since returning home from college 15 years ago. Seth is the third generation in his family to maintain a herd of Guernseys in the Gresham area. He has just purchased a dairy that is set up for 300 cows on 130 acres. Seth and his wife Shari intend to have the size of this new herd up to 150 milking Guernseys within two years.

Dr. John O. Mozier of Stanley, Kansas, was appointed by the AGA directors in January to fill a director-at-large vacancy.

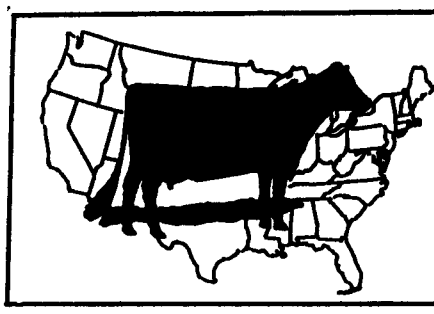
He has been elected by the membership to carry out the remaining two-year term of this position.

John and his wife Mary Lou own approximately 50 head of registered Guernseys and have been involved in Guernsey activities at the national and state levels.

For the major portion of his career, John served as either director or vice president for Animal Health Research and Development, the Research and Development Department of Chemagro Corporation, a predecessor company of Bayer Corporation.

These positions required him to interact with many different people of different disciplines, both domestically and internationally. John retired from active employment with Bayer at the end of 1993, but still serves as a consultant.

He is the chairman of Golden Guernsey Inc., which is addressing the issue of promoting and marketing Guernsey milk. As a member of the board, John will continue to support the Golden Guernsey Inc. committee, as well as other committees who are working to promote and sustain the Guernsey breed.



Powers Wins First AGA Scholarship

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Rebekah Powers of Plain City, Ohio, was the recipient of the first National Guernsey Youth Scholarship.

This award was presented during the National Youth Banquet held during the National Guernsey Convention in LaCrosse, Wisconsin, on June 22.

Powers is the daughter of Paul and Priscilla Powers. She attends The Ohio State University and is majoring in dairy science. She has received her American FFA Degree and has been an FFA National Dairy Proficiency winner. Powers is currently a member of the Ohio Junior Guernsey Breeders' Association and the Buckeye Dairy Club.

Rebekah's key responsibilities on the family farm, Ark Farm, are to maintain the farm's breeding, vaccination, production and health records, along with general veterinary care. This responsibility has fueled Rebekah's interests in veterinary medicine. Rebekah, also a 1997 National Guernsey Youth finalist, will use her $500 scholarship to further her education.

The National Guernsey Youth Scholarship is available to graduating high school seniors through 21 years of age of Jan. 1. Applicants must own one or more registered Guernseys and be a junior member of the American Guernsey Association.

It's A 'Dog' Day Fo And Pesky Blackbirds Ar

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — In the battle to control orchard rodents, the weapons can be awesome.

To control blackbirds and starlings from dining on blueberries, one Berks County orchard manager makes use of a variety of weapons, including reflective tape, propane gun, floating eyeballs, and whatever else is needed.

Another orchardist makes use of dogs.

Dogs?

That's right. Weaver's Orchard in Morgantown, Berks County, makes use of crossbred dogs of various breeds to provide what they consider an "Off-Limits Pest Control System." For the wary traveler, signs are posted at the entrance to the farm along road frontage near Rt. 10.

Orchardists are making use of all sorts of techniques to ward off fruit and vegetable pests. And the methods often prove effective.

More than 85 members and friends of the State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania found out firsthand what some growers are doing to control crop-damaging rodents on several orchards on a two-day tour in Berks County on Wednesday and Thursday last week at the annual Summer Orchard Tour.

Douglas E. Nemeth, orchard operations manager for Ontelaunee Orchards, Inc. in Leesport, indicated that in the war to control pests such as birds, no matter what you do, "the birds get used to about most everything."

On the five acres of lush blueberries at Ontelaunee, Nemeth said there have been some years where the birds "absolutely cleaned house in here." The birds include blackbirds and starlings. A friend who has an orchard in the New Jersey pine barrens, which is devoid of those kinds of birds, blames the problem on orchards close to towns, indicated Nemeth.

As a result, Nemeth said he makes limited use of reflective tape, which is red on one side and silver on the other, to help control the birds, which can cause extensive damage to blueberries and other crops. The silver decorative tape, like a scarecrow, wards them away.

Ontelaunee also uses a propane gun, floating eyes, and snake "things" in the war against the birds.

During the winter, deer can make quick lunch of growth on fruit trees. During the summer, deer simply love pumpkins.

One time, Ed Weaver, orchard manager for Weaver's Orchard in Morgantown, planted some pumpkin on the slope of a hill next to a forest. Deer completed decimated the crop.

Weaver noted that mice can burrow into and surround the base of a tree. And fruit and vegetable growers are well aware of what damage groundhogs and raccoons cause.

Previous rodent control methods, such as soap, hair, chemicals, and lead proved insufficient. So two years ago, fed up with the problems of rodent damage, Weaver went to work. He did some research on a system used by several growers that made use of dogs. He spent $5,600, which included the wiring and transmitter, and less than an average of $30 per dog extra.

Installation of the off-limits pest control system was another $1,000. For less than $10,000, Weaver had a complete system to protect the orchard's 70 acres of tree fruit, eight acres of strawberries, 1/2 acre of blueberries, one acre of raspberries, 12 acres of sweet corn, and five acres of pumpkins from pests, including deer and groundhogs. Weaver believes that the rodent control system saves him $40,000 per year on lost product.

At the time he started, Weaver mapped out one zone and used one dog. A year ago he added three zones and seven dogs. Today there are eight dogs — three Norwegian Elkhounds, one Husky/Akita, one Husky/Shepherd/Lab, one German Shepherd, and two Beagles.

nsylvania found out firsthand what some growers a oli rodents on several orchards on a two-day tour in ks
Thursday at the annual Summer Orchard Tour.

Weaver's manages five acres of pick-your-own strawberries. All of the crop is trickle irrigated, according to Ed Weaver, far right. Varieties grown include Delmarvel, Sweet Charlie, Early Glow, Raritan, Jewel, Off-Star, Early Glow with Guardian, and Late Glow.

The zone system, operated off a transmitter that can carry to 14,500 foot maximum, is buried at various levels on the property. Weaver uses insulated 8-gauge woven copper wire. In some places that get chiseled, the wire is buried two feet or less. In woodland, the wire rests on top of the ground.

There are four zones with two dogs each zone. Some big zones encompass 25-35 acres. The smallest zone is only eight acres.

Weaver believes that the zones are between 90-94 percent effective in dealing with the problem, he noted to members of the tour. The zones have essentially eliminated the groundhog and deer problems. Even the mice are quickly chased down and eliminated by the dogs.

Also at the farm, Weaver uses a special computerized "chirper" that sends out various forms of high squeals to ward off blackbirds and starlings. Speakers are mounted at the top center of cherry and other trees. Cost for two acres was about $150. Larger systems, encompassing 10 acres, cost $500, according to Weaver.

Both growers have other responsibilities, in addition to maintaining systems to keep pests at bay.

Douglas Nemeth, operations manager for Ontelaunee Orchards, Inc., said the orchard is owned by the Walter Pohl Corp. in Leesport. Ontelaunee maintains 1,000 acres altogether in various locations. Of the 1,000 acres, Nemeth noted, only 450-500 acres are used for fruit production. The rest of the land is woodland and leased.

Ontelaunee has five acres of pick your own strawberries. In addition, they grow sweet and sour cherries, and about five acres of pick your own blueberries. The blueberries will be available to be picked at the end of July, including three main varieties: Bluetta, Berkeley, and Blue Crop. The Blue Crop variety, Nemeth said, bear consistently and are bigger compared to the other two.

The orchard also operates a cider press year-round. Most of the pick your own apples are available from September through December. Also, Ontelaunee has an apple peeling operation using fresh Granny Smith apples, supplying bakeries and restaurants (though they don't grow Granny Smith at the orchards).

Altogether, they produce 800,000 pounds of sliced apples per year.

Ontelaunee has 125 acres of peaches, 20 acres of nectarines, and 260 acres of apples. Of the apple production, there are a wide variety, including Gálas, Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, Fujis, and others. In a good year, the orchard sells 200,000- 225,000 bushels of apples.

A lot of the fresh picked apples go to Motz.

Blueberries, noted Nemeth, require a very low pH. In years previous the orchard has applied sulfur and fly ash, supplemented with iron, to bring down the pH of the soil to desired levels.

The blueberries are watered regularly with a traveler broadcast irrigation system, providing one inch of moisture per week, critical to the shallow-rooted plants. Blueberries sell for $1 per pound, pick your own. Five acres of pick your own strawberries are managed by Ontelaunee, which sell for 98 cents per pound. Pick-your-own sweet cherries go for $1.25.

The orchard uses water from the Schuylkill River in addition to a irrigation ponds.

At another site, Nemeth showed the tour members the varieties of Red and Golden Delicious apples planted. Red Chief are planted with 111s and 7A rootstock, 18 foot in rows between wide middles. Early on in the growth, the orchard makes use of clothespins and spreaders.

The 111 rootstocks are planted on 18-foot by 10-foot by 10- foot spacings, at 311 trees to the acre. The 7As are on 18- by 10- by 8-foot areas. The triple row 26s are on 18- by 8- by 8- by 8-foot areas at 480 trees to the acre. The 9s are on 18- by 8- by 6-foot areas at 640 trees to the acre, double rows.

This year, Red Chief 111s will start to bear, according to Nemeth.

Weed control is used in the fall or early spring to keep weed pressure, including red root and Canada thistle, low.

Ontelaunee has made use of various staking systems in the past, with little luck. They switched to an 8-foot steel stake, inserted two feet in to the ground, with ties.

At Weaver's Orchard near Morgantown, Ed Weaver manages 100 acres of a diversified group of fruit and vegetable crops. The orchard has been in the business since the 1930s. Like Ontelaunee, Weaver's makes use of seasonal labor, employing about 10 at the peak of harvest.

Weaver's manages five acres of pick-your-own strawberries.

All of the crop is trickle irrigated. Varieties grown include Delmarvel, Sweet Charlie, Early Glow, Raritan, Jewel, Off-Star, Early Glow with Guardian, and Late Glow.

Ed Weaver said, this year, the crop has been "fair," and not a lot has been lost to weather. They overhead irrigate to protect from frost.

A majority of the strawberries and other fruit is trickle- irrigated. Trickle lines are buried in the mostly sandy loam soil. Water is drawn from a 200-foot deep well at 50 gallons per minute. Also, a pond is used to irrigate the crops.

Weaver's sells strawberries at the pick your own for 95 cents per pound. At the height of the season, the price lowers to 80 cents per pound. Strawberries are sold at retail at $2.99 per quart.

Apples are pick your own, for the most part. Rootstock used is 111, with a few 26s and some 7As, Weaver noted. In the spring of last year some Pink Lady variety were

Ontelaunee uses these L-bar iron stakes, placed a foot away from the trunk, on these Gala apples on 26 rootstock planted in 1991. Trees are maintained 8-10 feet high.

Two start an area for an orchard, the ground is first worked and a seedbed prepared. Then the orchard plants a combination of 60 percent hard fescue and 40 percent creeping Red Fescue. The rows for trees are burned off with Roundup.

Tour members visited another site where peaches are grown for the orchard. Peaches are harvested by crews at an hourly rate — not a piece rate, as it is for the apples. The apples, on the other hand, are taken off at a piece rate. Forty-five people are maintained at the orchard's labor camp. At the peak of the apple season, the orchard employs 75-80 people to harvest, many from Reading and "people who drift in," he said.

The apples are brought to the loading area within two hours of being picked. They are placed in a cold air cooling room for a cool-down to 32 degrees.

Trees are pruned and maintained to a target height of 7-7½ feet high. Pruning is paid at a piece rate of $3.50 per tree.

Ontelaunee hasn't had any problems with brown rot. They use a brown rot control fungicide. Also, control of European red mite has been effective. Also, fireblight has not made a big impact on the orchard.

AGA Elects John Morrow As President

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The American Guernsey Association board of directors recently held their annual meeting at the association's national convention in LaCrosse, Wisconsin.

The board, led by President E. Cline Brubaker of Rocky Mount, Virginia, made many positive actions for the upcoming year.

During the board reorganizational meeting, a new executive committee was elected. The president is John Morrow of Tyrone, Pennsylvania; first vice president is Dr. John O. Mozier of Stanley, Kansas; and the second vice president is Peter Coon of Amenia, New York.

The board approved several actions.

Free one-year Guernsey Breeders' Journal gift subscriptions are to be given to non-subscribers on behalf of any individual who places a ¼ page or larger advertisement in the December 1997 issue of the Guernsey Breeders' Journal; any new herds that sign up for the Type Performance Evaluation program; new junior members; and first-time Guernsey buyers.

The board also approved a letter to be sent to all state departments of agriculture encouraging them to have all non-Johnes vaccinated cattle that are sold for dairy purposes tested for Johnes.

The board approved a more aggressive accounts receivable policy. This policy will require all outstanding accounts over 120 days to pay cash for any business conducted by the AGA and to begin a payment plan. The payment plan must stay current for more business to be performed. Any account that goes over 120 days and is eventually paid in full will not be allowed to carry a balance over $100.

Golden Guernsey Inc. continues to make progress to assist Guernsey breeders in developing niche markets for their product.

The committee governing Golden Guernsey Inc. plans to have promotional materials available by September.

Purebred Publishing Inc., a for-profit publishing subsidiary of the AGA, continues its growth after being developed at the beginning of the year. The publishing company is responsible for producing the Guernsey Breeders' Journal, Ayrshire Digest and Brown Swiss Bulletin.

planted. Three rows of Pink Lady and two rows of Fuji use M9 rootstock.

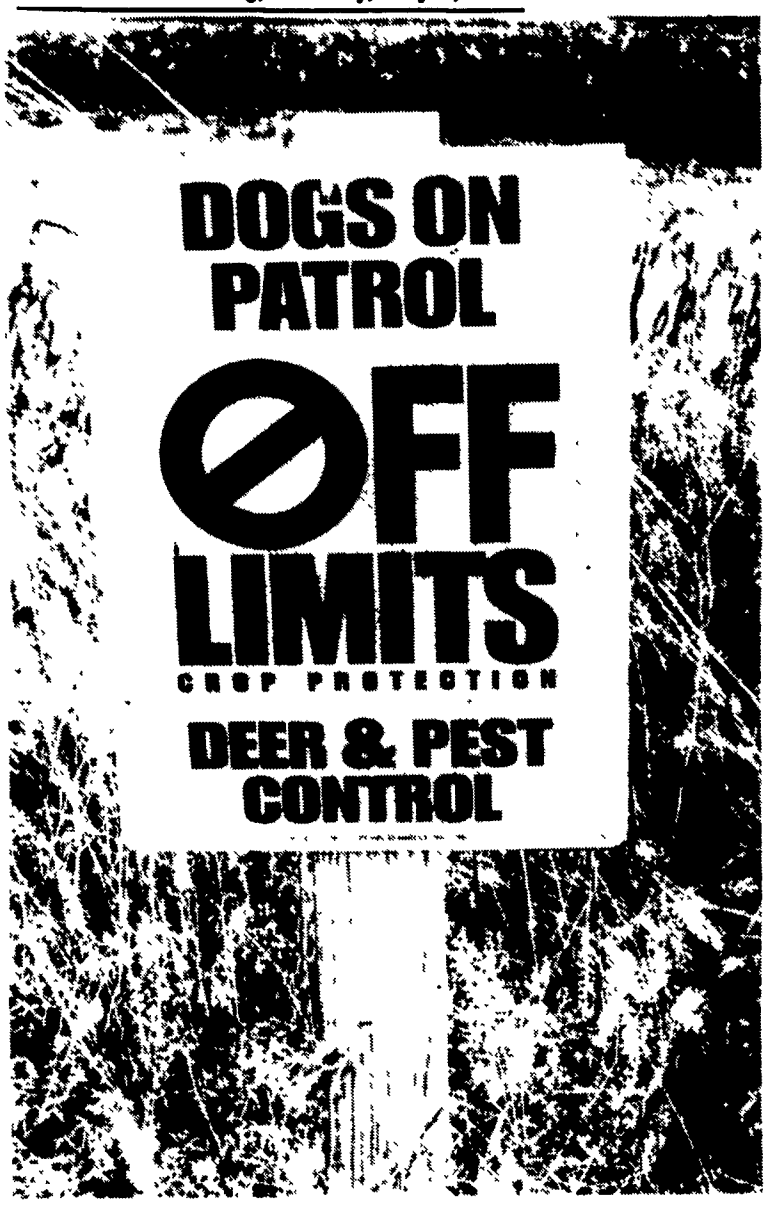
Weaver's has several rows of sweet cherries, many of the Heidelfingen variety. They also use Beescourt and Cavalier. In addition, Weaver's planted Blue Crop and Blue Ray blueberries.

Soil pH is maintained to a desire level. They fertilizes the blueberries with 200 pounds of 26-0-26 in early April. In June, 250 pounds of calcium nitrate were applied. The blueberries, in addition to several rows of red and black raspberries, are also trickle irrigated.

Weaver's charges $1.10 per pound for pick your own cherries. Blueberries are $1.35 per pound, red raspberries are $2 per pound, and black raspberries, $1.50 per pound.

Weaver's makes use of 9-10 beehives per year for pollination.

The tour concluded with a visit to the Boyertown area, including Shanesville Orchards, Keim Orchards, and Frecon Orchards.



Weaver's Orchard in Morgantown, Berks County, makes use of crossbred dogs of various breeds to provide what they consider an "Off-Limits Pest Control System."

Apples are pick your own, for the most part. Rootstock used is 111, with a few 26s and some 7As, Weaver noted. In the spring of last year some Pink Lady variety were planted. Ed Weaver shows these rows of Pink Lady.

refreshingly upbeat.

"I'll be the first to admit that it takes a lot of fun out of the business and it takes a lot of energy, but we have a choice. We can complain, react, pretend that it doesn't exist, or become involved," he said.

By becoming involved, Stoltzfus hopes to positively influence government regulations. It's the committee's job to satisfy the expectations of consumers, proccessors, wholesalers, caterers, home food service companies, and suppliers.

appease both consumer groups who are rallying for zero tolerance of bacteria in food and for industry groups who resent government control in their every undertaking. Appointing a committee gives the appearance that the government is concerned and wants a task force that looks at all angles of the problem. The concept looks good but it may be entirely ineffective, Stoltzfus admitted. A previous committee had been formulated but only met about once a year.

"Maybe the bottom line is that this is a political issue or perhaps it is a gesture to put together a committee in an attempt to get to the heart of the issues. Whatever it is, I want to believe the latter. I want to give this a chance," Stoltzfus said.

"I'll be the first to admit that it takes a lot of fun out of the business and it takes a lot of energy, but we have a choice. We can complain, react, pretend that it doesn't exist, or become involved," he said.

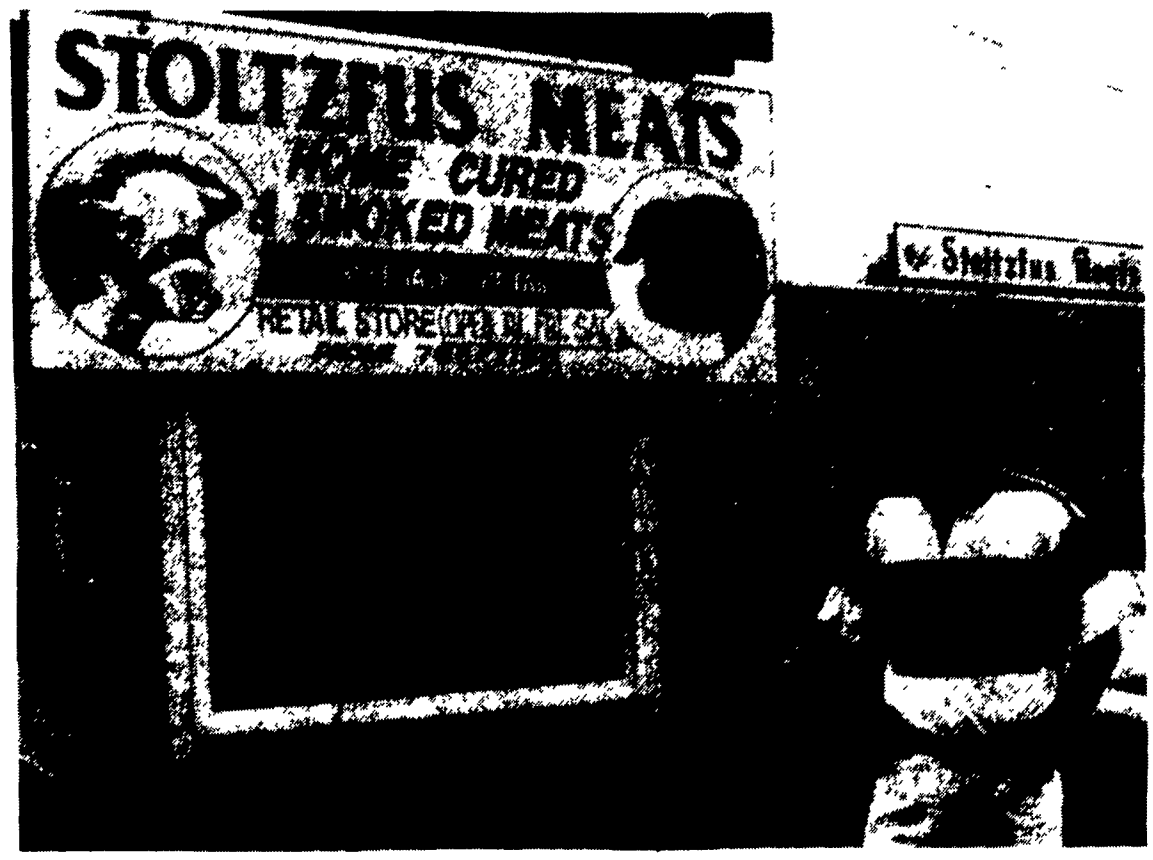
Stoltzfus doesn't believe that it is the government's intent to put the little guy out of business or that consumer groups are not open to the meat industry's viewpoint.

"But they are tired of hearing 'this is going to put me out of business.' They need someone to articulate the problems."

Stoltzfus has met the enemy, so to speak, face to face and has not found them irrational.

"There is a willingness for them to hear—to get past the rhetoric and find out the real issues," said Stoltzfus, whose boyish appearance belies his 39 years. Sporting a close-trimmed beard and wearing jeans and a cotton pullover shirt, Stoltzfus appears relaxed and yet animated with energy.

Skeptics question whether or not the committee is merely a political ploy—an attempt to



J. Myron Stoltzfus, owner and operator of Stoltzfus Meats Inc., has been appointed by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman to serve on an advisory committee on meat and poultry inspection.

Public debate for several years through his involvement as a member of the Meat Inspection Governmental Affairs Committee of the American Association of Meat Processors (AAMP), based in Elizabethtown. Through that involvement, Stoltzfus has been to Washington D.C. several times.

"I met some vocal groups (attacking the meat industry). Many are articulate spokespeople for their cause," Stoltzfus said.

He recalled an especially difficult attempt to reach an understanding between consumer groups and the meat industry. At a hearing of approximately 80 persons, Stoltzfus sat across from a mother whose toddler had died as the result of Ecoli in an undercooked burger.

"When you are sitting across from a mother who has lost a son, you can't say, 'this rarely happens' or that only one death from it happens in every so many million so it isn't cause for alarm. That mother has lost a son. I feel for her.

"At the same time, I have to ask the question: "Why did those children die?"

According to Stoltzfus, it wasn't the meat industry's fault. It was the restaurants' failure to properly cook the meat that resulted in the deaths. If the meat had been fully cooked, the bacteria causing the Ecoli would have been destroyed, and the deaths would not have happened, not even illness.

Stoltzfus sees a great need for sanitation and proper cooking methods to be followed through in the food service end of the spectrum. He isn't pointing fingers. He is, after all, part owner of Stoltzfus Farm Restaurant, where family-styled meals are served in an authentic Amish homestead.

Stoltzfus has met the enemy, so to speak, face to face and has not found them irrational.

"My number one concern is food safety. But if government regulations are aimed entirely at the meat industry in order to prevent a child from getting Ecoli—they are dead wrong. It will probably happen again. I don't like to say it, but that's reality," Stoltztus said regarding the uproar created when several children died from eating undercooked hamburgers.

"The meat industry is willing to do our part, but others need to be aware of the problem and carry equal responsibility," Stoltzfus said of food preparation, which he considers the weak link in preventing foodborne illnesses.

"Where does personal responsibility come into play?" he asked. "That mother wants zero tolerance, but I'm not sure that's achieveable, although we can miminize the risks. We cannot live in a risk-free society. You and I could both eat an egg that has salmonella present. I may get sick, you will not. No one has yet determined exactly why one becomes ill and another doesn't from eating the same food."

In order to wholesale meat in Pennsylvania, slaughterhouses not only need to be state inspected but also federally inspected. Inspectors are there every day, unlike the food industry, where inspectors drop by infrequently.

Among the 15 members on the advisory committee are many doctors and vocal spokespersons for consumer groups.

Stoltzfus jokes that he graduated from "Corn Cob High," but he is not intimidated by degrees or positions.

"I can't bring a degree to the table. My background is hogs. I can bring farm-to-table experience on the job," Stoltzfus said of his experience as owner of Stoltzfus Meats, Inc. in Intercourse, part owner of a hog farm and of the Stoltzfus Farm Restaurant.

His dad Amos began the business in 1958, when he started retailing at a market stand. Demand grew. Amos started processing a wide variety of fresh and smoked meats, for which the company's old-fashioned sweet bologna has won national awards. The company with 75 employees now operates four retail outlets in addition to the retail store in Intercourse.

It is Stoltzfus' belief that people with diverse opinions need to get to know each other over lunch, and that it is important to bring people together to work at resolving issues.

For too long, the meat industry was lacking in professionalism, Stoltzfus said of the reason for the apparently flourishing attacks against the industry. He credits the effectiveness of AAMP, which represents more than 1,800 meat and poultry slaughterers, processors, wholesalers, caterers, home food service companies, and suppliers to the meat and poultry processing industry in the U.S., Canada, and overseas.

Although criticism of the meat industry may seem especially harsh, Stoltzfus admits that there have been flagrant violations in some instances. "Unfortunately man by nature will do what he can do if he can get away with it."

Another problem has been that every inspector reads the set of government regulations differently. If one inspector believes he is "on a mission" or his ego is threatened, he becomes dangerous (in his approach).

"There is nothing worse than raising the ire of a butcher, especially a German of which I am one," Stoltzfus said with a hearty laugh.

"I sit on both sides of the fence," he said of his position on the committee.

Other members of the advisory committee include Dr. Deloran Allen, Excel Corporation; Dr. William Brown, ABC Research Corporation; Terry Burkhardt, Wisconsin Bureau of Meat Safety and Inspection; Caroline Smith-DeWaal, Center for Science in the Public Interest; Nancy Donley, Safe Tables Our Priority; Carol Tucker Foreman, Safe Food Coalition;

Michael J. Gregory, Hudson Foods Inc.; Dr. Cheryl Mall, Foster Farms, Inc.; Dr. Margaret Hardin, National Pork Producers; Rosemary Mucklow, National Meat Association; William Rosser, Texas Department of Public Health; and Dr. David Theno Jr., Foodmaker Inc.

Stoltzfus is involved in much more than business. He and his wife Sally have four children, Zach, 13; Ken, 10; Kelly, 9; and Kristen, 5.

Stoltzfus is a board member of both Lancaster Mennonite High and of the Pennsylvania Family Institute, Sunday school teacher at Bethany Mennonite Church, and a task force member of Hazard Analysis Critical Control Points (HACCP). Through HACCP, Stoltzfus Meats is participating in a pilot project with the USDA. In the pilot, members of both HACCP and the USDA walk through the plant to determine where risk could occur. Recommendations are then made to reduce the risk.

The potential for even tougher meat industry regulations remains. "I can't guarantee that it (regulations) won't drive us (meat industry) out of business. Maybe the small meat guy will be a thing of the past just like the small service station owner, but I am not ready for that," Stoltzfus said.

His philosophy in dealing with controversy is to consider all options, even pull in counsel if needed, and pray. Stoltzfus said that he considers his faith in God more significant than his occupation or his government affiliation.

"I feel strongly that whatever my calling in life, wherever I am in life, my calling in life is to do well and to leave an impact—with employees, peers, customers," Stoltzfus said.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Corn, No.2y — 3.00 bu., 5.37 cwt.
Wheat, No. 2 — 3.41 bu., 5.69 cwt.
Barley, No. 3 — 2.01 bu., 4.30 cwt.
Oats, No. 2 — 2.05 bu., 6.40 cwt.
Soybeans, No. 1 — 8.01 bu., 13.38 cwt.
Ear Corn — 85.47 ton, 4.27 cwt.
Alfalfa Hay — 112.50 ton, 5.63 cwt.
Mixed Hay — 111.25 ton, 5.56 cwt.
Timothy Hay — 113.75 ton, 5.69 cwt.

New Technicians Complete Seminar

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Five new Pa.DHIA technicians graduated June 25 from a three-day training seminar in State College.

Included were Katie Enscoe of Lawrence County, Ginger Bowman of Bedford County, Amy Shields of Armstrong County, Bill Welligton of Bradford County, and Joleen Herbert of Lancaster County.

The special, intense three-day training seminar was held at the South Ridge Motel in State College. The training is held in conjunction with the first-day orientation, initial training, and a two-week and six-month evaluation.

Emphasized during the seminar were such things as proper procedures in dealing with computer programs, the new nutrition program, customer service, circuit management, professionalism, and learning the different aspects of meter usage, as well as touring the testing laboratory.

Pa.DHIA continues to put a high premium on its training program. Through the current training, and usage of monthly mini-meetings conducted by regional managers on a county basis, Pa.DHIA continues to meet the highest standards.

Please feel free to contact Pa.DHIA at 1-800-344-8378 for information on the many testing options currently available to the modern dairy farmer.

Holstein Picnic

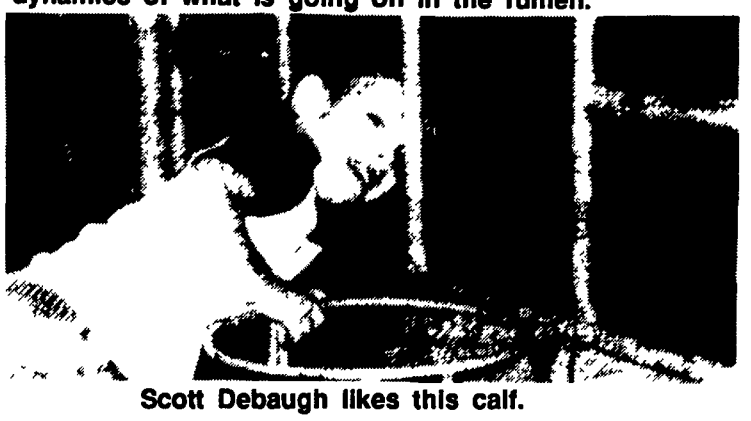
Richard E. Card, D.V.M. from Jefferson Laboratories in Jefferson set up a unique display in one of the barns. He brought in a cow he owns with a rumen fistula, a surgically created hole about four inches around to allow direct inspection of the cow's rumen. Dr. Card is doing ongoing research on the dynamics of how feeds are broken down by the cow's digestive system.

Picnic sponsors were: Southern States, Gladhill Tractor Mart, Ceresville Ford-New Holland, Mid-MD Dairy Veterinarians, Willard Agri-Services, Elanco Animal Health, Alta Genetics, Pennsylvania DHIA, Farmers Co-op Assoc. - Master Mix, Hoffman Seed, Sire Power, Select Sires, ABS, Taurus Service, Inc., Semex, Doody's Mechanical Service, Priest's Refrigeration, Cargill, Performance Products, Inc., Protiva, Remsburg Tent Rental/ Wayne Smith, Genex, Mid-East DHIC, Advanced Nutrition - Renaissance, North Glade Feed - Purina, H.C. Summers, Central MD Farm Credit, H.B. Duvall, D.W. Ogg, AMS Genetics, Fort Dodge Animal Health, Pennfield, Pioneer Seed - area sales representatives, Knott and Geisbert, Tri-State Farm Automation, Keymar Fertilizer, Shank Surge Co., Interstate Dairy, and Norman Hill Sales.

Dr. Richard E. Card, D.V.M., displayed this fistulated cow he uses for research for characterizing feeds and the dynamics of what is going on in the rumen.



Scott Debaugh likes this calf.

Pro Ag Plans March

MESHOPPEN (Wyoming Co.) — Dairy farmers are to assemble in Washington D.C. on July 15 to observe National Dairy Farmers Awareness Day, according to Arden Tewksberry, manager of Progressive Agriculture Organization.

The event is to be sponsored by several organizations including the National Family Farm Coalition, National Farmers Organization, and Pro Ag.

According to Tewksbury, people representing the groups are to meet at the Methodist Building in Washington and then go to the Capitol Building for a rally. From the Capitol Building they are to march to the USDA building, possibly the White House.

The group is promoting several policies. They want Congress to pass SB-604; to raise the Class I differentials in all federal milk marketing orders by $3 per cwt. and pool it nationally; place a $14.50 floor under the Basic Formula Price; and implement a milk supply program.

Anyone interested in going to the rally should contact Pro Ag at (717) 833-5776.

Parker Named

ary, Parker will oversee the administrative functions of the department. She will provide program leadership for the state's seven ag regional offices, and will be responsible for the Bureau of Animal Diagnostic Services which includes the department's testing laboratories.

Parker will replace Walter Peechatka, who is retiring.

Parker is well known in the local ag community for her programs with 160 4-H clubs. She has trained more than 500 adult volunteers and serves more than 5,000 youths. She has also developed an embryology science program taught in all of the county's school districts.

In addition to her work with youths, she was a resource for the live market poultry industry in a three-state region and the rattite specialist for the northeast region, helping to diagnose problems and teach marketing skills.

Hayes sees this experience as an asset as the department works to contain the recent avian influenza outbreak.

Parker will begin her new job effective July 14.

National Guernsey Sale Averages $2,312

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Spirits were high and so were hands as Guernsey breeders gathered in LaCrosse, Wisconsin, hoping to bid last on animals selling in the National Convention Sale on June 23.

Averaging $2,312 on 40 lots, this sale proved a success for American and foreign interests.

Topping the sale at $13,000 was Land Of Living E Garth-ET purchased by Select Sires.

Sired by Sherma Victory Ellas Enhancer, "Garth" has PA totals of 1,312M +58F +37P +160$CY; PTAT +1.8 and PTI +248.

His dam is the world renown Wincrest Vayette Grace. She is Excellent-95 with records to 41,420M* 4.7% 1,961F* 3.2% 1,305P* at 4-01 in 365 days. She is the current World Class Leader for milk in 365 days. "Grace" is also a three-time national grand champion. "Garth" was consigned by Mr. and Mrs. John Ayars and Sons and Mr. Ken Winters of Mechanicsburg, Ohio.

The high-selling female of the sale was Myown Harpoon Bliss-ET, a fancy open heifer sired by Wispride Pender Harpoon. "Bliss," consigned by Mark Erdman, Roy Wilson, Bob Griggs and Melinda Rushing of Dorchester, Wisconsin, sold for $6,000 to Lavon Farms of Plano, Texas.

Her Excellent-90 Lily Lane Penny Perfecto-ET dam has records to 31,020M* 4.4% 1.352F* 3.5% 1,085P* at 2-07 in 365 days. She has six national class leading records for milk, butterfat and protein and ranks number 18 on the May 1997 high CPI list.

The grandam is an Excellent-94 gold star cow with records to 28,930M 4.5% 1,298F 3.4% 995P at 9-03 in 365 days. "Bliss" comes from a deep-pedigreed family with high type evaluations.

Land O Living P Glorious-ET purchased for $5,200 by Gordon Huckins of Ashland, New Hampshire, was the second high-selling female of the sale.

Sired by Lily Lane Penny Perfecto-ET, "Glorious" sold bred to Longmedo Pender Velour-ET. Her maternal brother was the top seller in this sale.

"Glorious" was consigned by Mr. and Mrs. John Ayars and Sons and Mr. Ken Winters of Mechanicsburg, Ohio.

The high-selling Guernsey Gold heifer was Angies Acres Luck Candi, a Trotacre Jay Mr. Luck-ET daughter with a PA of +844M +46F +42P +169$CY.

Her 84-point dam, a Shenmont Telestar Montie-ET daughter, has a yield deviation of +3,903M +235F +165P.

"Candi" was consigned by Andrew Feldmann and Sons of Farley, Iowa. She was purchased by Matthew Jansen of Forest Grove, Oregon, for $2,300.

The Guernsey Gold heifer program is a small sale of select open heifers open for bidding for junior members only between the ages of six and 19. Fifteen percent of the gross proceeds from the sale of these heifers goes into a pot and is divided into four awards for a production contest. The production contest ranking is based on the animal's 2-year-old mature equivalent pounds of protein.

Guernsey Youth Shine At National Convention

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Well-rounded experience in dairy husbandry, breed activities and leadership are the basis for the National Outstanding Guernsey Youth competition.

Young dairy enthusiasts from around the nation who possess these traits, and many other, competed in this contest at the 1997 National Guernsey Convention in LaCrosse, Wisconsin, on June 22.

The host state favorite, Seth Wesener of Cleveland, Wisconsin, took home the title of the 1997 National Outstanding Guernsey Youth. Seth is the son of Art and Joanne Wesener and attends the Fox Valley Technical College majoring in agriculture.

Like the family farm name, Foresight Farm, Seth is always looking into the future and sees himself taking over the farm after graduation. Seth believes that with component pricing, people will see how important the role of the Guernsey cow is with her high protein and solids milk to increase profitability.

When selecting sires to use on his herd of 17 Guernseys, Seth looks for dairy character, strength and height in his choices. He feels that by using these traits he will strengthen the structure and longevity of his herd.

Seth is an active member of the Wisconsin Junior Guernsey Breeders' Association, FFA and 4-H, and has achieved numerous awards in each. Seth received the $500 Lawrence A. Colebank award and $50 for travel expenses to the convention for his accomplishments.

Victoria Ansell, first runner-up in the National Outstanding Guernsey Youth Contest, feels that by improving the strength of the Guernsey breed and by breeding her herd to meet the high standards of both type and milk production, she can make her registered Guernseys worth more.

Victoria attends Penn State University majoring in animal bioscience. She is a member of the Penn State Student Government and the Agriculture Science Club.

She is also active in 4-H, the Pennsylvania Junior Guernsey Breeders' Association and has served as the 1996 Pennsylvania Guernsey Princess. She is the daughter of Larry and Susan Ansell of Scottdale, Pennsylvania, owners of Ansell Acres. Victoria received $50 to assist with her travel to the national convention.

Dueringer Is Guernsey Queen

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The national Guernsey queen promotes the American Guernsey Association, the Guernsey cow and her rich golden product.

Seven young ladies from around the United States gave presentations, conducted personal interviews and represented their individual states as princesses, in hopes of capturing the national Guernsey queen title during the 1997 National Guernsey Convention in LaCrosse, Wisconsin.

On the evening of June 22, these seven young ladies listened as Amber Branstatter, the 1996 National Guernsey Queen, recapped her reign, all hoping to be her predecessor.

Selected by the judges to follow Miss Branstetter as the 1997 national Guernsey queen was Sara Dueringer of Melvin, Illiniois. Sara is the daughter of Larry and Donna Dueringer and attends Parkland College in a two-year transfer program. After completing the two-year degree, Sara will transfer to Illinois State University to complete a degree in agriculture education.

Sara believes she needs to continue promoting the improvement of the breed's Total Performance Evaluation (TPE) lactation average to 15,000 pounds of milk as well as the high solids level in the golden milk.

She has been a member of 4-H for eight years and also an FFA member, receiving the Section 17 FFA Dairy Proficiency Award, the DeKalb Award and State FFA Degree in 1996. She is also an active member in the Illinois Junior Guernsey Breeders' Association. Miss Dueringer also received the top skit honors.

Krista Richardson was chosen as the 1997 national Guernsey princess. This Wapakoneta, Ohio, native is currently pursuing a degree in animal science and agriculture economics at The Ohio State University.

The daughter of John and Carolyn Richardson, Krista's philosophy on how to emphasize the Guernsey breed in the dairy industry is to stress genetics. She is the breeder and owner of national show champions and All-Americans.

As a member of the Ohio Junior Guernsey Breeders' Association, Krista has been the recipient of the N.H. Hill Award, an outstanding youth memorial award.

DAIRY MARKET PRICE COMMENTARY

nonfat dry milk, which is easily exported in order to eliminate it weighing on the domestic market, to cheese production. This over-production of cheese has pounded prices even more.

NASS announced that US cold storage holdings of butter on May 31 totalled 43.4 million pounds, down 1.3% from April, but 27.6% more than May 1996.

Natural American cheese holdings totalled 451.4 million pounds, up 4.9% from April and 15.8% more than a year ago. Non-fat dry milk holdings at the end of April total 119 million pounds, 45.1% more than March and 8.2% above a year ago.

According to ERS and AMS, commercial disappearance of dairy products during the first 4 months of 1997 totalled 51.2 billion pounds, 1.4% more than the comparable period a year ago.

Comparing disappearance levels with the same period a year ago, fluid milk products were down 0.7%, non-fat dry milk was down 14% and butter down 5.2%, while American cheese was up 3.5%.

According to ERS, per capita consumption of fluid milk and cream products totalled 224 pounds in 1996, 1 pound more than in 1995. Compared to 1990, consumption is down 10 pounds. Per capita consumption of American cheese totaled 12 pounds, 1.7% more than 1995 and 8.1% more than 1990.

Per capita consumption of other cheese was 15.7 pounds, 1.9% more than 1995 and 16.3% more than 1990.

The USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) will announce the June Basic Formula Price for milk Thursday at 1500 ET. Brokers expect to see a BFP price from 10c lower to 30c higher than May's $10.70/cwt BFP.

Also, NASS said it will release the "Cheddar Cheese Prices" report covering the week ending Jun 27 on Thursday at 1500 ET. The inclusion of cheese price data for this period will result in a more representative monthly average cheese price for use under Federal milk orders.

In southern California and many parts of the Northeast, Central, and Southwest regions, farm level milk production was seen declining, NASS said. Cool and wet weather conditions in the Pacific Northwest were boosting milk production there.

Ice cream production is increasing seasonally and absorbing more cream.

Butter churning schedules in most areas were lighter as cream offerings are tighter than in past weeks. Widespread hot weather has caused milk production to drop which in turn, affects cream availability.

Improving demand for ice cream and other cream-based products also pulls cream away from churns. Demand for butter ranges from slow to fair, the USDA said.

FUTURES AND CASH PRICES CSCE BFP milk futures were lower to steady on heavy stock, but some relief in stocks surplus may curb those losses as hot weather limits supply some.

Jun BFP milk was down 3c at $10.70/cwt, while Jly fell 5c to $11.20.

CSCE raw milk futures fell 4c basis Aug, on building inventories. Aug settled at $13.46 on Tuesday, while Oct was steady at $13.85.

Nonfat dry milk traded at the CSCE was unchanged on Tuesday. Nonfat dry milk traded for Jly delivery was steady at 105.00c, with Aug at 106.50c.

Cheddar cheese futures were firmer in the nearby Aug market, while Oct fell. Aug was up 20 points at 124.50c, while Oct fell 200 points to 131.00c on Tuesday.

CSCE raw milk open interest was at 42 lots, unchanged on Tuesday, while cheddar cheese futures were steady at 23 lots, and nonfat dry milk was steady at 70 lots.

CSCE butter futures open interest was unchanged at 187 lots.

BFP milk traded at the CME for Aug delivery was unchanged at $11.96/cwt.

CME butter futures were all lower. Jly fell 125 points to 109.00c, while Sep fell 150 points to 112.75c on Tuesday.

On Tuesday, CME BFP milk open interest was steady at 7 lots. CME butter futures fell 2 lots at 318 lots.

At the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, all grades of bulk butter are unchanged. Grade AA is still at $1.1300, Grade A is at $1.0500, and Grade B is $1.0500.

CME cash cheese prices are also unchanged with barrels still at $1.1225, and 40-pound block at $1.1675.

FEED GRAINS

Normal wheat harvest price pressure continues across the central US. The wheat harvest is expected to dominate Kansas during the Independence Day weekend.

Farther east, Evansville, Ind., merchants said southern Indiana farmers should be 70% complete with the area's harvest by the end of the weekend.

"The farmer's the most optimistic person in the world," a southern Indiana merchant said.

Forecasters again predict severe weather today in the northern Plains and the northern Midwest. Merchants said farmers in parts of Minnesota are cleaning up after some storms carrying 95-100 mile per hour straight-line winds moved through the state.

The storm system dumped heavy rain on western North Dakota's wheat crop, which was begging for moisture. But merchants said some of that rain may have occurred too late.

"It helped, but they're still going to have below-average yields," one Minneapolis merchant said. "The crop is beyond redeveloping tillers at this point

Preservation Report Released

YORK (York Co.) — The June 1997 issue of the Farmland Preservation Report, released the results of a survey they conducted over the last month. The survey examined the farmland preservation activity within 150 localities located across the United States.

The survey indicated the nation's newest lineup of the top 10 counties with regards to the number of farmland acres preserved through a purchase of development rights (PDR) program which is administered and at least partly funded at the local level. The lineup revealed the following:

Rank	County/State	Acres Preserved
#1	Montgomery County/MD	45,775 acres
#2	Carroll County/MD	25,543 acres
#3	Marin County/CA	25,504 acres
#4	Lancaster County/PA	24,232 acres
#5	Harford County/MD	22,500 acres
#6	Sonoma/CA	21,162 acres
#7	Caroline/MD	19,198 acres
#8	Howard/MD	17,473 acres
#9	Baltimore/MD	12,383 acres
#10	York/PA	11,139 acres

York County's Board of Commissioners assembled their first Ag Preserve Board during the summer of 1989 to begin the work necessary to reduce the trend of alarming farmland loss and ensure that viable agriculture remains in this county. From the Census of Agriculture, between 1987 and 1992 York County lost 26,187 acres of farmland to non-agricultural land uses. York County Ag Preserve Board received authorization from the PA Department of Agriculture in August of 1990 to operate the Conservation Easement Program and evaluate applications for development right's purchase.

Every York County board of commissioners, since the program began, has supported this effort and recognized the vital importance of protecting our agricultural resources. York County has invested approximately $3 million toward the program, while the state has spent $16,448,879 to date in York County.

The Farmland Preservation Report is a monthly report owned, written, and edited by Deborah Bowers, Bowers Publishing, 900 La Grange Road, Street, MD 21154, (410) 692-2708.

The Dreisbach's Wilderness prefix is well known in Jersey breed circles. Wilderness Chief Allure EX-94 with 8y 23,146m 4.5% 1,036f 3.7% 874p is the matriarch of a premier cow family that has descendants around the world. Allure's daughter, Wilderness Duncan Grace is also EX 91 with 3y 17,420m 5.7% 986f 3.9% 675p and is the dam of Wilderness Big D at Select Sires and Wilderness Gambler at ABS.

And while this family of cows is the best known, other excellent and very good cows in the herd help make the top rolling herd average of 17,078m 796f 636p.

Because Bob was often working his veterinarian practice, the dairy farming fell to Helene. "My background is not in dairy, but we bought a Jersey heifer and then more were added," Helene said. "Soon we had animals scattered all over Bob's client herds. So we had to decide what we were going to do. In 1970 we found this place and we have been milking Jerseys for 27 years."

Overlooking the Long Meadows homestead, Bob Dreisbach harvests forage for winter.

Bob's version of the story is about the same except he reports that the reason they have Jerseys is because Helene said if she was going to be stuck with the milking, she wanted cows she could see over.

Obviously, for whatever reason they started with Jerseys, the breed has benefited from their efforts over the years. Official records were kept, and if a daughter of a young Jersey bull came out good in the proofs, bull stud representatives and foreign buyers would come to the farm. In addition, they like to attend the state and national conventions and this helped give their cows name recognition. They sold good animals in the breed sales and they flushed their good cows. Their first herd average was in the 8,000 range so they have doubled herd average over the years.

Today, they are not pushing the cows as hard. Rotational grazing concepts have given the farm a more relaxed atmosphere. According to Bob, the cows have better personalities and general health has improved.

For young people who want to get into the dairy business, Bob and Helene have some definite advice."So many young people have the enthusiasm, but they have not been taught to manage debt," Bob said. "You must operate with less debt, and don't forget living expenses."

Bob also has a pet peeve about milk prices. "If milk were priced at the value of the steel that goes into the farm machinery we buy, we would have $6.00 per gallon milk."

But because New Zealand can produce milk for $7.00 to $8.00, higher U.S. milk prices will work against exporting on the world market. If we need $11.00, we can't compete on the world market. And many of the countries that need the milk can't afford to pay for it. So it must be a gift. But here at home, even California's milk prices are lower than ours in the East.

In the future, the Dreisbachs believe young farmers will find a local niche in the market. And with the reduced cost of rotational grazing, they hope these young people can treat their farm like a business as well as a farm because they love the land and the cows.

With a painting of their most famous cow, Wilderness Chief Allure EX94 that was presented at the recent state Jersey convention, Bob and Helene Dreisbach were honored with the distinguished service award.

Helene Dreisbach moves the white electric tape and the beautiful Wilderness Jersey herd moves right into the new lush pasture with enthusiasm.

Meeting To Feature Pesticide Storage

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Pesticides are effective crop management inputs when properly used. However, each step of pesticide handling — from transportation, storage, mixing, loading, application, to cleanup and disposal of wastes — presents potential water pollution and human health problems.

According to Jerry Martin of Penn State Cooperative Extension with the Pequea-Mill Creek Project, "When chemicals are not stored and handled correctly, water quality and human health can be put in danger." Chemicals can escape from the farm directly into the groundwater through wells or skinholes at the farmstead or flow into surface water.

According to Frank Lucas with the Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS) in the Pequea-Mill Creek Project, one practical and economic option for safely storing pesticides is a small pesticide storage shed that can be located at a safe place on the farmstead away from potential fire damage or unauthorized pesticide use.

One of these small pesticide storage sheds will be featured as part of the New Holland Pesticide Update Twilight Meeting on July 14 at 7 p.m. on the Gene Martin farm, 224 Eastern School Road, New Holland.

"This small pesticide storage shed," said Lucas, "allows the farmer to store all chemicals on the farm in one place that is used exclusively for pesticides."

The well-ventilated shed on the Martin farm includes a sealed storage cabinet, shelves, plastic trays to store chemical containers, protective clothing, pesticide application records, and pertinent resource information. The shed is locked and marked with appropriate warning signs. In addition, the shed is located at a mixing site that minimizes potential health and pollution problems in the event of fire or accidents. Lucas notes that local volunteer firemen are especially concerned about fighting fires where pesticides are stored.

Schaefferstown Sets Antique Tractor Show

A part of the crowd last year watches the tractor pulls at the Schaeferstown Antique and Classic Tractor Show.

The Schaefferstown 7th annual Antique and Classic Tractor Show is scheduled to be held Friday and Saturday, July 11 and 12. Starting time both days is 9 a.m. The featured tractors this year are Case with antique tractors 1943 and earlier; and classic tractors 1944 to 1960. Trophy to prize tractors for oldest featured and best restored.

On Friday, the morning is acquaintance time with the parade of tractors starting at noon. In the afternoon, the tractor contest start at 1 p.m. and weigh-in starts at 3 p.m. The tractor pulls start at 5 p.m.

On Saturday the tractor contests include tetter-totter, slow race, and crank up. The awards are presented at noon, and team pulling for fun and the raffle toy drawing are scheduled for the afternoon.

The public is invited to bring the whole family and enjoy the fun. For more information call (717) 866-2618 or (717) 866-4697.

Hatfield Awards Trips

Three hog producers have won a trip to the Pork Quality Summit in Des Moines, Iowa as a result of drawings held during the recent informational meetings held by Hatfield Quality Meats. The trip includes airfair, lodging and registration. The national meeting covers topics on the imperative need to satisfy the customer in all areas of quality issues. The two day conference will be held July 8 and 9.

In making the announcement of the winners, Duff George, supervisor, livestock procurement at Hatfield said the company wanted to show its committment to the quality assurance program by awarding these trips.

Winners are John Waltz, Hagerstown, Maryland; Otto Schick, Kutztown; and Jay Sensenig, Annville.

State Vet School Offers Llama, Alpaca Lecture

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — Following the overwhelming success of the "Introduction to the Llama Lecture" which took place May 15, the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine will offer a second free course for llama and alpaca owners at New Bolton Center (NBC) in Kennett Square, on Thursday, July 10 at 7 p.m.

While this course is free, reservations are required and must be made, as space is limited.

Please call the Communications Office at NBC (610)-444-5800, extension 2182 for further information and reservations.

"Reproduction in Llamas and Alpacas" is to be taught by Dr. Sylvia Bedford, and cover the basic reproductive principles of llamas and alpacas and the handling of these camelids for breeding management.

In addition, Dr. Bedford is to discuss how veterinarians can help owners in evaluating reproductive problems for diagnosis and treatment. The program is expected to last an hour.

Dr. Sylvia J. Bedford graduated from the Veterinary School in Barcelona in 1991 and received her MA in equine reproduction at Colorado State University (1991-1993). Dr. Bedford went on to attend Tufts University (1993-1996) as a resident in internal medicine. Her special area of interest is in llama and alpaca medicine and reproduction.

She currently teaches courses in llama and alpaca reproduction at both the University of Pennsylvania and Tufts University. At present, Dr. Bedford is doing her residency in reproduction at the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine.

The lecture will take place in the Woerner Amphitheater of the George D. Widener Hospital of New Bolton Center. Parking is free. New Bolton Center is located at 382 West Street Road, Kennett Square.

USDA Announces New Conservation Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Eligible Pennsylvania farmers can now apply for funding to correct local natural resource problems in 20 selected watersheds, said Janet Oertly, state conservationist for the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

The USDA NRCS office in Pennsylvania received $3.4 million to administer to fund projects through the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP), newly authorized in the 1996 Farm Bill.

EQIP is a voluntary program that provides financial assistance of up to 75 percent of the cost to install or apply certain conservation practices.

Some of the conservation practices include grassed waterways, filter strips and manure storage structures.

Incentive payments can be made to encourage producers to manage certain resources such as manure and nutrients. The program is limited to agricultural and livestock producers.

Eligible land includes cropland, forestland, and pasture.

"This program will help producers address some of the most critical natural resource concerns, such as soil erosion, water quality and quantity, wildlife habitat, and wetlands," Oertly said. "More productive croplands, cleaner water, and better wildlife will benefit all Pennsylvania residents."

This fiscal year, 65 percent of the cost-share funds are to be targeted toward local resource issues in the 20 selected watersheds, while 35 percent is to be targeted for two statewide resource concerns — crop production and livestock and poultry production, according to Oertly.

Producers can apply for assistance until July 11 at any local office of the NRCS, as well as any office of the USDA Farm Service Agency, or local state Conservation District.

The application periods for cost-share funding for projects within the specific watersheds are to be announced locally. Contact a local office of the NRCS, FSA or Conservation District to find out the application times.

As background, local groups made up of representatives of federal, state and local agencies and interested natural resource organizations submitted suggested areas for consideration for funding.

The 20 watersheds (considered "geographic areas"), and the statewide resouces concerns were then selected by Oertly in conjunction with the State Technical Committee and state office of the USDA FSA.

These selected areas have significant soil, water, or related natural resource concerns, according to Oertly.

Since most of the funding will be distributed to fund projects in the targeted geographic priority areas, producers within these areas have a better chance of receiving funding, Oertly said.

A conservation plan is required for all EQIP contracts, which run from five to 10 years.

NRCS and county conservation district staffs are to provide the technical and educational assistance producers need to apply or install conservation practices based on their conservation plan, Oertly said. The plan is to describe conservation and management practices to protect soil, water, air and/or related natural resources.

EQIP is USDA's largest conservation program designed to conserve and improve land while it remains in agricultural production. It replaced older and some other conservation incentive programs, and has an annual budget of $200 million through 2002.

A list of the specific watersheds targeted for priority funding, and the respective allocation of $2,240,000 to be spent in the watershed during 1997, includes Pequea-Mill-Octorara at $151,000; Neshaminy, $76,500; Tulpehocken, $141,500; Little Swatara, $121,500; Maiden, $121,500; Pigeon-Pike, $76,500; Shenango, $151,500; Middle Youghingheny, $81,500; Sugar, $136,500; Crooked-Cowanshannock, $136,500; Clarion, $101,500; Lake Erie, $151,500; Evitts, $36,500; Codorus, $121,500; Jordan, $76,500; Chickies, $126,500; Conodoquinet, $116,500; Muncy-Chillisquaque, $116,500; Shamokin-Mahanoy, $76,500; Cowanesque-Genesee, $121,500.

The rest of the funds to be used to address issues of statewide concern is $1,204,000.

F.O. 4 May Milk $13.25

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Rex F. Lothrop announced a May 1997 weighted average milk price of $13.25.

The weighted average differential price was $2.65 per hundredweight and the producer nonfat milk solids price was 82 cents per pound. The weighted average price was down 31 cents from April and was 80 cents lower than a year earlier.

The producer NFMS price was down 36 cents from last May. The nonfat milk solids price, applicable to handler payments, was $.8259 per pound for the month, down 36.20 cents from last year.

The gross value of May producer milk, adjusted to 3.5 percent butterfat was $82.5 million, compared to $71.7 million a year ago.

Mr. Lothrop said that producer receipts totaled 625.2 million pounds during May, an increase of 112.5 million pounds from last May and the average daily delivery of 3,724 pounds per producer increased 174 pounds or 4.9 percent from a year earlier.

A total of 5,416 producers supplied Order 4 handlers during the month, an increase of 757 from a year ago. Class I producer milk totaled 260.7 million pounds and was up 40.8 million pounds, or 18.5 percent from last May.

Class I milk accounted for 41.71 percent of total producer milk receipts during the month, compared with 42.90 percent in May 1996.

Dairy Futures In The Dairy Industry

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A new fluid milk contract holds promise, but dairy producers and processors should be cautious if they use the new dairy futures market as a price risk management tool, said Cameron Thraen, Ohio State University agricultural economist.

While futures contracts for corn, wheat, soybeans, beef, pork and other agricultural commodities have been available for many years, the cheese and fluid milk contracts are relatively new.

Dairy farmers can avoid much of the risk of cash prices falling before their milk is ready to sell by hedging in the futures market or entering into a forward price contract with a processor. In return, dairy farmers give up the chance of hitting the jackpot should prices rise.

Hedging offers producers a more stable, guaranteed return by shifting the risk of price change off to a speculator, Thraen said. Dairy handlers and processors also can protect against adverse price changes on raw milk inputs and finished products.

But to be a useful price risk management tool, the commodity prices on the futures market must reflect the changes that occur on the cash market. This doesn't always happen with new contracts and hasn't happened with raw fluid milk contracts that began trading in December 1995 on the Coffee, Sugar and Cocoa Exchange and in January 1996 on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, Thraen said.

"Both of these original fluid milk contracts were not a good way to hedge price risk, because there was not a reliable link between the two markets," he said. "If cash prices go against you, there's no guarantee the futures contract would work for you, which is the essence of a hedge."

The fluid contracts include a physical delivery provision that has caused problems. When the contract is up, actual delivery of milk has to take place between the seller and the buyer. Someone who has agreed to take delivery could end up with tanker trucks of milk and have no idea what to do with them, Thraen said.

To solve this problem, the CSCE began trading a new fluid milk contract on April 8 with a cash settlement provision. This new contract — a Basic Formula Price or BFP contract — differs from the original by allowing the contract to be settled between parties in dollars for what the milk is worth, rather than worry about giving or receiving actual milk.

"This new contract is exciting to watch, and there has been a lot of activity with it," Thraen said. "This activity could be an indicator that the trading community thinks the new contract has corrected the problems of the older ones."

But, the new contract has only been trading for a little more than a month, and producers should be cautious with a contract that has been trading for such a short time, he said.

A cheddar cheese futures contract has traded on the CSCE since June 1993, and, in contrast to the early fluid milk contracts, is performing well. Thraen's research at Ohio State shows there has been a good tie between the price changes on the futures market and the cash market for cheese. It appears this contract may be a good way to manage price risk for cheese processors, Thraen said. He is currently investigating alternative strategies processors could use on the cheese futures market.

The dairy industry turned to futures contracts as a way to hedge against variable prices after governmental price supports for dairy essentially ended with the passing of the 1996 farm bill. The federal government had stabilized milk prices since 1949 by either buying surplus dairy products when prices got too low or selling surplus dairy products from federal stocks when prices went too high.

"Today's milk prices are much more variable than they used to be," Thraen said. "As the government gets more and more out of dairy price risk management and support, it is important that the dairy industry learns to use the futures market to manage price risk."

Once the new fluid milk contract has been around long enough and Thraen is confident the futures prices reflect the activity of the cash market, he plans to research what strategies dairy producers should follow to effectively hedge their price risk.

Northeast DHIA Offers Quicker Access To Component Results

ITHACA, N.Y. — Northeast DHIA, a perennial leader in providing timely herd management data, now offers its members dairies quicker access to milk component results. Herds that sample for SCC can receive Northeast DHIA's SCC Quick Sheet as soon as the samples have been analyzed.

The SCC Quick Sheet consists of two reports. The first report lists all cows with a linear score value of 4.0 (200,000 raw count) or greater, listed in order of highest linear score to lowest. The second report lists all cows sampled in milking pen order, with averages for each pen and averages for the entire herd. In addition to SCC, both reports also list Barn Name, Pen, Lactation Number, Days In Milk, Pounds of Milk, Percent Fat, Percent Protein, Linear Score, Previous Linear Score, and Average Linear Score for the Lactation.

What makes the SCC Quick Sheet unique is that it can either be mailed or faxed to members directly from the milk analysis laboratory. For most members, this means having component results within 24-48 hours of when the samples were taken.

Dairy One assured, Northeast DHIA Farm Services strives to provide more substance to its members dairies. For more information about the SCC Quick Sheet, contact Northeast DHIA Farm Services at 1-800-344-2697 ext. 1.

Show Set To Break Records

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Entries are in and the 1997 National Junior Limousin Show and Congress in Louisville, Ky. July 7-12 has all the makings to break records and become the largest Limousin junior gathering ever held in the United States.

All told, show entries have been recorded for 416 females, 44 steers, and 21 bulls. Those numbers could made the show the largest National Junior Limousin Show ever held.

"It is exciting to see this many young people showing enthusiasm for Limousin and the cattle industry," said George Hubbard, North American Limousin Foundation (NALF) director of junior activities.

The 258 exhibitors will bring together 28 states for competition in shows and satellite events, including public speaking, sales talk, cow camp and judging contests. States will also compete in the Limousin Beef Cook-Off, herdsmanship, and booth contests.

For more information on the National Junior Limousin Show and Congress or the Limousin breed, contact NALF at (303) 220-1693 or e-mail at NALimousin@aol.com.

ENB has been a part of Ephrata since 1881 This building at 110 East Main Street was the Bank's home from 1884 until 1925

My calendar has 365 days

Although I am new to Ephrata National Bank, ENB is not new to me In my 26 years of agricultural lending, mostly in Lancaster County, I came to respect ENB as a tough competitor for quality agricultural loans

ENB has been providing loans and other banking services to farmers since 1881 Many of the philosophies that helped ENB enjoy more than a century of growth are as important today as they ever were Take the way we calculate interest on loans The traditional way to calculate interest on a loan is to use the number of days in a year, which on my calendar is 365 Many, if not most, lenders use a 360-day year

What does that mean to you? Well, on a $100,000 loan at 8½% (the current prime rate), your interest bill at ENB would be $8,500 If you paid interest on the basis of a 360-day year, your loan would cost you $8,618, or an annual difference of $118

If you prefer the traditional way we calculate interest, give me a call We've got lots to talk about against the blue mold.

Anderson and Yocum said to a group of at least 150 that the strain of blue mold currently in Lancaster County is believed to be a Ridomil-resistant variety that is also believed to have been introduced a month ago through two shipments of transplant-size tobacco plants from North Carolina.

Ridomil is also a fungicide, which had been approved for use in seed beds for tobacco. A new version of the fungicide, Ridomil-Gold, has not been approved for use in seed beds because some blue mold has become resistant.

Some businesses in Southern states such as Florida and North Carolina have developed that emphasize raising tobacco plants in floating seed beds.

The seed bed medium floats above water and the moisture is wicked up to the seed and plant. The warm, and constant moisture environment presents optimum conditions for the growth of fungus. Ridomil use allowed growers to use the floating beds to produce a higher number of quality tobacco plants for sale for transplanting into fields.

However, with the constant and widespread use of Ridomil in the floating beds, the blue mold developed resistance.

Therefore, the newer version of the fungicide can no longer be used in seed beds, although the remaining stocks of the older version of Ridomil are still labeled for such use.

During a spring tobacco meeting, Yocum and Anderson had warned local growers about purchasing and using transplants that may possibly carry the resistant variety of disease.

Apparently, their warnings were not completely heeded.

Yocum said that while blue mold is not a surprise disease in the area, the traditional variety (which continues to be controlled by Ridomil in the field) normally only appears in the state later in the season.

He explained that the microscopic spores of the blue mold become airborne and travel north and east, carried with storms.

The prevailing wind patterns in North America usually take the shape of a giant "U" stretching from the Northwest down south through the Mid West or further, and then back up into the Northeast.

Through the seasons, the postion of the "U" changes north and south across the continent. The "U" generally travels north and south, as the earth changes its relationship to the sun.

Here, in central Pennsylvania, sometimes storm systems travel off the East Coast farther south and sometimes farther north.

Sometimes the northeast direction of the "U" remains to the west of central Pennsylvania, taking a course up the Ohio Valley, through northwest and northcentral Pennsylvania.

Blue mold cannot tolerate cold temperatures and only overwinters in southern North America, such as in wild tobacco in Texas, in southern Florida, in Cuba, and in South America, Yocum told the group.

The spores (the "seeds" of fungi are called spores) are carried with the wind and generally creep north and eastward as the "U" dips farther south as the summer progresses.

Some years central Pennsylvania is spared, other times not.

States involved with tobacco production have long recognized this relationship between the spread of airborne disease and weather patterns and have set up a reporting system, so that the spread of disease can be anticipated and growers can take appropriate action.

Ycoum said that some of the other states involved with monitoring diseases have also had the disease, though they have both types, resistant and nonresistant.

The nonresistant variety is usually the first one to show up, carried by the winds and storms. It was not yet detected in Pennsylvania and the weather was recently not conducive to its movement here.

That is part of the reason why officials believe the blue mold was transported into the state through contaminated tobacco transplants trucked into the state.

Yocum said that this year the fungus appeared very early in Florida and jumped north.

"We would have gotten it anyway, because it travels with storm fronts," Yocum said. "All (that happened with transporting infected plants) was hasten development of the disease."

In order to fight this fungus, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture petitioned for and received emergency approval for the off-label use of the Acrobat MZ fungicide.

According to Yocum, most of the transplants from North Carolina did have the blue mold. Since then, Anderson said he has been on 50 to 60 farms and said he can find it in almost every seed bed.

He said that if the rains come as had been forcast that it could soon be everywhere in the county.

It started raining during the meeting.

Nonirrigated fields in the region have been very dry, causing some spiking of corn. That has kept the mold from becoming widespread in fields.

The mold spores can fall with the rain and need the moisture on the surface of the tobacco leaf in order to grow.

The disease causes spotting and browning of leaves and the damage is irreparable, though the fungicides can stop further damage.

According to Yocum, there are two fungicides that can be used — Dithane DF as a preventative, and Acrobat MZ which has preventative and limited systemic properties.

(Dithane is in the mancozeb family and it is also in Acrobat MZ.)

The systemic properties of Acrobat MZ can kill the mycelium (the actual body of the fungus that is generally not seen) in the plant and thus has some curative properties, but it's only systemic locally.

Both Acrobat MZ and Dithane DF have strong preventative properties because they kill the spores when they land on the leaf.

The fact that the main strategy for fighting blue mold depends on interacting with the disease on the surface of the plant means that spraying techniques need to ensure complete plant coverage.

Sprayers will probably need to have different nozzles and arms attatched in order to effectively coat the plant.

Many of the tobacco growers in the region use mule power, and Anderson and Fleming rigged Beiler's boom sprayer to tackle eight rows.

Keys to Success for Controlling Blue Mold in Tobacco with ACROBAT MZ

- ✓ Initiate ACROBAT MZ applications as recommended by the Blue Mold Advisory
- ✓ Use ACROBAT MZ in a preventative foliar spray program to manage blue mold
- ✓ Direct application of ACROBAT MZ to the plant (not the soil) and provide thorough coverage over leaves and bud of plant
- ✓ Use hollow cone or disk-core nozzles to break spray into small droplets for thorough plant coverage
- ✓ Use multiple nozzles per row that direct the spray over the entire plant
- ✓ Add drop nozzles as the plant grows to insure thorough plant coverage
- ✓ Use high volume sprayer
- ✓ Spray pressures greater than 100 PSI provide the best results
- ✓ Spray only as many rows per pass with the sprayer as the equipment will effectively deliver fungicide to the target leaves.
- ✓ Make application to dry foliage ACROBAT MZ is rainfast in 3 hours
- ✓ Keep the spray interval close (5-7 day intervals) under strong disease pressure
- ✓ Refer to ACROBAT MZ product label for complete application and rate details

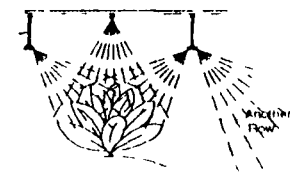
Application Rates and Timing for Blue Mold Control with ACROBAT MZ in Field Grown Tobacco

Weeks of Growth After Transplant	Rate of ACROBAT MZ (Pounds of Product/Acre)	Water Output (Gallons/Acre)
Recently transplanted to 3 weeks after transplanting	0 5	20
3-4 weeks after transplanting (knee high)	1 0	40
4-5 weeks after transplanting (waist high)	1 5	60
6-7 weeks after transplanting (chest high)	2 0	80
7 weeks after transplanting and beyond	2 5	100

Note Above directions are for dilute sprays If concentrate sprays are used, adjust rate and volumes proportionately

Application to Small Plants (transplanting up to 3 weeks)

- Use one hollow cone nozzle over the
- row and one on each side of the plant
- Apply 20 gallons per acre of water volume
- Spray at pressures above 60 PSI to achieve good droplet dispersion



The Cost Of Spray Nozzle Conversion

This cost information for converting to cone spray nozzles to ensure top and bottom tobacco leaf protection when spraying the Acrobat MZ product was compiled by Lancaster County Penn State Extension Agent Robert Anderson and Mike Fleming, with American Cyanamid, makers of Acrobat MZ. Compared to the value of the crop, the cost for purchasing the proper spray heads is miniscule. While the specific spray head manufacturers are in no way endorsed by Penn State, these were selected because they will perform the job. In addition, according to John Lake, with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Bureau of Plant Industry, while Acrobat MZ was similarly approved for use against blue mold last year (though it wasn't really needed because weather patterns protected the area), it was approved this year with the stipulation that spraying equipment provide complete plant coverage. The Acrobat MZ has only local systemic properties and new tobacco plant growth is not protected unless it too is sprayed. Acrobat MZ stops sporulation, and thus can stop the blue mold, which is believed to be a variety already resistant to another common fungicide, Ridomil.

with 38-inch centers that align with the plant rows, Fleming replaced the flat spray pattern nozzles with nozzels that create a hollow cone pattern.

Between the top sprayers set on 38-inch centers, they added 15-inch drop arms (which made the sprayer have 19-inch centers).

Except for the end drop arms, each drop arm was fitted with a two-head "T" with cone nozzels.

The drop arms travel between the plants and spray into the sides of the plant.

The cone shape of the spray provides two edges from top to bottom to dispense the liquid.

The plant gets hit with the first edge of the cone as the sprayer travels down the rows, and again with the back edge of the cone as is passes by the plant.

Adaquate pressure is needed to ensure a proper spray mist to form, and Flemming, who demonstrated the boom sprayer and discussed sprayer considerations, said that with the high pressures required, that a high percentage of the sprayer pump's power rating can be used up in achieving the proper spray and rate of flow.

Since both are wettable powders, they need to have constant agitation in the tank.

He said that, considering the slow rate of travel in the field with the sprayer in order to achieve adequate coverage of the plant, as well as the reduction in turbulance in the tank caused by the high pressure load on the pump, that farmers should consider stopping occassionally to allow proper agitation.

The advice to spray once per week was a general recommendation because, if the weather returns to the 90s and is hot and dry, the mold may become somewhat dormant. That could perhaps extend the interval between spraying by up to 10 days or possibly two weeks.

However, weather is the determining factor.

Both Acrobat MZ and Dithane DF have to be reapplied after a heavy rain. They will wash off, though it has to be a hard rain.

Acrobat MZ will stay longer if allowed to dry properly. If also allowed to dry first, Dithane DF will also not wash off immediately.

In making a decision to spray before a rain of afterward, it was recommended that spraying should precede the rain, because the storm that brings the rain brings the mold spores.

Acrobat MZ requires a drying time of three hours before rain in order to stick to the plant. If rain is forcast for the evening, and there is apparently time to apply it before it starts, Fleming said to go ahead.

As a caveat however, he did recommend waiting until the spraying conditions were appropriate — low wind, plant dried off from morning dew, etc.

The officials answered specific questions from some members of the group.

One grower asked if aphid control insecticide could be mixed, in order to reduce the number of trips through the field.

With the emergency use of Acrobat MZ, it cannot be mixed with any other agent or chemical, other than water, Orthene or Thiadan. That includes fertilizers and adherhents ("stickers").

Dithane DF can also be mixed with Orthene or Thiadan.

Furbane had been labeled for use and is still labeled, and is recommended in seed beds, but the Dithane DF and Acrobat MZ perform better in the fields.

The special use of Acrobat MZ is limited to a total of 10 pounds per acre. Further, Fleming said that stocks of Acrobat MZ may be limited, though he said he is not saying that to create a rush on purchasing it.

While half pound per acre applications of Acrobat MZ are suggested for young plants, 2.5 pounds per acre are recommended when the plant matures.

Since frequent applications of Acrobat MZ could possibly result in reaching the 10-pound per acre limit before the plant is topped, it was suggested that using both fungicides alternately may help in managing the disease while staying in compliance with restrictions.

The decision of when to use either should be made depending on weather conditions and how that relates to the mold-and its active spore formation.

Acrobat MZ stops sporulation, while Dithane DF does not.

New leaves that appear on plants since the last spraying are not protected. They need to be sprayed.

There is also a 30-day harvest restriction on the fungicides.

However, Yocum said that, for reasons not yet understood, once the tobacco plant is topped, the blue mold ceases its damage and is no longer of concern, even though it's in the plant.

Farmers were also asked to destroy the plant beds as soon as transplanting has been finished. Plowing or discing was recommeded. All plants in the bed have to be killed to stop the blue mold.

(Since blue mold does not overwinter, seed and plant beds with blue mold this year will not be contaminated next year and can be used without fear.)

If there is blue mold visible in the beds, it is giving off spores and can be a source for spreading the disease into fields. If sporulation conditions are present, Acrobat MZ can be used to stop the spore-producing activity.

The blue mold apparently is not confined to Lancaster County, and Lebanon County crops agent Delbert Voight said he had discovered it in some farmers' fields, but had not been aware that it was the resistant variety and that Ridomil would be ineffective.

Tour Shows Farms Changing With The Times

COLUMBUS, Ohio — When Lee Hatfield and his brother Gail decided to return to their father's northwest Licking County farm in 1994, the small Ohio dairy operation was in for some major changes.

Since 1995, they've built a new 64-foot by 264-foot barn, installed a state-of-the-art milking system, hired two full-time and nine part-time workers, and expanded the dairy herd from around 50 cows to more than 250.

The Hatfield 7 Dairy Inc., is the last of four stops on Ohio State University Extension's "Meeting the Challenges for Tomorrow's Agriculture Farm Management Tour," Aug. 19 in east-central Ohio.

"It was time to really get bigger or get out of farming, because the operation was not big enough to support all of us," Lee Hatfield said.

The Hatfields examined their farm and decided that of dairy, beef and crops, the dairy was the best option for expansion. Grain farming was not possible because most of the land around the 160-acre farm was either getting developed or rented to other farmers, Hatfield said.

"In our situation, if we were going to continue to farm in our area, expanding the dairy was the only way that was feasible," he said.

The Hatfields will share the decision-making process they went through to expand their operation during the Farm Management Tour. Employment practices, personnel performance review procedures, development of a mission statement and strategic plan, division of managerial responsibilities, and estate planning issues will all be discussed on this stop. A bed and breakfast on the Hatfield farm also will be open for tours.

The other tour stops are Lynd's Fruit Farm at 10 a.m., The Links at Echo Springs at 11 a.m., and SBC Recycling and Shredded Bedding Corporation at 2 p.m. The Hatfield dairy tour will begin at 3:30 p.m.

"This farm management tour features four progressive farm businesses that have undergone major changes in business operations in the past few year," said Howard Siegrist, agriculture, natural resources and community development agent at the Licking County office of Ohio State University Extension.

"They are adapting or diversifying their operations with the changing community to increase profits, allowing other partners or family members to be brought into the business."

Lynd's Fruit Farm is Ohio's largest fruit farm with more than 350 acres of fruit. The farm corporation includes non-family members as business owners and must respond to a changing market through planning and business decisions, Siegrist said.

The SBC Recycling and Shredded Bedding Corporation started shredding old newspapers for livestock bedding in 1993 and has expanded into brokerage and recycling of many materials. Grants from the local solid and waste district allowed the business to get on its feet, and it now has five full-time employees.

The owner, Lynn Hatfield, is Lee Hatfield's uncle and had been part of the family dairy farm and grain operation for 30 years.

The Links at Echo Springs is rolling farmland north of Granville that has been turned into an 18-hole golf course. Brothers Larry and Tom Bruce had a dairy and grain operation on the land for 30 years before selling the dairy. Larry acquired business investors and began planning the course, while Tom continued to farm and established a beef feeding operation. Larry Bruce will share the joys and frustrations of shifting roles from a farmer who relies on little outside labor to his new role as an owner who works with business partners, Siegrist said.

"This tour will talk about the side of agriculture that most people don't often think about — how to get along with people, motivate people and bring out the best in people," Siegrist said. "Corporate America spends gobs of time on how to manage people, but small businesses haven't put much thought into it. It's important."

The Farm Management Tour will begin with a continental breakfast at 9 a.m. at Lynd's Fruit Farm. The farm is located north of Pataskala, just east off of state Route 310 on Morse Road. Lunch will be served at Echo Springs.

The program is free to participants, with costs covered by sponsors — Ohio State University Extension, Ohio's Country Journal, the Licking Soil and Water Conservation District, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture Natural Resources Conservation Service.

People interested in participating should register with the Licking County office of Ohio State University Extension by Aug. 1. For more information, call the Licking County office at (614) 349-6900.

Making Milk With Less Saturated Fat

WOOSTER, Ohio — Dairy products are important sources of nutrients in the human diet, but consumers sometimes perceive them to be unhealthy sources of fat and cholesterol, said Don Palmquist, an Ohio State University animal nutritionist.

To encourage consumption of dairy products, Palmquist and his colleagues at Ohio State's animal sciences department are working to modify the saturated fat in milk, while maintaining protein content — and taste.

Palmquist, who works at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in Wooster, said that when fed certain diets, cattle will produce milk that is lower in fat and higher in protein.

"The issue here," Palmquist said, "is that because of concerns for saturated fat and cholesterol content of milk, persons avoiding dairy products miss an important source of calcium and high quality protein. Because of this, we're working to modify the saturated fat of milk, while maintaining the protein content to encourage consumption of dairy products."

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, dairy products, excluding butter, contribute about 12 percent of the toal fat in the food supply. Milk and milk products provide 50 percent of the calcium consumed each day.

"People shouldn't stop drinking milk," Palmquist said, "or their nutrition may be compromised."

Dairy cattle are fed diets containing whole cottonseed, whole soybeans or tallow. These additives contribute to the cow's energy, increasing milk production.

"There is a limit to the quantity of vegetabe fats which may be fed to dairy cattle because the unsaturated fat may decrease digestion of forage. Specially manufactured fat products like Megalac have made their way into the marketplace," he said.

Megalac is a special form of fat marketed by Arm and Hammer and created by Ohio State researchers. It's a high-energy nutritional supplement which can improve milk production while maintaining a cow's body weight. Many cows can't reach maximum milk production because they lack enough energy in their diets. Megalac increases the energy density of the ration without decreasing fiber digestion. It causes more consistent milk production and less weight loss in cattle.

"If the normal saturated fat content in milk is 45 percent," Palmquist said, "we can alter the rations to lower that to 30 percent."

Palmquist said there are negatives to feeding for higher protein and higher unsaturated milk fat.

Consumer complaints may occur — unsaturated milk fat may develop an off-flavor taste in dairy products. Feeding whole soybeans may increase the polyunsaturated fat levels of milk fat by 60 to 100 percent, he said. "The polyunsaturated fat may become oxidized, giving the milk an oxidized flavor."

Palmquist is one of a number of researchers who have joined a regional research project to study how to change milkfat composition.

"There are several ongoing projects," he said. "Researchers from different areas of the country are working on the biochemistry of how the cow makes milk fat; others on cow feeding and the amounts and kinds of fats that produce the best end product; others are studying what effects modified milk fat composition will have on the quality of dairy products like cheese, yogurt and ice cream."

Palmquist said the dairy industry is also involved in the project — from feeding to milk quality to processing.

"The problem," he said, "is that milk comes from so many places and when a few farmers try something different, the results get lost in the masses."

Dairy Management Incorporated (DMI) located in Chicago, Ill., is one group now funding milkfat research.

"DMI has funded OARDC for a three-year study focusing on oxidized flavors and their connection to higher levels of polyunsaturated fat in milk," he said. "The regional project participants basically identify important questions and then use shared knowledge to develop coordinate research approaches."

Palmquist's role is to study the composition of milk. He's working on ways to feed fat to cows so that they function normally. He studies digestion in the rumen, factors that influence fat digestion, and quality of milk produced by feeding systems.

"It took us 20 years to develop Megalac," Palmquist said. And he feels it may take another 20 years to figure out the milk fat maze.

For now, Palmquist's advice is to tell people not to believe everything they read about nutrition.

"To be health-conscious, they shouldn't drop whole food groups from the menu. Someone with high cholesterol or other health issues should practice whatever habits are necessary to maintain health. Otherwise, adopting a balanced diet — including animal products — is the safest, healthiest and most enjoyable way to live."

TUESDAY, JULY 8

Your Host - Richard Enck, 26 Years Harvestore Experience!

Sam McComsey and Dale Umble

DALE & LOIS UMBLE, WILLOW SPRINGS FARM
SAM McCOMSEY, HERDSMAN

The Umbles have been farming with Harvestore structures since 1975 when Dale's father Vernon erected a 2080 for haylage. The herd is currently at 22,200 lbs. milk, 714 lbs. protein and 850 lbs. fat. Herd receives total mixed ration of haylage, cornlage, rye silage, a mix of high moisture barley and shelled corn (coming out of Harvestore structure mixed with their Power Sweep Auger unloader), roasted beans and supplement.

CLAIR & SCOTT MULL
MAR-MULLDALE FARMS

Clair and Scott's father Elam purchased the family's first Harvestore structure, for high moisture corn, in 1971 and it was replaced with a larger structure in 1992. Herd average is at 23,400 lbs. milk, 755 lbs. protein and 850 lbs. fat. Feed ration is a total mixed ration for one group, no top dress, of haylage, corn silage, high moisture grain and 40% supplement. The high moisture grain consists of a mix of shelled corn and recently harvested high moisture barley. A new Alliance™ unloader was installed in 1996.

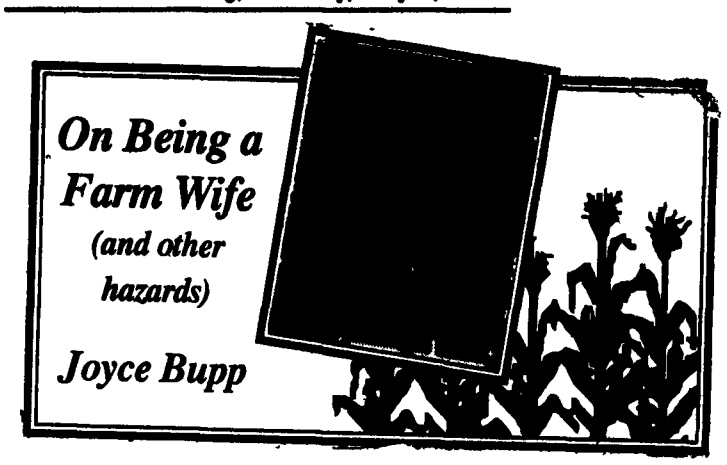
THE BEST TIRES IN THE WORLD HAVE GOODYEAR WRITTEN ALL OVER THEM



Well, it was predictable.

After a prolonged spring of windy, dry and chilly, we were fast-forwarded into the worst kind of heat, humidity and desert-like weather that we ever get around here. On the first day of summer. Appropriate, huh?

Unfortunately, in between those dramatic extremes, except for a few isolated spots in the area, it forgot to rain.

Some years, you can lay a seed or cutting on the ground, and conditions are so ideal that it roots on the spot. Untended and uncovered. Makes us gardeners puff up with pride, thinking we really have our skills honed.

Not this season. This one looks ominously like those we get occasionally that put us gardeners in our proper, humbled places. And we are reminded that just sticking something in the ground is no assurance it will grow.

My second planting of green string beans has finally come up. Some of it, anyway. The first attempt sprouted a total of five stalks in about a 20-feet-long row. Not a single one of the yellow wax beans germinated.

Old seed, you say? Could be, though I've kept other bean seed from year to year and it usually sprouts just fine. By comparison, the planting of sugar snap-type peas only came up marginally as well. And, that seed I purchased fresh and stuck in the soil within hours.

Likely, the lingering cold and damp rotted the earlier-planted seeds. Digging at several spots in the first bean planting yielded no traces of the white seeds. They had vanished. Zip. Gone.

And, the second batch has germinated only half-heartedly, with precious little moisture in the top few inches of ground to get them up and growing. In fact, there's not a whole lot of moisture there even if you go down several inches deep, a state of the soil that has farmers in our neighborhood growing more jittery with every day of pineapple-topped curling corn and bright, sunny, hot ... hot ... hot temperatures. Say, did we skip a couple of weeks and it's actually August?

We've done the drought-stricken summers around here more times than most of us care to remember. Been there. Done that. Don't care to do it again, thank you.

On the other hand, the volunteer stuff that shows up from year to year — even in a less perfect growing season like this one — never fails to amaze me. And it persists through the most inhospitable conditions.

Several years ago, I snagged a few cuttings of a tender, variegated vine from a good friend's porch box planters. They rooted, were coddled through the winter in the greenhouse and set out the following spring in a wooden barrel-half, in company with red geraniums. That continued for a couple of years, each fall I made sure to take a few cuttings to continue having this happily-growing, pretty vine.

Maybe it was the relatively warm winter, but there is presently a thick, three-by-five patch of the stuff growing where I never even planted it. I'd like to transplant a bunch of it to banks and garden corners, but it seems to thrive better left alone.

About ten years ago, I started a seed pack of cleomes. Cleomes are tall, somewhat gangly, flowers that bloom heavily with large, pink, white and lavendar bloom clusters, set lots of seeds and drop them profusily. I've not planted any since, but every year have recurring cleome volunteers in the garden, along with morning glories of the same eager willingness to replenish and reseed themselves.

And, last year The Farmer spent a few minutes at dusk a few evenings tending a small patch of wildflower seed he scattered on a steep bank of the little pond. By late summer, several plants had bloomed, including an annual poppy or two. After reseeding themselves, they make the prettiest patch of flowers on the place, with a couple of dozen stunning red and orange poppies, golden coreopsis, some sort of lavendar phlox and a few assorted unidentifieds.

Sometimes I suspect us gardener types just try too hard.

Train Plants To Compensate For Indoor Enviroments

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — While human beings can live indoors with low light levels and dank air, plants are another story entirely. Luckily, plants can be trained to better adapt to the rigors of indoor living, according to a horticulturist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Keeping indoor foliage plants alive has long been a challenge for plant lovers," says J. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture. "Too often, homeowners will bring a plant home from a greenhouse and put it inside, only to see it die within weeks."

Nuss says most plants must be carefully prepared for the light conditions inside a building before placing them in a home. He explains that plants need enough light indoors to maintain a slightly higher level of photosynthesis — the food manufacturing process in plants — then the energy the plant loses from transpiration, a process by which plants lose moisture through tiny openings in their leaves and stems.

"If a plant doesn't receive enough light it will begin to use up its food reserves," Nuss says. "This results in leaves dropping off the plant, which means a loss of chlorophyll necessary to maintain photosynthesis. Without adequate light, plants will decline and then die."

Nuss points out that plants can be trained to accept lower levels of light by acclimatizing, or gradually reducing their light levels to the point that comes closest to an indoor environment. "But acclimatizing plants is not a quick process," he warns. "Depending on the plant, the process could take up to 15 weeks."

Nuss recommends starting a plant in a sunny spot and then slowly moving it to areas of lesser light every few weeks. "Once the plant has stabilized, you can provide the necessary light with incandescent or fluorescent lights," he says. "Indoor light sources can give off a lot of heat, so remember not to place the light too close to the foliage."

Nuss says that incandescent lights, which given off much more heat, should be placed toward the ceiling, directly over plants. Fluorescent lights, which are cooler, can be placed closer to foliage and within smaller spaces.

"The indoor environment is tough for plants," Nuss explains. "Even tropical plants native to darkened jungles can have problems. In general, however, plants with thick leaves adapt better to indoor conditions."

'Rich' Contestant Clinches Cumberland Crown

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Kristen Heberlig of Newville was chosen as Cumberland County's 1997 Dairy Princess during the 30th annual pageant held at the Embers Convention Center here.

Heberlig, who is the daughter of Gary and Donna Heberlig, was chosen from among two competitors. The other hopeful was Tisha Myers, the daughter of Donald and Tammy Myers of Carlisle.

It was a hard choice for the judges.

A main portion of the contest required each of the contestants to answer a question.

Heberlig's question was, "How do you expect to benefit personally if you are selected as the 1997 Cumberland County dairy princess?"

"I feel it will build character and help me to be more confident talking to groups," Heberlig answered. "I will be a representative in my field of tourism."

Heberlig is a junior at Shippensburg University, where she is majoring in tourism, geography, and regional development.

The question that was asked of Myers, who is a junior at Big Spring High School, was, "How do you react to being a farmer's daughter?"

"I think it's great," she replied, "You learn so many things about animals and agriculture that you couldn't learn anywhere else."

Each contestant also had to give a speech.

Heberlig's was titled "The Wealth of a Dairy Farmer."

She talked about farmers who learn many lessons that money can't buy, such as the value of hard work and perseverance.

The support and cooperation farmers learn through work also helps them in their marriages, Heberlig said. They learn respect for the earth as well, along with values like responsibility and honesty, she said.

"Yes, I'm very rich, maybe not monetarily, but rich in many other ways," Heberlig concluded.

Myers titled her speech, "Why Milk?"

She told about how milk is an important source of protein and how it builds a healthy body. Also, Myers talked about all the milk products there are, from cheese to yogurt, ice cream, and cottage cheese.

The new dairy princess was crowned by outgoing Princess Heather Lehman.

As the 1997 princess, Heberlig will be able to draw on her experience of living and working on her parents' 170-acre dairy farm off Enola Road.

Myers also is an agriculture veteran who will hold the title of the county's alternate dairy princess. She is an FFA member who has beef cattle, dairy heifers, and 50 laying hens.

The county's dairy maids for 1997 are Heather Brown, the daughter of James and Vonda Brown; Rebecca Cornman, the daughter of Steve and Debbie Cornman; Julie Fulton, the daughter of Robert and Rebecca Fulton; and Sonya Rinker, the daughter of David and Linda Rinker.

EASTON, Md. — Crafters with "oldtime" farm and homemaking skills are invited to demonstrate, show and sell their products at Tuckahoe Steam & Gas Association's 24th annual show on July 11-13.

Colonial farm and home oriented colonial crafts such as basket weaving, blacksmithing, broom making, cloth weaving, corn shelling, chair caning, decoy carving, flour milling, gun smithing, jewelry making, leathercrafting, metal working, net weaving, pottery making, quilting, rug braiding and hooking, sawmilling, shingle sawing, soapmaking, wheelwrighting, wheat threshing, wooden tool carving, wool carding and spinning and various other crafts are among those sought for demonstration. Craftpersons who would like to demonstrate their skills should write or telephone Pauline Neal at 230 N. Aurora St., Easton, Md. 21601 (phone 410-822-0909).

There will be a large flea market with antique and collectible items, as well as many other types of things available. Anyone wishing to sell in the flea market area may contact Toni Breeding at 410-820-2962.

The show is held at the association's showgrounds on Route 50, located 5 miles westbound from Easton, Md. Other activities will include horse pulling contests, an antique tractor pull, steam and gas engines and tractors in operation, train rides, gospel, country and bluegrass music and parades of antique equipment and autos.

Kate and Dale Thomsen at work in the sheep barn as son, Ean, husks sunflowers.

Behind The Scenes With Pennsylvania's First Milking-Sheep-Inspected Dairy

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

CLEARVILLE (Bedford Co.) — As Dale Thomsen picks up his hat and heads for the barn, the old Border collie goes into action. He knows it's time to milk the sheep.

At the signal, the collie is off to round up the Dorset/Rambouillet/Katahdin crossbreds for the evening milking.

Kate and Dale began their sheep milking/cheese making venture in the spring of 1995. "We read that America imports $45 million worth of sheep milk products a year so we know there is a market. At first we thought we might have bumped our heads," laughs this hardworking couple. "We couldn't get the sheep to cooperate. But, this year, things are going better."

"I got the idea from a magazine article," Dale explains. "We already had the sheep. The equipment, such as the milking machine, seemed reasonable, and I could build a lot of the necessities myself."

Dale's creativity is quickly evident as one notices an old sweeper canister complete with wheels being used as a feed container and feed being dipped to the sheep with a tuna fish can attached to a wooden stick.

"Dale can always think up a way to do something," Kate says proudly.

Thomsen's flock consists of 90 ewes plus the breeding rams although only 24 of the sheep are being milked.

"We can't really afford to buy sheep bred for milking like they have in Europe," Kate says. "The cost can be up to $8,000 per sheep. So, we are trying to cultivate our own by selecting the best milkers

Grassi Family Is Down To Earth

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

SCHELLSBURG (Bedford Co.) — "I always loved farming," says Jim Grassi of Schellsburg. "But, I would like to see a return to the old family farm."

Grassi, his wife, Paula, and their three children, Jim, Vince, and daughter, Michaela, moved to a 70-acre farm near Schellsburg about three years ago.

Since then, Jim has been returning the former unoccupied property to its intended purpose.

"We like having a little bit of everything," Jim explains. "And, I especially like raising vegetables."

During the summer months the two boys sell the Grassi homegrown watermelon, seedless watermelons, cantaloupse, peppers (hot and sweet), cucumbers, squash, sweet corn, and tomatoes, to passerby or the campers at nearby Shawnee State Park.

Jim raises his own tomato plants and offers vine-ripened tomatoes as early as Memorial Day.

Bringing his hot house with him from their former much smaller property in Altoona, Jim purchases early tomato plants from a Mennonite farmer. Heat is provided in the greenhouse by propane gas and a small furnace.

"The tomatoes are more work than most people would think," he says. "They have to be planted and staked. Because there are no bees early in the spring, I have to do the pollination. We water them every two days, fertilize with liquid fertilizer, and keep a constant check on the heat."

"You expect to get five or six pounds of tomatoes per plant," he continues. "Some people balk at the $1.50 per pound we ask for the produce, but if you are going to make a profit, you have to ask at least that much."

"I think people who grow things are more down to earth," Jim quips.

Excess items from the produce fields are taken to a local wholesale market.

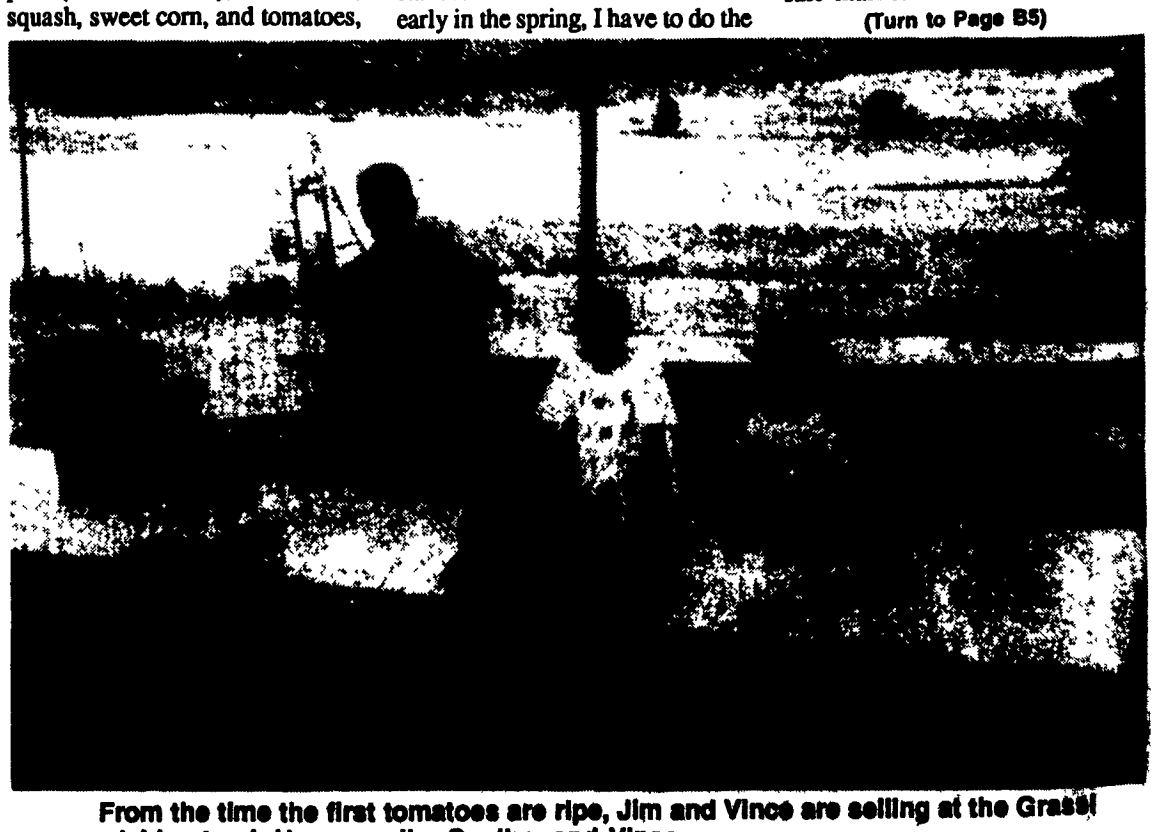
From field to market, the Grassi family works together.



From the time the first tomatoes are ripe, Jim and Vince are selling at the Grassi roadside stand. Here are Jim S., Jim, and Vince.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Behind The Scenes

and breeding their daughters."

"Unfortunately, artificial insemination still isn't feasible cost wise with milking sheep."

Each milking, twice daily from April through autumn, produces about 20 pounds of milk. Cheese yield is about 25 percent. Sheep milk sells for $55 to $75 per hundred pounds and the cheese sells for $10 a pound.

The sheep lactate for about 150 days total with milking being done for three months. Lambs stay with their mothers for 40 to 45 days.

Sheep milking dairies must be inspected and the Thomsens have the only inspected sheep dairy in the state of Pennsylvania.

It takes only 1½ to 2 minutes to milk each sheep.

Milk is frozen immediately after each milking and transported to a small family operation located near Harrisburg, twice during each season.

"Marketing is the most difficult phase," explains Kate. "We market almost any way we can. At first we gave cheese away and that brought us our best customers."

The Golden Eagle, an elite bed and breakfast/gourmet restaurant located in Bedford, is a steady customer.

A natural food store in Pittsburgh also purchases on a regular basis.

"Our biggest problem is that most stores will only buy from dealers," Kate says. "And, our quantity is a little too small for most dealers."

"Marketing is now our most important problem although word of mouth helps immensely."

All of the Thomsen sheep are pastured with additional hay being fed during the winter months. Lambs are moved to a fresh pasture daily. No chemicals are used on the pasture and no hormones are used on the lambs.

The only other feed is a tuna fish can full of ground corn and molasses which entices the sheep to enter the milking stanchions.

Fresh lamb is another product of the Thomsen farm. They are available from September through November and are sold by the half or whole lamb.

"Milking the sheep was just another way to get them to help pay the rent," Dale laughs.'

It is Dale's dream to one day have a cheese factory located in the county and a goal to which he is steadily working. "This is a large dairy area," he continues. "And, there are times when snow prohibits milk pickup or the cows get into the garlic, or various other reasons why milk can only go to the cheese factory. If it were located here, the profit could be much more substantial."

In addition to the sheep the Thomsens also raise chickens, which are kept in portable pens on pasture and moved daily to fresh grazing. They likewise receive no hormones or medications in their feed.

Chickens are also sold by word of mouth and mostly to individuals who want to stock up for their freezers.

Two children Ean and Niva complete the Thomsen family. Niva, born in January of this year, has already undergone several serious heart operations at the Hershey Medical Center but seems to be thriving at this point.

Visitors to the Thomsen farm are always welcome.

Since arriving in Bedford County, the Grassi family has already experienced a summer with little rain and a summer with constant rain.

"You have to learn to take the good with the bad," Jim admits. "And, this year, I was able to get my sweet corn in especially early and was glad to see it came up despite the dry spring weather."

The Grassi family was also glad to see Shawnee State Park open again after being closed for an entire summer due to some reconstruction of the dam. It affected all of the small "Mom and Pop" style businesses in the area.

In addition to the vegetables, the Grassi family had more than 100 laying hens providing fresh eggs at $1 per dozen.

There are 25 Yorkshire hogs and a small herd of feeder calves to which all of the food is raised on the farm. Excess hay is also sold throughout the year.

Checking the progress of the plants in the field. By early June, the tomato plants are large and bearing fruit.

In A Jam? Try These Jelly Recipes

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "I've never canned before but I'd like to try making jams and jellies" or "I've always made jelly, but I want the best method to make reduced sugar jelly."

These were a few of the reasons participants noted for attending the jam and jelly workshop held recently at the Farm and Home Center.

Extension home economist Nancy Wiker taught a morning and evening class to give the latest update on proper methods for jam and jelly making.

"Follow directions exactly. Jams and jellies are not forgiving when it comes to over and under cooking. Under cooking results in a runny mixture. Over cooking results in a gummy, stiff mixture," she said.

Unsafe practices

Several of the old-methods our mothers and grandmothers used for jelly making are no longer considered safe. Using paraffin wax to seal jars is considered an absolute no-no. Even the inversion method of sealing the jar by turning the filled jar upside down on the lid upside down for five to 60 minutes is frowned upon.

"A boiling water bath is needed to ensure a proper seal and to destroy all mold and yeast," Wiker said.

Any pinholes, shrinkage or cracks in the wax paraffin allow airborne molds to contaminate and grow on the product. In addition, leaks or holes in the paraffin can allow product to seep out during storage and once on the surface, it will provide nutrients for molds to grow on the surface and enter into the jam or jelly.

Some research indicates that mold growth on fruit products may not be as completely harmless as believed in the past.

When the inversion process does not work, the vacuum seals of filled jars tend to be weaker than those produced by a short boiling water canning process. The headspace of the jar may retain enough oxygen to allow some mold growth if airborne molds contaminated the surface of the product after it cooled below a temperature that would kill them on contact.

Water processing

If you have a canner, water processing is no problem. But novice cooks who are wary of investing money in equipment for fear they won't get their money's worth from the investment in case they don't continue making jam and jelly annually.

A make-shift canner can be devised by placing a rack in the bottom of a large kettle.

Preparing lids and jars

Wiker recommends using small glass canning jars and two-piece jar lids. Buy the exact amount or lids needed because the gumminess on the lid breaks down over several years and leftover lids may not give an adequate seal. Jar rings may be reused from year to year, but throw away rusty rings. Pour boiling water over the lids just before using.

A lid wand is a gadget that magnetically pulls the lid from the hot water to place on the jars. A lid wand is a handy tool that eliminates the possibility of touching the rubber seal or from burning your hands in hot water. Turn lids firm. Do not readjust after processing.

Old jars break quicker than new ones, especially if a pressure canner is used. Sterilze jars in a water bath canner for 10 minutes.

Freezing methods

Of course, you can save a lot of time, if you decide to freeze the jam and jelly instead of canning it. Freezing has distinct advantages. In addition to the time factor, the taste offers a fuller fresh fruit flavor.

When selecting fruit, stems of berries should look fresh.

RHUBARB JAM

1 box Sure-Jell
3½ cups sugar
4 cups rhubarb

cut rhubarb into ½ -inch pieces. Add ½ cup water. Bring to a boil. Add Sure-Jell and bring to a boil again. Add sugar and boil for 3 minutes.

FREEZER STRAWBERRY JAM
With Artificial Sweetener

1 quart clean strawberries
3-4 teaspoons artificial sweetener
1¾ -ounce package powdered fruit pectin
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Crush fruit in saucepan. Stir in sweetener, fruit pectin, and lemon juice. Bring to boil and boil for one minute. Remove from heat. Continue to stir 2 minutes, pour into freezer containers, cover, freeze. Thaw before serving. Store in refrigerator after thawing.

Great-tasting jams and jellies can be made without a lot of expertise and expensive equipment.

MICROWAVE FRESH STRAWBERRY JAM

4½ cups crushed strawberries
1 box regular pectin
7 cups sugar

Heat berries and pectin in 3-quart casserole. Stir well, cover. Microwave on high 8 to 10 minutes until mixture has full rolling boil. Remove cover, add sugar and stir well. Microwave at high for 8 to 10 minutes uncovered until it reaches a full rolling boil—then time for one minute of boiling. Skim off foam and stir for 5 minutes before filling sterilized jars. Process in boiling water bath for 5 minutes. Makes about 8 cups.

GRAPE JELLY WITH GELATIN

2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin powder
24-ounces unsweetened grape juice
2 tablespoons bottled lemon juice
2 tablespoons liquid artificial sweetener (Saccharin)
Yield: 3 half-pints.

In a saucepan, soften the gelatin in the grape and the lemon juice. Bring to a full rolling boil to dissolve gelatin. Boil one minute and remove from heat. Stir in sweetener. Fill quickly into hot sterile half-pint jars, leaving ¼ -inch headspace. Adjust lids. Do not process or freeze—store in refrigerator and use within 4 weeks.

An increasing number of families are finding getting into making their own jams and jellies can be a great thing to do.

No matter whether you are a novice or an old-hand at preserving fruit, always use up-to-date food preservation methods. One of the best sources for information is your county extension office. They have many free handouts with instructions and with recipes. In addition, a loose-leaf cookbook published by Penn State, "Complete Guide to Home Canning," is available for a charge at the extension office.

Another good resource is the "Ball Blue Book Guide to Home Canning, Freezing, and Dehydration." To order the guide by mail, send your request and $5.95 to Dept. NAP, Alltrista Corporation, P.O. Box 2005, Muncie, IN 47307-0005.

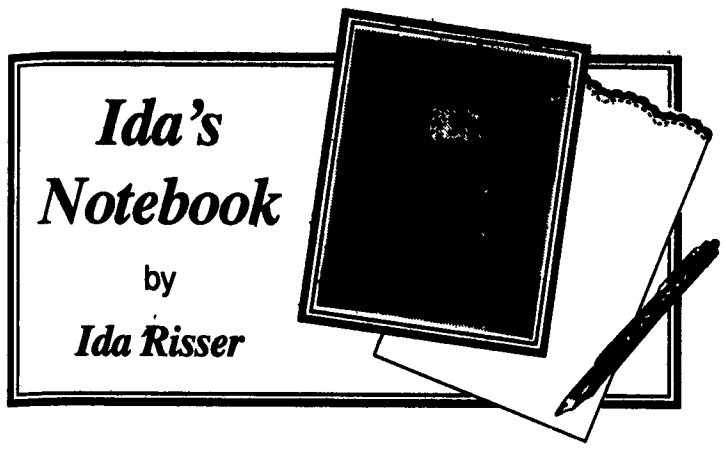
REFRIGERATED GRAPE SPREAD

2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin powder
24-ounces unsweetened grape juice
2 tablespoons bottled lemon juice
2 tablespoons liquid low-calorie sweetener
Yield: 3 half-pints.

In a saucepan, soften the gelatin in the grape and lemon juices. Bring to a full rolling boil to dissolve gelatin. Boil one minute and remove from heat. Stir in sweetener. Fill jars quickly, leaving ¼ -inch headspace. Adjust lids. Do not process or freeze. Store in refrigerator and use within 4 weeks.



July 4th weekend is usually a busy time for everybody. There are picnics to attend and family gatherings too.

As a child we celebrated with cap pistols and sparklers. We lived along a quiet road and so when a car passed, we shot our toy guns from a hiding place in the bushes.

Some years my parents took us to Owl Hill where we were on high ground and could see the fireworks in a nearby town. One year my father parked his 1923 Overland car too far off of the road and he could not get it out of the ditch — even when he unloaded his seven daughters. This is when some men living in the neighborhood simply lifted the car back on the road. I do not think that this would be possible with today's heavier cars. What an experience!

Some of the most beautiful fireworks that I remember were in New York City. This was in 1939 when the World's Fair was held on Long Island. I was with my younger sister and we watched a display of fountains and colored lights at nighttime with music in the background.

This year a family member will celebrate a wedding anniversary and has invited his relatives for a meal. As close relatives live in three different counties, they will travel together to the restaurant. Years fly by quickly and grandchildren are now the age that we remember our own children being not so long ago.

How they will celebrate this July 4th weekend 50 years from now is hard to imagine. Let us hope it is still a free country.

ANSWER — Christiana Nytz, Coopersburg, wanted a recipe for broccoli salad. Here are two from Anna Mae Nolt, Shippensburg, and Grace Glock, Fallston, Md. Thanks to additional readers for sending in identical or similar recipes.

Favorite Broccoli Salad

1 bunch broccoli florets
1 head cauliflower florets
8 bacon strips, fried and crumbled
⅓ cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped, seeded tomatoes
2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
⅓ cup sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar

In a large bowl, combine broccoli, cauliflower, bacon, onion, tomatoes, and eggs. Set aside. In another bowl, combine mayonnaise, sugar, and vinegar. Mix until smooth. Just before serving, pour dressing over salad and toss. Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Vegetable Toss Salad

1 head broccoli or cauliflower or a mixture
4 ounces cheddar cheese, cubed
1 onion, sliced in rings
4 slices bacon, browned and crumbled

Mix together in a 3-quart bowl and add dressing made of:

½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup sugar
1-2 tablespoons vinegar

Mix well and let stand in refrigerator at least overnight. Toss several times while salad is marinating.

ANSWER — Sarah Clark of Everett wanted recipes for a Preserved Cake; Mocha Fudge Brownies using mocha flavoring; and Cheesecake Fudge. No answers for this have been received, but here are recipes similar to the requests. Thanks to Heather Lehman, former Cumberland Co. Dairy Princess, for the peanut butter brownie recipe and to the American Egg Board for the cheesecake recipe.

Peanut Butter Brownies

½ cup butter
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
½ cup cocoa
2 eggs
½ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup creamy peanut butter
2 tablespoons butter, softened

Glaze:

½ cup confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons creamy peanut butter
2 tablespoons chopped peanuts
Milk

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. For brownies, in medium saucepan, heat butter over medium-low heat until melted. Stir in granulated sugar, cocoa, and eggs. Add flour and salt to chocolate mixture; stir until smooth. Pour into lightly buttered 8-inch square baking pan. Drop ¼ cup peanut butter by teaspoonfuls into batter. With a table knife, gently stir batter to create swirls. Bake 30 minutes or just until brownies begin to pull away from sides of pan and wooden pick inserted near center comes out clean. Do not overbake. Remove from oven; place pan on wire rack to cool completely. For glaze, combine confectioners' sugar and peanut butter. Stir in milk, 1 tablespoon at a time, to reach spreading consistency. Spread evenly over brownies. Sprinkle with peanuts. Cut into bars before serving.

Mocha Chocolate Cheesecake

2 tablespoons graham cracker crumbs
2 to 3 tablespoons espresso powder
1 tablespoon hot water
3 8-ounce packages Neufchatel cheese, softened
¾ cup sugar
6 eggs
¼ cup mini chocolate chips
Mini chocolate chips, as needed

Coat bottom of a 9-inch springform pan with cooking spray. Dust with cracker crumbs. Combine espresso powder with water; mix well. In a large bowl, combine cheese, sugar, and espresso mixture; beat until smooth. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in chocolate chips. Pour batter into prepared pan. Place pan in a large baking dish. Fill baking dish with hot water to a depth of one inch. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Remove cheesecake from water bath and let cool on wire rack. Cover and chill thoroughly before serving. If desired, sprinkle additional chocolate chips on top before serving.

Foxes Beneficial On Fruit Farms

GENEVA, N.Y. — Dave Gill, a research support specialist in Cornell University's Department of Horticultural Sciences, reported a sighting of a family of seven red fox pups on the Loomis Farm at the Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, N.Y. "They are quite bold when the mother is not around," he said.

Gill is an enthusiastic proponent of foxes in a farm setting — especially fruit farms.

"People don't stop to think about the good that foxes do in a farm setting," said Gill. "One adult eats hundreds of mice and rats yearly." Gill prefers gray foxes because they are less likely to get into a hen house. If chickens are not a consideration, he would encourage either red or gray.

At the Experiment Station, where there are about 700 acres of fruit and vegetables used for research and extension, foxes are important for the fruit farms in general, and the Rootstock Breeding Program in particular. Rootstocks — sometimes called "stool bed liners" — are propagated "stool beds," then the rooted sticks, called "liners" for short, are harvested in the spring, then grafted onto the desired variety.

"When foxes work the stool beds and orchards, we have very negligible damage to the apple liners and trees. This spring I found no damage. A couple of years ago, we had no foxes, a foot of snow cover, and extensive damage to stools and some damage to orchard trees even with mouse bait," Gill said.

"Foxes do a number one finish job in conjunction with a mouse bait control program," he said. "Last winter, you could see almost straight lines of footprints in the snow where a fox wove its way back and forth along every sawdust-mounded row of our stool beds by Preemption Road. They walk along and pick the voles out of the mound cafeteria-style and stash their catches of voles, rabbits, and young spring woodchucks in nearby sawdust piles."

Foxes are nocturnal and sometimes make hunting lodges in the Station sawdust piles because the piles are easy to dig and warm even when the roof is frozen.

The Station family of foxes is doing so well because Gill thinks they are dining on turkey. "A gray fox will not tackle a turkey unless the fox finds it dead; a red fox will."

For this reason, Gill believes grape growers would benefit from using foxes to guard the grapes.

"Some grape growers in New York complain there are too many turkeys and that they eat ripe grapes before they are weighed and counted on the yield trials. Even if a fox takes a few grapes for its services, it is a lot less than a band of turkeys will take," he said.

Warren County Holds Pageant

SUGAR GROVE (Warren Co.) — At the Warren County Fairgrounds on June 20, Debohah Callan, daughter of Frank and Lynette Callan of Sugar Grove, was crowned Warren County Dairy Princess.

Kristen Burch, daughter of Howard and Maryann Wilcox and of James and Beth Burch of Russell, was named alternate dairy princess.

Kim Kalika, daughter of Bill and Pam Kalika of corry was crowned dairy maide. Dairy ambassadors named were Jessica Gruber and Rebecca Gruber, daughters of Wayne and Joyce Gruber of Sugar Grove, and Augusta Upton, daughter ot Robert and Glenna Upton of Spring Creek.

Judges for the event were Rhonda Kieklah, 1995 state dairy princess; George Wilcox, Erie County Extension agent; and Sheri Sherman, Chataqua County Extension agent.

Jim Cowden, Warren County extension director, was master of ceremonies. Meridith Weiderspahn, 1996 state alternate dairy princess, made a special appearance and performed a skit for the audience.

Last year's reigning Dairy Princess Elizabeth Saunders of Sugar Grove, Alternate Deanna Walton of Spring Creek, and Dairy Maide Kristen Hitchcock bid the audience farewell.

Following the pageant, an ice cream social was held.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Here are several recipes sent in by readers. I'm uncertain what they are in response to since they were not marked. But I'm sure you'll enjoy these from Elmer Beiler of Gap and from Salome Fisher.

Sheet Cake

Bring to a boil:
2 sticks butter
1 cup water
4 tablespoon cocoa
Sift together:
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups sugar
Beat well and add:
2 eggs
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ cup buttermilk or sour cream
Beat and pour into large cookie sheet. Bake 20 minutes.
Frosting:
1 stick butter
4 tablespoons cocoa
6 tablespoons milk
4 cups confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Melt butter. Add cocoa and milk, bring to boiling. Remove from heat and add remaining ingredients. Beat well. Spread on while cake is warm.

Cheese Cake

Bottom:
2 cups graham crackers, crushed
½ cup butter, melted
1 tablespoon sugar
Filling:
1 package lemon Jell-O
1 cup hot milk
8-ounces cream cheese
1 cup sugar
1 large can evaporated milk
Whipped cream topping, if desired
Dissolve Jell-O in hot water, add cream cheese and sugar, whipped cream topping and milk until thick. Combine all ingredients. Pour into crust. Chill until firm.

Indian Pudding

¼ cup cornmeal, preferably stone ground
½ cup dry milk
2 tablespoons dry egg
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅓ cup molasses
Mix and pack into a small bag: cornmeal, dry milk, dry egg, salt, and cinnamon. Carry the molasses separately in a leakproof container inside a self-sealing plastic bag.
On the trail: Add 1½ cups water to the dry ingredients in a pot. Add molasses. Bring to a boil, then cover and simmer 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.
Let the pudding sit off the heat to cool for at least 10 minutes before eating it. Serve plain or with yogurt, milk, or cream. Serves 6-8.
Salome recommends making this for hiking.

Farm Safety Camp Warns Of Potential Dangers

MACKEYVILLE (Clinton Co.) — Despite cool temperatures and intermittent sprinkles, about 150 campers attended the second annual Centre-Clinton Farm Safety Day Camp held on June 7.

Ten safety stations were set up on the Clinton County Fairgrounds. Registration began at 9 a.m. for campers between the ages of 5 to 13. Participants moved from station to station to learn about farm safety from business professionals and community members.

Skid-loader safety was taught by Don Dunkle of Dunkle and Grieb. The campers were shown the built-in safety features of the newer models over the older ones. Safety features prevent the skid-loader from starting unless the seat belt is worn.

Food safety was presented by Sandy Hall of Clinton County Extension. Safety tips included: eat hot foods hot and cold foods cold, don't unthaw meat on a countertop and never use aluminum foil in a microwave.

First aid safety was presented by Julie Jackson. Each camper had brought with them a coffee can to use as their personal first aid kit container. Campers decorated the can and filled it with first aid items.

Wayne and Lisa Reeder of Dotterer Equipment gave the lawn mower demonstration. They stressed the importance of wearing proper clothing. No opened toed shoes or shorts. Protective glasses and goggles are encouraged. Do not have distractions such as listening to music while mowing. One of the most important things stressed was to check for foreign objects in the grass before beginning to mow.

The tractor safety program was conducted by Colleen Miller, who stressed that you must always wear a seatbelt and that the tractor, if it has no roof, should have a rollbar attached to prevent serious injury to the operator. No passengers should be hauled and never attempt to climb on or off the tractor while it is turned on.

Scott Owens conducted the ATV (all-terrain vehicle) demonstration by using a video and various safety laws. The legal age limit to ride on an ATV with an engine that is over 90 cubic centimeters is 16 years of age. To operate an under 90 cubic centimeters ATV, the operator must be 12 years of age. Younger than that, it is illegal. Riders must also wear proper equipment to ensure their safety: helmets, long pants, long sleeved shirts, protective eyewear, gloves, and boots. The ATV's tires are designed for off-road handling and not for paved surfaces. Absolutely no passengers.

The electricity program conducted by Stanley Owens, a Pennsylvania Power and Light representative, showed electrical dangers. A miniature display depicted two people being electrocuted when their kite touched electrical wires. Another display, showed people being electrocuted when they used a metal utensil to remove a piece of toast from a plugged in toaster.

Livestock safety was demonstrated by Dr. Don Anderson. He used a cow to show that all animals have an awareness circle of about two feet. When someone enters that circle, the animal becomes uneasy and tries to move away.

Fire safety was done by Kingsley Blasko and Kent Meyer of PEB Insurance. Campers watched a short video on fire safety. They were taught how to get out of the house safety when it is on fire. Each student received a t-shirt, two activity books that deal with fire safety, and a balloon.

Jim Ladlee, Clinton County Extension director, and Dave Snook, president of Clinton County Farm Bureau, gave the grain and gravity wagon safety program. Campers, in teams of two, were asked to retrieve a screw from a bowl of field corn. The object was to get the screw out of the bowl without putting more corn on it and without touching the screw and causing screw damage. This demonstration showed how hard it is to get someone out of a grain wagon.

After lunch a live demonstration was shown using a round baler and two dummies. This demonstration showed how quickly a person can be pulled into a machine if the machinery is shut off. The simple rule: Never work or go near machinery that is not turned off because it can easily catch clothing or a limb and cause death.

The safety camp was sponsored by the Centre and Clinton counties Farm Bureau, Penn State Cooperative Extension, Dotterer Equipment, and Dunkle and Grieb.

Don Dunkle discusses skid loader safety with some of the 5-6-year-olds.

Do luffas come from the sea?
Nope. The veiny, rough sponge people use in the bath to scrub off dead skin can come from your very own garden.
Luffas are a special kind of gourd that's related to cucumbers. Think about it. A luffa sponge is round and long, just like a cuke, and the pattern of the veins looks a lot like the pattern inside a cucumber. (Gourds also include squash and those fancy, hard-shelled melons you see in Thanksgiving centerpieces.)
The luffa grows on a vine all summer long. In the fall, the outer skin turns brown and the insides dry out. You can tell the guts are dry when you hear seeds rattle inside.
To get the sponge out, you first have to remove the stem and shake out the seeds. Then you soak the gourd in water until you can easily peel the skin away from the sponge. The last step is to soak the skinned luffas in bleach and water to turn the sponges into the creamy beige luffas you see for sale in the stores.
If all of this sounds like too much work for you, go with an easier option. Pick the luffas when they are about 6 inches long — and eat them, just like you would a cucumber!
Scientifically yours,
Twig

ENJOY BUSH FRUITS AND BERRIES

Gardeners can get a double barreled benefit out of "berry bushes" that might be associated with their forest lands.

The first benefit centers on the family fun of a berry picking expedition; the second will come when the berries are eaten in a pie, on cereal or "just plain."

Check the edges of woodlands, clearings in the forest, old fence rows or areas around old buildings for species such as wild raspberries, wild blueberries and huckleberries, blackberries and elderberries. Wild berries are smaller and "seedier" than their domestic counterparts but they are also unsurpassed for flavor.

A few points will make your expedition more pleasant. First, be sure you've identified the berries as edible, non-edible types do exist in Pennsylvania. Wear appropriate clothing. Slacks, leather boots or hiking shoes and a long-sleeved shirt will provide protection from briars and biting insects.

Use insect repellent. Nothing is quite as annoying as swatting a mosquito and spilling the berries in the process. After your hike, check for ticks.

Be on the lookout for snakes. Make a normal amount of noise and they will get out of your way.

Finally, watch out for members of your family that "pick into their mouth instead of into the bucket." There's one in every family. They eat all the berries they pick and return home and also eat the ones you picked — on their cereal.

If no woodland berries picking exists in your area, bush fruits (brambles) may be a good addition to your family's garden. Fresh raspberries, blackberries, gooseberries and currants are becoming more difficult to buy. Brambles can provide fruits for jams, jellies, wines and pines. The fruits can also be frozen.

Many garden locations are suited for growing bush fruits. The kind of bush fruit varieties that appear to be the best for Pennsylvania summer gardens include: Black Raspberry: Bristol, Cumberland, Jewel, Allen, Dundee, Haut and Blackhawk. Red Raspberry, Canby, Boyne, Reveille and Newburgh. Purple Raspberry: Brandywine and Royalty. Yellow Raspberry: Tall Gold and Goldie.

The currants and gooseberries generally begin bearing in three years while the other bush fruit may bear the second year. The time period between planting and setting fruit will vary by the kinds and varieties of bush fruits.

The average annual fruit yield per plant is about 1½ quarts or more for blackberries and raspberries. The plants will bear for 6 to 12 years. About 5 quarts of fruit can be harvested from currants and gooseberry plants over a 10- to 20-year span.

Schmelway Farm To Host Tioga County Farm-City Day

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Tioga Co. Correspondent

OGDENSBURG (Tioga Co.) — A Tioga County Dairy Farm will open its doors to visitors from across the state on Saturday, July 12, as they host Tioga County's seventh annual Farm-City Day.

Schmelway Farm, operated by Tom and Brenda Pepper and sons, Travis, Taylor, Andrew and Jonathan; and Brenda's parents Ted and Norma Jean Schmelzle, will be the site of the event which will begin at 11 a.m. The farm is located about 1/4 mile south of Route 414 midway between Liberty and Canton.

Schmelway Farm was founded in 1930 by Ted's parents, Maynard and Helen Schmelzle. After serving in the Army, Ted and Norma Jean moved back to the family farm and helped milk the herd of Holsteins. Today Ted and Norma Jean live about one mile East of Ogdensburg.

Ted and Norma Jean's daughter, Brenda, and her husband Tom, who was raised on a Holstein farm in Leroy, are now partners in the operation that covers 400 acres. During the years, many improvements were made to the facilities. The original barn was expanded in the early 1960s and additional ground was purchased.

Last year, the family decided to enlarge the dairy even more by adding a 58 by 132 feet free stall barn. The cows are still milked in the 50 cow tie-stall barn.

Tom noted that all the cows have adjusted well to the move, but they see an exceptional improvement in their heifers.

"The heifers are averaging almost as much milk as the older cows," he noted. "Last month on DHIA, the heifers averaged 64 pounds while the older cows averaged 66 pounds of milk."

"They just stand there and eat!" added Barbara.

The couple also added two trench silos. One is 30 feet by 150 feet and the other is 26 feet by 150 feet. These provide additional storage space for corn silage and haylage respectively. In addition two concrete stave silos are used for high moisture ground ear corn and high moisture shelled corn.

Feed for the cows is mixed in a 3,300 bushel capacity TMR cart, Much of the feed for the herd is grown on the farm, including 110 acres of corn, seven acres of oats, 300 acres of hay, and 35 acres of direct seeding. The direct seeding is usually with a mixture of alfalfa, timothy, trefoil, reeds canary grass, and clover.

"When the alfalfa runs out, the canary grass sure gives you the tonnage," Tom said.

The family now milks 120 registered Holsteins and boasts a herd average of 20,000 pounds of milk, 740 pounds of fat, and 636 pounds of protein. One hundred and twenty replacement heifers complete the dairy herd.

According to the family, some of the calves are kept on the farm until they are three months of age. Some are then moved to Ted and Norma Jean's nearby farm and some are custom raised by Benny Thompson.

When visitors arrive at the farm, they will have the opportunity to see how a farm operates from the inside, including the milking system, the feed storage facilities, and, of course, the animals.

Farm-City Day is sponsored each year by the Tioga County County Farm-City Day Committee to bring attention to the family farm.

"We hope to stress the importance of how society depends on farming and how many people are affected by the everyday decisions, products, and work of the farmer," stated members of the Farm-City Day Committee.

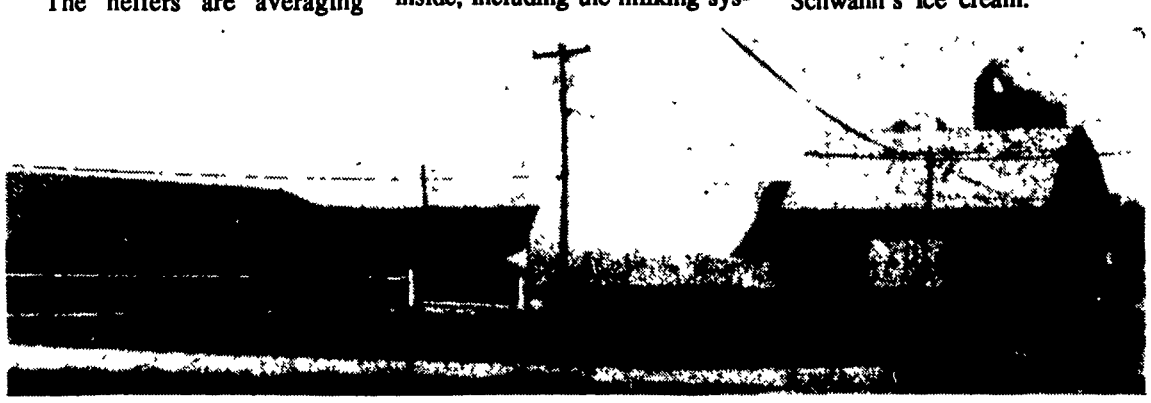
Brenda concurred with the idea of the committee and added, "I hope that people go away with an understanding of what farming is all about."

The day's events are free and include a pedal tractor contest and petting zoo for the youngsters, walking and wagon tours of the farm, logging demonstrations, many exhibits and demonstrations including sheep shearing and wool spinning.

Concession stands will prove to be popular stops as well, as various organizations offer hot dogs, sloppy joes, milkshakes, barbecue chicken, Moo Koolers, and ice cream and strawberry shortcake for sale.

One new event on the agenda is a farm auction to benefit Farm-City Day activities. The auction will be held at 2 p.m. Anyone wishing to donate items or in need of additional information should contact the Tioga County Farm Services Agency at (717) 724-4812.

Activities will conclude at 4 p.m. with the drawing of the grand prize—a one-year supply of Schwann's ice cream.



Visit this farm during the open house.

RED RASPBERRY SPREAD

5 cups crushed red raspberries
½ cup water
1 package no sugar needed pectin
1½ cups sugar
½ cup light corn syrup

Prepare home canning jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine red raspberries and water in a large saucepot. Gradually stir in pectin. Bring mixture to a boil, stirring constantly. Add sugar and light corn syrup, stirring to dissolve. Return mixture to a rolling boil. Boil one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim foam, if necessary. Carefully ladle hot spread into hot jars, leaving ¼ -inch headspace. Wipe jar rim clean. Place lid on jar and screw down band evenly and firmly until fingertip tight.

Process 10 minutes in a boiling-water canner. Yield: about 4 12-ounce jars.

RHUBARB JELLY

5 cups rhubarb
4 cups sugar

Boil together for 8 minutes. Add ½ cup cherry or strawberry Jell-O. The Jell-O will thicken it. Pour into containers. Cool and freeze.

PEACH-BERRY FREEZER JAM

1 cup crushed peaches
1 cup red raspberries
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 teaspoons vanilla
3½ cups sugar
½ cup corn syrup
1 package powdered pectin
¾ cup water

Prepare freezer jam jars and lids according to manufacturer's instructions.

Combine peaches, red raspberries, lemon juice, lemon peel, and vanilla in a large bowl. Stir in sugar and corn syrup; let stand 10 minutes. Combine pectin and water in a small saucepan; boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Add pectin to fruit mixture, stirring constantly for 3 minutes. Carefully ladle jam into freezer jam jars, leaving ½ -inch headspace. Adjust caps. Allow to stand at room temperature until set, not to exceed 24 hours. Label. Store in freezer. Yield: about five 8-ounce jars.

Sugar, pectin, acid

Use caned or beet sugars for best results. If you prefer to use honey rather than sugar, select a recipe specifying honey. Do not interchange sugar and honey in a recipe for jams and jellies because it will not work.

Jellies jell best if some acid is present. For this reason, many recipes specify lemon juice as an ingredient.

Pectin makes jam jell. It comes in both powder and liquid form.

A tablespoon or two of butter added to boiling fruit reduces foam. Foam should be skimmed off before filling jars.

Berry seed removal

To remove seeds from raspberries, puree the fruit in a blender, then pour the mixture through a coffee filter and allow to drip for four hours in the refrigerator. Juice may be frozen and made into jelly later.

What Is It?

Jam: includes small pieces of fruit.
Jelly: clear
Conserve: mixture of fruits, thicker than jams and jellies.
Preserves: whole fruit
Marmalades: citrus
Butters: apple, grape, pears, peaches, darker colored than fruit.

Problems?

Cloudiness:
- Ladling too slowly or too late which results in jelly setting up too fast. Because the jelly traps tiny air bubbles, it appears cloudy. Ladle jelly quickly and immediately into jars.

Gummy Jam or Jelly:
- Overcooking
- Too much sugar. Measure carefully using standard, level cup measurements.

Stiff Jam or Jelly:
- Fruit that is not fully ripe.
- Overcooking. Cook quickly for specified time over highest heat.
- Too much pectin or sugar.

Thin Jam or Jelly:
- Inaccurate measurements.
- Too much prepared juice or to much or not enough sugar.
- Increasing the recipe. Because it is difficult to get a full rolling boil with large quantities, never try to double or increase the recipe. For larger quantities, make separate batches and follow the recipe exactly.
- Judging set too soon. Some fruits like cherries, apricots, and plums, may take two weeks to reach a final set.

PEACH JAM

5 cups sliced peaches
6 cups sugar
1 can crushed pineapples

Mash peaches and cook together ingredients 15 minutes. Add 6 ounces Jell-O, peach or orange flavored. Stir until dissolved. Pour into jars and freeze or seal in boiling water bath.

A. Rissler

What Can You Do If Mixture Doesn't Jell?

You followed all the rules. You measured exactly. But the jam or jell is too thin. Don't despair.

First realize that the consistency of all fruit jellies and that of some jams is determined by the balance among three ingredients: sugar, acid, and pectin. The levels of acid and pectin vary greatly from fruit to fruits. Even the same kind of fruit will have different acid and pectin levels according to variety and to age: underripe fruit is highest in acid and pectin and will set easily, but may not have the flavor. You can increase the acid levels of fruit by added about 2 tablespoons lemon juice to two cups of prepared fruit before preparing the jelly. But if the jelly is already made and doesn't set, try this for those made with No-Cook Sure Jell:

Prepare containers.

Prepare pectin mixture by slowly stiring contents of 1 box Sure-Jell Fruit Pectin into ¾ cup cold water in small saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium heat; then boil 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

Prepare Trial Batch:
1 cup your jam or jelly
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon pectin mixture

Measure jam or jelly and the sugar into a bowl; stir thoroughly until sugar is dissolved, about 3 minutes. Add pectin mixture and stir until blended, about 3 minutes longer.

Quickly pour into containers and continue as directed in package insert. Store remaining pectin mixture covered in refrigerator.

If the trial batch sets satisfactorily within 24 hours, follow the recipe above, using the listed measures of sugar, and pectin mixture for each 1 cup of jam or jell. After preparing remainder of batch, discard any leftover pectin mixture.

Do not try to remake more than 8 cups jam or jelly at one time. To remake cooked jam or jelly made with Sure Jell Light Fruit Pectin, prepare glasses and lids.

Prepare pectin mixture by slowly stirring contents of one box Sure-Jell Light Fruit Pectin Mixture into 1½ cups cold water in small saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium heat; then boil 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

Prepare trial batch:
1 cup jam or jelly
1 tablespoon pectin mixture
2 tablespoons sugar

Measure jam or jelly, the pectin mixture and sugar into small 1-quart saucepan. Bring to a full rolling boil over high heat, stirring constantly. Boil hard one-half minute.

Remove from heat and skim off any foam with metal spoon. Quickly pour into glass or jar; cover and let stand up to 24 hours to check set of trial batch. Store remaining pectin mixture covered in refrigerator.

If trial batch sets satisfactorily, follow the recipe above, using the listed measures of pectin mixture and sugar for each one cup jam or jelly. Measure into a 6- to 8-quart saucepot. Bring to a full rolling boil as directed; then boil hard one-half minute.

Remove from heat and skim off any foam with metal spoon. Quickly ladle into glasses or jars. Seas as directed in package insert. After preparing remainder of batch, discard any leftover pectin mixture.

Participants at the jam and jelly workshop taught by Nancy Wiker at the Lancaster County Extension taste-test jellies made with reduced sugar and without sugar.

Jaime Luce Represents Wyoming And Lackawanna Counties

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — Jaime Luce wears the dairy princess crown for Wyoming and Lackawanna counties.

The princess is the daughter of Jim and Jeannette Luce of Meshoppen. At Elk Lake High School, Jaime is in tenth grade and is involved in many sports. At home, she helps fiwth the farm chores where she is in charge of feeding and training calves. She also built the pens for the calves. Jaime is an avid promoter for farm safety as the result of her father's injury when attacked by a bull. Jaime enjoys horse riding and art. She plans to make a career in photography.

Sara Gazzillo is the alternate dairy princess. She is also a tenth grader at Elk Lake High School. She helps on her parents' John and Kim Gazzillo's farm in Meshoppen.

Five dairy maids included Angela Adams, daighter or Robert and Rose Adams; amanda Anderson, daughter of Ronald and Laura Adams; LeAnne Newell, daughter of David and Lori Bennett; Brandi Smith, daughter of Leslie and Jeanette Cobb; and Karri Urpack, daughter of Joe and Betty Urpack.

At the pageant held recently at the Pink Apple Restaurant Alternate New York State Dairy Princess Melissa Osgood was the guest speaker and Pa. Guernsey Princess Charlene Shupp presented a skit.

A special award was given to Judy Johnson for her help in many agricultural causes and her work to further the image of dairy farming.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questons but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

Pilot Test

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Partners for a Safer Community began the national pilot test of the program's youth safety educational materials this month in Kansas City, Missouri. The group launched the pilot test with a two-day training of six community teams from Georgia, Pennsylvania, Texas, Utah, Washington and Wisconsin on April 12 and 13.

As a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Partners for a Safer Community is a national collaborative effort to promote agricultural youth safety and health through education, community development and youth leadership. To help accomplish this goal, Partners for a Safer Community compiled the instructional package — including adult and student guides, sample educational resources, a resource guide and a CD-ROM — for teaching youth safety to secondary and elementary school students.

For the next four months, participants will conduct local Partners for a Safer Community youth safety programs using the instructional package and will provide evaluation feedback. Program staff will use the pilot test results to strengthen the materials for training workshops in fall 1997 and for national distribution of the package of 4,000 communities by the end of 1998.

Major sponsors of Partners for a Safer Community are John Deere, Lorsban* 15G, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., and W.K. Kellogg Foundation. Contributing sponsors include the Equipment Manufacturers Institute, National Food and Energy Council and New Holland. Program collaborators include Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, National Farm Medicine Center, National FFA Organization, National FFA Foundation, Inc., National FFA Alumni Association, Inc., National SAFE KIDS Campaign, National Safety Council, National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, National Council for Agricultural Education, National Vocational Agricultural Teachers' Association, NYFEA — The Association for Educating Agricultural Leaders, Teaching Agricultural Safety to Kids and Cooperative Extension System.

For more information about the program, pilot test or instructional package, please contact Partners for a Safer Community, 4302 Carlisle Blvd. NE, Albuquerque, NM 87107 or send email to: jasess@aol.com.

Make Your Summer Meals Tasty And Healthy

Summer has finally arrived and with it our plans for barbecues and picnics. With Americans becoming more health conscious, the usual fare of hot dogs and hamburgers have often been replaced with lower-fat alternatives. People are selecting meatless burgers, poultry alternatives or extra lean ground beef and adding certain foods to "dilute" the fat and calories. Sometimes, though, the alternatives are not as lean as you might expect. It pays to read the food labels carefully when making comparisons.

To evaluate the summer picnic choices, let's first look at the nutritional analysis of hamburgers. A 3-ounce cooked, regular ground beef patty provides 245 calories, 18 grams of fat and 66 percent of calories from fat. A 3-ounce cooked patty made from extra lean ground beef has 215 calories, 14 grams of fat, and 58 percent of calories derived from fat.

By comparison, 4-ounce uncooked ground poultry provides anywhere from 120-210 calories, 0.5-15 grams of fat, and 4-64 percent of calories from fat. Precooked, meatless alternatives, such as soy burgers, give 70-215 calories, 0-8 grams of fat, and 0-45 percent of calories from fat.

One all beef hot dog link provides 150 calories, 13.5 grams of fat, and 80 percent of calories from fat. Mixed beef, pork, and poultry gives 150 calories, 13 grams of fat and 78 percent of calories from fat.

By comparison, beef alternatives have a range of 40-120 calories, 0-10 grams of fat and 0 to 75 percent calories from fat in one link. Mixed beef, pork, poultry alternatives give 40-110 calories, 0-8 grams fat, and 0-65 percent calories from fat per link. All poultry alternatives have a range of 40-130 calories, 0-11 grams of fat and 0-83 percent calories from fat. Meatless alternatives such as soybean dogs, yield 45-120 calories, 0-6 grams of fat, and 0-54 percent calories from fat.

If meatless alternatives do not sound appealing to you, there are other ways to make the burger or hot dog meal lower in overall calories and fat. The following list provides suggestions for your summer picnics:

- Make sure that you have plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables as side dishes.
- Keep the dips to a minimum or make them low fat by using nonfat yogurt.
- Load your plate with fresh fruits and vegetables.
- Top your burger or wiener with salsa, sprouts, sliced tomatoes, onions, and lettuce.
- Use sauces such as barbecue, hot pepper, soy, and Worcestershire. Watch the sodium levels, if you are hypertensive.
- Use portion control when forming patties. Stick with a 4-ounce raw patty that will cook down to a 3-ounce patty or the size of a deck of cards.

One other method to limit the fat and calories in burgers is to "dilute" the meat patty by using other foods as extenders. To each pound of uncooked ground beef, add one half cup of moistened bread crumbs. Or you may use a half cup of finely grated carrots, potatoes, or cooked and ground soy beans, or one cup of dry breakfast cereal. The following recipe demonstrates one way to dilute the fat and calories.

EGGPLANT HAMBURGERS
Makes 8 Patties

12 ounces extra lean ground beef
1 eggplant (¾ to 1 pound), baked, peeled and coarsely chopped
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 to 2 cloves garlic, minced
8 tablespoons whole-grain bread crumbs
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon tomato paste
2 teaspoons plain nonfat yogurt
Salt and pepper to taste

- Pre-heat broiler to its highest temperature.
- Thoroughly mix together all ingredients, reserving half of the bread crumbs. Shape the mixture into eight patties and dredge them on both sides in the reserved crumbs. (At this point, you can freeze any patties you won't be cooking now.)
- Broil on rack (over a foil-lined tray) 4 inches from heat for about 3 minutes on each side, until crusty on the outside and well done within. (To cook from frozen state, preheat broiler, then broil 2 inches from heat for about 5 minutes on each side.)

3½ -ounce burger provides 150 calories and 7 grams of fat.

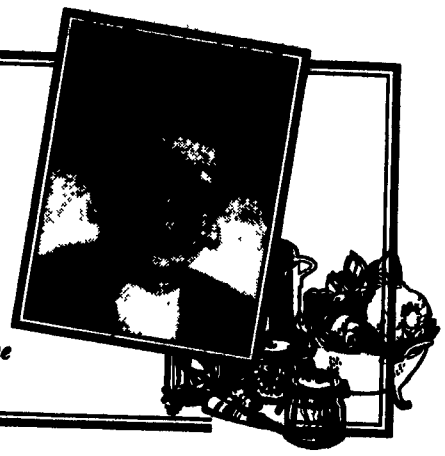
Consuming Thoughts

by

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Recently I've had several consumers ask if grilling meats or barbecuing poses a cancer risk? Some studies have suggested there may be a cancer link related to eating food cooked by such high heat cooking techniques as grilling, frying and broiling. The Food Safey and Inspection Service, USDA research findings indicate that eating moderate amounts of grilled meats like fish, meat and poultry cooked without charring to a safe, yet medium temperature does not pose a problem. To avoid charring, it is best to microwave meat until it is partly done and then immediately place it on the grill. Always remove visible fat from the meat that can drip on the coals and cause a flame-up.

Now let's take a look at the process for the safe preparation, cooking, serving and storage of grilled meats.

Defrost safely. Completey thaw meat and poultry before grilling so it cooks more evenly. Use the refrigerator for slow, safe thawing; microwave defrost if the food will be placed immediately on the grill; or thaw sealed packages in cold water.

Marinating. Some recipes state to marinate meat and poultry for several hours or days, either to tenderize or add flavor. Always marinate food in the refrigerator, not on the counter.

If some of the marinade is to be used as a sauce on the cooked food, reserve a portion of the fresh marinade. Don't put raw meat and poultry in it. Don't reuse the marinade used on a raw meat or poultry unless it's boiled first to destroy any bacteria.

Cooking. Some people like to cook food partially in the microwave, oven or stove to reduce grilling time. Pre-cook immediately before grilling to destroy bacteria.

Meat and poultry cooked on a grill often browns very fast on the outside. Use a meat thermometer to be sure the food has reached a safe internal temperature, and cut into the food to check for visual signs of doneness. Whole poultry should reach 180°F; breasts, 170°F. Juices should run clear and flesh should not be pink. Hamburgers made of any ground meat or poultry should reach 160°F, or be brown in the middle with no pink juices. Beef, veal and lamb steaks, roasts and chops can be cooked to 145°F. All cuts of pork should reach 160°F.

Never partially grill meat or poultry and finish cooking later. Cook food completely to destroy harmful bacteria. When reheating take-out foods or fully cooked meats like hog dogs, grill to 165°F, or until steaming hot.

Keep hot foods hot! After cooking meat and poultry on the grill — at home or on a picnic — keep it hot until served. Keep the cooked meats hot by setting them to the side of the grill rack, not directly over the coals where they would eventually overcook.

At home, cooked meat can be kept hot in a 200°F oven, in a chafing dish or slow cooker, or on a warming tray. After cooking, hold hot foods at 140°F or warmer.

Serving the food. When taking food off the grill, don't put the cooked items on the same platter which held the raw meat. Any bacteria present in the raw meat juices could contaminate the safely cooked meat or other grilled foods.

In hot weather (90°F and above), food should never sit out for more than one hour.

Handling leftovers. At home store leftovers in the refrigerator or freezer within two hours of taking food off the grill. Leftovers that have been off the grill for less than one hour can be safely transported home in a cooler — if there's plenty of ice in it.

Discard any food left out more than two hours (one hour in hot weather).

Farm Wife Is Runner-Up In Mrs. Pennsylvania Contest

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lisa Lapp was selected the first runner-up at the Mrs. Pennsylvania Pageant in Lancaster, June 22. She was one of the 10 finalists in the Sunday evenings pageant held at the Hotel Brunswick. In addition to being named the first runner-up, she was awarded Community Involvement Award and also tied for the aerobic wear competition. Lisa's husband, Duane, escorted her on stage and her children sang Disney songs as part of the entertainment for the evening. Lisa is very pleased with her placing and says although it was no easy task, it was too much fun to be hard work.

If for any reason the winner Robin Ronco, of Denver, cannot fullfil her obligations Lisa will be expected to fill in. Lisa will be doing appearances throughout the year for the Mrs. PA Pageant and for the Make A Wish Foundation, this year's charity chosen by the pageants director. Lisa would like to thank all of her sponsors and supporters and realizes if not for their mental, physical, and financial help, this experience of a lifetime would not have been possible. And most of all her greatest supporters, her family, for so much love, advice and guidance.

WE HAVE STIR AERATOR TO HELP WITH

BIG PERFORMANCE...SMALL PRICE

SIMPLE PROCEDURE: the aerator works directly into the bed of material, forming its own windrow. Windrows can be formed from piles of nearly any size. Alleyways are not required when using the Brown aerator, so there is a great reduction in space requirements. The aerator's reverse rotation works the material from the bottom up and to the side, assuring complete mixing and agitation. LOW MAINTENANCE: the aerator is a simple design, the principle as a material mover has been proven with over 30 years experience in practical application. The aerator is hydraulically driven and equipped with patented wearplates or paddles, both of which are easily replaced.

QUESTION — Michele Mackie wants to buy Dark Shadows items from the 1960s-1970s. She wants to replace items from the gothic soap opera that she had as a child.

ANSWER — A reader from Douglassville wanted to know if someone can give an idea of how much an 1843 quilt made by G. Christman from Hereford Township in Berks County might be worth. Thanks to Arnold Lewis, Conestoga, for answering. He writes that "A Checklist of American Coverlet Weavers" records three coverlets made by G. Christman for 1842-1894. The quickest way to find the value would be to bring the quilt to an antique dealer or auctioneer familiar with woven coverlets and ask him to appraise it. Popularity of the weaver, date of the coverlet, colors, pattern, wear and tear, moth holes and general attractiveness are all factors that can establish the price. Prices range from $25 to thousands, but is almost impossible to appraise sight unseen.

ANSWER — Ronald Bennett, Victor, N.Y., writes that he is a member of the Feedsack Club. If you have an interest in old cotton fabric or cloth sacks, you can join the clug. Write to Jane Clark Staple, 255 Starr Ave., Apt. 16, Pittsburgh, PA 15202 or (412) 766-3996. Anna Lue Cook, author of "Textile Bags," in Germantown, TN, has the Flour Sack Underwear poem printed in her book. The author gave permission to Bennett to use it.

ANSWER — Robert Greaser's request for a wood stove that heats water was previously answered. However Albert Green writes that he has the perfect stove to sell reasonable.

ANSWER — Thanks to Lisa Krasowski, Williamstown, N.J., for answering the request for dehydrated vegetables. They are available at San Franciso Herb Co., 250 14th St., San Francisco, CA 94103. Phone 1-800-227-4530.

Save Money

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Rutgers Cooperative Extension is encouraging New Jerseyans to save or reduce debt by $2,000 by the year 2000. Where is the money going to come from? Below are a dozen ideas:

1. Refinance Your Mortgage. Consider doing this if you plan to stay put long enough to recoup the cost. For example, a no-points refinance costs about $1,000. Trading a 8.75%, $100,000, 30-year mortgage for a new loan charging only 7.75% would ave $70 per month ($840 annually) and pay for itself in just 14 months.

2. Get a Cheaper Credit Card. Call RAM Research (800-344-7714) for an inexpensive list of low-rate and no-fee credit cards. Transferring a typical $2,000 balance from an 18% card to a 10% card would save $160 a year in finance charges.

3. Bring Your Lunch and Snacks. That can of soda you buy every workday for 75 cents costs $188 a year. Buy 12 store brand cans on sale for $3 and you'll save $125. Do the same for inexpensive lunches and you'll save several hundred dollars per year.

4. Slash Food Expenses By 10%. Do this by buying fewer snack foods and "impulse" items and making better use of store and generic brands, coupons, and price breaks. Consider joining a warehouse club (e.g. BJs) for additional savings. Trimming a $100 weekly food bill by 10% to $90 would save $520 a year.

5. Get Discounts. Many products and services (e.g. insurance, hotels, car rentals) have discounts ... but only for consumers who ask. Asking the question "is this the best price available?" frequently should save at least a hundred dollars annually.

6. Be Patient. Waiting for things to go on sale, instead of purchasing at full price, should save several hundred dollars.

7. Get a Long Distance Telephone Savings Plan. Savings will vary, depending on your calling habits, and you may have to make calls at designated times. Nevertheless, the savings can be impressive. It a plans saves $20 a month, that's $240 a year!

8. Get An Insurance Analysis. You may be paying for unnecessary coverage or missing valuable discounts. Ask an agent to review your policies. If you are paying several thousand dollars a year for insurance (all types), some savings probably exist.

9. Shop "Alternative" Vendors. Inexpensive sources of toys, tools, appliances, clothing, and home furnishings include flea markets, garage sales, thrift shops, and consignment stores. Possible savings? Hundreds, maybe thousands, of dollars.

10. Earn More On Savings. Don't let existing savings languish in a 2% to 3% bank account. You're losing money after inflation and taxes. Move this money to a CD or money market fund to earn a higher rate of return.

11. Slash Bank and Investment Fees. Avoid banks that charge high fees or require large minimum balances on low-yield accounts. Shop around for a better deal. Ditto for high brokerage firm commissions and mutual fund expense ratios.

12. Get a Match. If your employer offers a 401(k) plan, save enough to earn the maximum employer match. Unlike the proverbial "free lunch," this deal is too good to pass up.

ANSWER — Janet Grove, Airville, wanted to know where to find Sugar 'n Spice herbs and spices, which were sold at home parties at one time. Thanks to Lois Pfautz who writes that the address is Sugar N Spice, Rt. 741, Strasburg, PA 17579.

ANSWER — Mary Ann Reich wanted to know of an inexpensive cleaner for an electric range with a porcelain top. Thanks to Betty Light, Lebanon, who writes that baking soda and a damp rag cleans porcelain enamel, copper, silver, etc. Ruth Heckman, Mercersburg, writes that she uses a cleaner conditioner approved by Corning Glass Works. The cleaner conditioner is usually available wherever flat top stoves are sold.

ANSWER — Doris Rayna, Stewartsville, N.J., wanted parts and assistance with a Gearhart hand-cranked knitting machine that was manufactured between 1900-1930 in Clearfield, Pa. She writes that Deb Fisher, Stewartstown, sent parts, manuals, and instructions.

ANSWER — Joe Jedju, Pemberton, N.J., wanted the name and phone number of a butcher who slaughters, dresses, and packages chicken and goats in his area. Thanks to the person who recommended Bringhurst Meats, Berlin, N.J.

ANSWER — Roy Wright, Newville, wanted information from someone who makes or sells new egg cartons in the one dozen size. Joe Jedju, Pemberton, N.J., recommends Nasco, 901 Janesville Ave., P.O. Box 901, Fort Atkinson, Wis 53538-0901.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know where to buy large curd cottage cheese like what was sold by A&P stores. Thanks to Salome Stoltzfus, who writes that it is sold by Weis/Big Top Market (717) 392-6512.

Sullivan Dairy Princess

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

DUSHORE (Sullivan Co.) — "I am very proud and honored that I will represent the dairy industry in 1997," said a newly-crowned Kristina Pardoe of Forksville.

The daughter of James and Dottie Pardoe, Kristina is used to being in the limelight. Last year she served as the Sullivan County Alternate Dairy Princess. Prior to that she served as a Sullivan County Dairy Maid.

She also comes from a family full of dairy promoters who have farmed the land at Pardoe Brother's Valley View farm for 197 years.

"I'd like to thank the Sullivan County Dairy Committee for giving me this opportunity. In the year 2000, Pardoe Farm will celebrate two centuries of farming," she noted. "Centuries ago everyone was a farmer. Today everyone needs a farmer."

The need for people to promote farm products is also evident according to Jill Broschart, the daughter of Jim and Georganne Broschart, who will serve as the Sullivan County Alternate Dairy Princess.

"I'm glad to accept this honor of being the alternate dairy princess in Sullivan County. My dad is the fifth generation to farm in Sullivan County. Our farm was established in 1875," Jill explained. "I'm looking forward to working with everyone to help promote milk."

Rounding out the dairy team are dairy maids Sandra Pardoe, daughter of Steve and Shirley Pardoe; Melissa Dunn, daughter of Robert and Candy Dunn; and Noreen Rouse, daughter of Michael and Jacquelyn Rouse.

Jessica Lambert, 1996 Sullivan County Dairy Princess, wished the new slate of dairy promoters the best of luck as she finished her year.

"This past year has been full of experiences and memories that I will never forget. I made many new friends and I learned how important dairy promotion is to the dairy farmers. It's up to volunteers to promote dairy products," she said.

In a special moment in her presentation, Jessica recognized her grandmother, Mary Lambert, for all her hard work. "She has been involved in dairy promotion for over 30 years," Jessica noted.

The crowning of the new royalty followed one of the longest dairy parades ever booked in Sullivan County.

The parade included entries from various youth groups, adult groups, and commercial exhibitors.

The grand prize was captured by a float entered by The Highlands, an Albright Care Service, entitled "Remember When" which sported antique dairy paraphernalia. In bold lettering on the back was the slogan, "Milk never grows old."

To cap off the evening, everyone had the opportunity to participate in milking contests and the building of a giant ice cream sundae, all in honor of Sullivan County's Dairy industry.

Community Effort Bringing New Sheep Barn To Bedford

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — A concerted community effort is bringing a new sheep barn to the Bedford County Fairgrounds.

The idea was spawned by Stephen Sweet, son of Marjorie and Robert Sweet of Alum Bank, when he began entering his Cornedale and Suffolk sheep in the fair.

Stephen's interest in sheep came from his mother who, although a town girl, has enjoyed raising sheep as a hobby. "I needed something to put our 200 acres of property to use," she says.

Prior to this year, fair housing for the sheep consisted of only a tent which was steaming hot on humid August days or extremely damp should showers prevail.

Seeing a need, Robert Sweet, founder, president, and CEO of Creative Pultrusions, a fiberglass manufacturing company employing 280 to 300 people, offered the resin-coated fiberglass materials.

"It may be the first barn constructed of this material in the country," says Richard Barkley, sheep superintendent.

"We've used fiberglass in all types of corrosive constructions," says Bob Sweet, "but, never before in a barn."

Sweet started the ball rolling as volunteers from other walks of life began offering their talents.

Local independent engineer William Defibaught donated his engineering skills and helped meet standards established by the Department of Labor and Industry.

Creative Pultrustions engineer Dustin Troutman provided the design.

On a recent sunny Saturday, volunteers poured in from Creative Pultrusions along with cattleman, Chester Horn, and a neighbor, Dan Zimmerman, to have a real old fashioned barn raising.

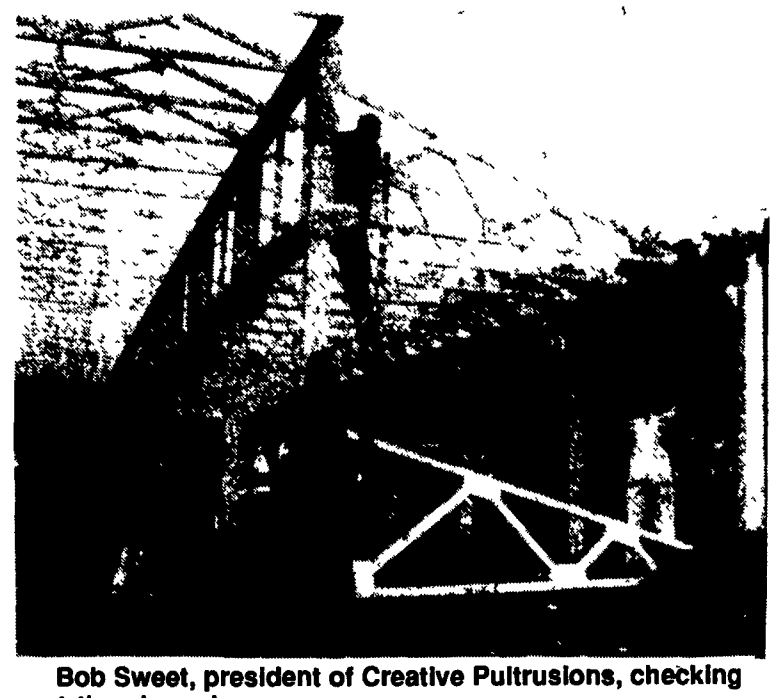
And when the muscles demanded nutrition, Dana Troutman, owner of the New Frontier Restaurant, delivered lunch from his Morrison's Cove Restaurant.

When completed, the sheep barn will be 45 by 120 feet in dimension. There will be 20 or more pens for market lambs 3¼ feet by 7½ and 39 bigge pens that are 7½ by 7½.

If necessary, the pens could hold up to 300 sheep.

Sweet realized he had the perfect product for the sheep barn when he tried the idea out at home.

Using plans from "Sheep! Magazine" he constructed fiberglass feeding bins which have worked out very well for their own flock of about 50 sheep.



Bob Sweet, president of Creative Pultrusions, checking out the sheep barn progress.

Maryland-Virginia Cooperative Names New Communication, Education Director

RESTON, Va. — Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc. recently hired Stephanie Meyers as the director of communication and education. In her new position, she will be responsible for all cooperative communications, including member publications, media relations, and presentations for district and annual meetings. In addition, Meyers will manage the Young Cooperator Program and serve as a cooperative representative on state and national boards, committees, and organizations.

Meyers relocated to Reston, Virginia from Syracuse, New York, after working as the producer communications specialist for the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC). In addition to coordinating the New York State Dairy Princess Program, her responsibilities included producer communications and industry relations. Meyers also worked for Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc., where she coordinated the Young Cooperator Program and served as assistant editor for their publication.

Meyers served as secretary and historian for the Northeast Farm Communicators; second vice president for the New York Farm-City Council, and newsletter editor for the Central New York chapter of the Public Relations Society of America. In addition, she received an award for the "Best One-Time Farm Publication" from the Northeast Farm Communicators in 1996.

A 1991 graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Meyers received a bachelors degree in dairy science and a minor in communications. She was active in the Virginia Tech Dairy Club and the "little sisters" of Alpha Gamma Rho. Meyers grew up on a 600-acre Holstein farm in St. Thomas, and is a former Franklin County Dairy Princess.

Stephanie J. Meyers is director of communication and education for Maryland and Virginia Producers Cooperative Association.

Essential Arthritis Cookbook

MANKATO, Minn. — Medical studies are confirming that a healthy diet can result in singnificant improvement in the pain, swelling, and stiffness that accompanies arthritis.

One out of seven people have arthritis, in which the wear and pain make it difficult to cook and eat resulting in less energy and a weakened body due to poor nutrition.

"The Essential Arthritis Cookbook helps people with arthritis, fibromyalgia, and other chronic pain and fatigue illnesses fight energy robbers, solve cooking difficulties, and understand the disease process and how food relates to it.

The hard cover book with a concealed wire-O binding make it easy to handle and practical to use.

In addition to the 120 recipes, included in the 268-page cookbook, are chapters covering topics including medications, kitchen layout, cooking techniques, locating handy tools, meal planning, and nutrition as it relates to arthritis.

Printed by Appletree Press, "The Essential Arthritis Cookbook" is the result of a collaboration between the Arthritis Center and the Department of Nutrition Sciences at the University of Alabama-Birmingham. Thr primary author, Sarah Morgan, MD, RD, bases the book on active research and a desire to help people with arthritis and other chronic pain and fatigue.

The book has been favorably reviewed by the National Arthritis Foundation Office, Patient and Community Services Committee.

The cookbook is available through the publisher (800) 322-5679, or by special request at bookstores for $24.95 plus $3.50 for postage.

Here are a few sample recipes from "The Essential Arthritis Cookbook, reprinted by permission of Appletree Press.

Living On A Reduced Income — Talking With Creditors

When your income drops and you realize you can't pay all your bills, it's important to face your debts and know how to talk to your creditors.

Your past experiences with creditors are important. If you have consistently paid bills when due, your creditors will be more cooperative than if you were late or didn't make regular payments. Creditors are in the business of lending money and/or providing services. They want to keep your business, but they also want to get paid.

Contact your creditors; don't wait for them to contact you. Explain your current situation. Frankly discuss your future income prospects so you and your creditors can figure out solutions to the problem. Most creditors would prefer to receive smaller payments on a regular basis than to begin expensive collection procedures.

Where To Begin

Before you and your creditors agree on a reduced payment or some other solution, determine how much money you have to pay off your debts.

Figure out how much income you can count on each month and how much you need to pay for your essential monthly living expenses. You'll need to know who and how much you owe, as well as how you plan to pay them.

Contacting Your Creditors

Once you have gathered the information you need, contact each creditor, explain your situation and work out a solution.

Be prepared to explain the following:

- The reason you fell behind in your payments.
- Your current income and prospects for future income.
- Other obligations.
- Your plan to bring this debt up to date and keep it current, including the amount you will be able to pay each month.

Visit local creditors in person. Visit the loan officer at your bank or credit union, the credit manager of local stores, the budget counselor at the utility company. Don't forget creditors like your dentist, physician, clinic, and hospital.

Contact out-of-town creditors by phone or letter. If you phone, write down the name and title of the person to whom you talked. Follow up the conversation with a letter summarizing what you and the creditor agreed. Keep copies of your correspondence as well as any reply.

If you would like a sample letter, please contact me at (717) 921-8803 or write me at 1451 Peters Mountain Road, Dauphin, PA 17018, and I'll be glad to send you a copy. It can also be used as an outline of what you say when talking to a creditor.

As you negotiate with each of your creditors, don't agree to any plan simply to get off the hook. Be sure you will be able to follow through on the agreement. Establish a payment rate that is acceptable to both you and the creditor. Here is a list of some alternatives to consider when negotiating with your creditors:

- Reducing the monthly payment
- Refinancing the loan
- Deferring a payment for a short time if you expect to get called back to work soon
- Reducing or dropping late charges
- Paying interest only on the loan until you can resume making monthly payments
- Voluntarily surrendering or giving back an item purchased on credit
- Selling the item and using the cash to satisfy, or partially satisfy, the debt.

Not all creditors will be willing to accept alternatives. However, they'll be more likely to work with you if you contact them before they contact you. They all want their money and would rather get some money on a regular basis than have to begin collection procedures.

If you fail to follow the plan that you and your creditor agreed upon, you will hurt your chances of getting future credit. Tell your creditors about any changes that may affect your payment agreement.

If you owe a large amount of money, and if your creditors won't accept reduced payments, you may have to consider more extreme alternatives such as bankruptcy.

PUBLIC AUCTION
SAT., JULY 26, 1997
9:00 A.M.
FARMETTE, ANTIQUES & COLLECTIBLES, HOUSEHOLD ITEMS, FARM MACHINERY AND RELATED ITEMS

Auction will be held 3 miles north of McAlisterville, Juniata County, just off of Rt. 35. Turn at Graybill's Hatchery, follow auction direction signs.

15 ACRE M/L FARMETTE selling at 12 NOON

This 15 acre farmette, located in Fayette Township, is perfect in size and location for the truck or weekend farmer. It is convenient to churches and schools and has easy access to Rt. 322. It lays mostly level and offers great development potential with lots of road frontage.

There is a 2-story wood framed farmhouse with a kitchen, dining room, living room, 1/2 bath and laundry room on the first floor and 3 bedrooms and bath on the second floor. There is also a basement, attached summer kitchen, and a nice size front porch. There is a drilled well and on lot septic system.

A nice size bank barn has storage above for crops and machinery and lots of room for livestock or machinery below. Other outbuildings include a chicken house, concrete block milk house, and other misc. farm implement sheds.

If you have been looking for a small farm with a convenient location, that will always maintain its value, don't miss seeing this one on these show dates, Saturday, June 28 from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. and Tuesday evening, July 8 from 5 p.m.-8 p.m. or call for an appointment at (717) 463-9256 or 463-2842.

MILK PRODUCTION HIGHER SOMATIC CELL COUNT LOWER AS MORE DAIRYMEN TEST FORMULA-M

As I am writing this, there are hundred and hundreds more Dairymen testing Formula M. The results are trickling in. By the time you read this, we may have the final results. I have been testing Formula M for years and all the results have exceeded my expectations in appetite improvement; higher energy level; giving more milk; cows (even the extremely difficult or next to impossible ones) getting pregnant on the first breeding.

AND NOW!!! Dairymen everywhere are telling me that the Somatic Cell Count goes down when they feed Formula M. Over and over, I am hearing that the Somatic Cell Count goes way down. Dairymen tell me that they have tried other products and that they thought they saw some benefits, but the same Dairymen tell me that they see very dramatic differences almost immediately when using Formula M. Dairymen say they see a vast improvement in energy level and appetite. They say that they can see a significant increase in milk in a week to ten days after starting on Formula M. Some Dairymen say their cows average 5 pounds more milk per cow, per day. The last reports I am waiting for are on Somatic Cell Count. They keep coming in and they keep verifying what we have been told many times before, that the Somatic Cell Count goes way down when feeding Formula M

If I had known all this before I set the price, (8¢ per cow, per day) I might have charged more. After all, it looks like most Dairymen will make an extra $1.00 per cow, per day.

Formula M is a powder and it comes in a 5 gallon plastic bucket. Feed Formula M according to the directions on the label, only ½ ounce per cow per day. (Formula M is very concentrated. ½ ounce per day is all they need). You can put Formula M in the TMR, you can put it in your grain mix or if you prefer, you can top dress Formula M. All you need to do to get Formula M is call one of the numbers below. We ship the same day by UPS. Make the check payable to FRANK LAMPLEY and give it to the driver when he delivers.

A 5 gallon bucket is enough for about 40 cows for one month and costs only $92.00 (I pay freight). Formula M is completely free of drugs and made by the same people who make Vitamix.

There is one question that keeps coming up over and over, "How long do I have to keep feeding the Formula M?" "Forever?" The answer is, "Only as long as you want to keep making the extra dollar per day, per cow."

FORMULA M... IT'S WHAT CAUSES BABIES

New England To Host National Southdown Sale

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — The 55th New England Sheep Sale is hosting the Jim Lightfoot National Southdown Sale this year here on July 18-19 at the newly completed Big E Agricultural Complex.

This is the first time the National Southdown Sale has been in New England. The sale will honor longtime area Southdown breeder Jim Lightfoot.

The New England Sale is sponsored by the New England Sheep & Wool Growers Association (NESWGA) and is held in conjunction with the Northeast Youth Sheep Show. The sale, to date, has well over 175 head entered representing many different breeds, with more than 50 head of Southdown sheep consigned.

Top breeders from all over the United States are bringing sheep to the sale. Post entries are always welcomed.

Thursday evening, July 17 at 6 p.m., the Northeast Southdown Breeders will be having a New England Style Clambake for Southdown breeders and friends. At this time Jim Lightfoot and his family will be recognized as the National Southdown Sale honoree. Each dinner will include a lobster, steamers, fish, sweet potato, white potato, sweet corn, bratwurst, saugys, drink and watermelon. Cost will be $15 per dinner. Reservations must be made in advance by July 14 by contacting Claudette Choma at (860) 684-4315.

Things get started on Friday, July 18, at 9 a.m. with the showing of the sale sheep. The National Southdown Sale Show will be first followed by the other breeds showing alphabetically. Nancy Ferguson, Southdown and Hampshire breeder from Corvallis, Ore., will be placing the classes. At 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. that same day the NESWGA will put on a family barbecue that will feature grilled Southdown lamb. Reservations must be made ahead for this event by contacting Claudette Choma, 216 Monson Road, Stafford Springs, CT 06076 or by calling her at (860) 684-4315 on or before Monday, July 14.

The barbecue was a great success last year as the food was good, the prices reasonable, and it had a casual, relaxing atmosphere. The cost of the barbecue will be $8.50 for adults and $5.50 for children. Also at 5 p.m. the New England Sheep & Wool Growers Association will hold its annual meeting in the Agricultural Complex.

At 7 p.m. Friday evening the Supreme Champion Selection Show for the sale will be held. The breed champions vie for top honors and a $100 cash award that is presented to the supreme champion ram and supreme champion ewe of the New England Sale. Also at this time a Scotch Auction is held for raising funds for the NESWGA Scholarship Fund. Several interesting items are donated, tickets sold, and drawings made. All proceeds go directly into the NESWGA Scholarship Fund that supports two college scholarships every year.

Immediately following the supreme selections an Ice Cream Social is scheduled. Sugarloaf Dorsets of Kingfield, Maine are providing the free ice cream and all the topings for this event.

The New England Sheep sale will start at 9 a.m. with Dan Schlichter of Washington Courthouse, Ohio calling the sale. The sale order will be as follows: Polled Dorsets, Montadales, Southdowns, Romneys, Corriedales, Natural Coloreds, Jacobs, Columbias, Cheviots, Hampshires, Suffolks, Oxford, Shropshires, and Tunis. Prior to the start of the sale buyer registration will take place and a buyer's raffle will be held. Sale credits of $200 and $100 will be raffled off to help buyers towards the purchases of their animals.

Immediately following the sheep auctions there will be a used sheep equipment auction. This event has grown since its inception a few years ago to where there is a lot of useful equipment being consigned. Any sheep-related item may be sold through the sale and consignments are taken up to early Saturday morning. The net proceeds from this auction go to the Northeast Youth Sheep Show to help sponsor its ever-growing youth show that is held the same weekend following the sales and into Sunday.

For more information on the activities and sale catalogs, contact Debra Hopkins, 1125 Danielson Pike, North Scituate, RI 02857, (401) 647-7281.

Maryland DHIA

The May Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd based on Energy Corrected Milk (ECM). ECM combines milk production and components.

The ECM formula is: (7.2 x lbs. protein) + (12.95 x lbs. fat) + (.327 x lbs. milk). To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of ECM per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top ten herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

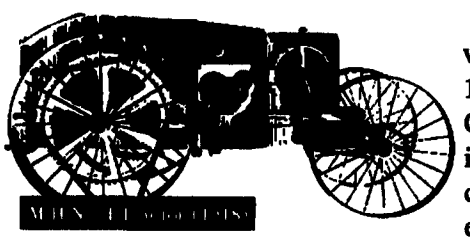
Canadian Show To Honor MF's Milestone



From humble beginnings in a small manufacturing and repair facility in Newcastle, Ontario, 150 years ago, Massey Ferguson has grown to become the world's No. 1 selling brand of tractors.

That heritage will be honored this summer, when Massey Ferguson's 150th anniversary will be celebrated at the Great Canadian Antique Tractor Field Days. It will be held July 17-20 at the site of the former Ontario Agricultural Museum at Milton Ontario. This company milestone is also the feature attraction of the 21st annual Heritage and Antique Show of the Tri-County Heritage Club, July 12-13.

This is one of several shows that will honor Massey Ferguson's 150th Anniversary Milestone. The Ontario Agricultural Museum site is near Toronto. The complex covers 80 acres, portraying the evolution of agriculture in Ontario and includes and impressive display representing Massey-Harris-Ferguson.

Each year the museum hosts the Great Canadian Antique Tractor Field Days. The show includes operating antique Canadian-made tractors and steam traction engines, as well as a variety of competitions and activities. There is also a farm toy show and sale and a 150th anniversary banquet.

As an official host of the Massey-Harris-Ferguson 150th Anniversary Celebration, all Massey-Harris and Massey-Ferguson equipment, including brands from predecessor manufacturers, is welcome. Americans planning to bring tractors for display across the border should check in advance on custom procedures.

The Heritage and Antique show at Ilderton will also feature antique and toy tractors, as well as an anniversary banquet.

VISIT THE SHOW

Please Contact us if you are interested in going by bus to this show. We will leave July 16 and return home July 18. We'll also stop at Niagara Falls on July 16 and Waterloo Farmers Market July 18. Call 717-656-2321 before May 30 for reservations.

KINZE 40 Series Auger Wagons

✓ On Wheels!
The quality standard of the industry! Giant capacity wagons. With single axle maneuverability. Ride on the largest high flotation tires in the field ... and unload in less than 3 minutes! Available in 625 and 825 bushel capacities.

✓ On Sof-Traks!
Want more flotation and even less compaction? Bring in the Kinze Sof-Trak units. Available in 625, 825 and 985 bushel capacities. Ground pressure? Only 6 to 13 lbs/psi fully loaded! Choose 24" or 36" tracks.

✓ On Load-Equalizing Dual Wheels!
These giant row crop models give you all the flotation, balance and stability you need, plus big semi-trailer load capacities. Two sizes ... 810 and 970 bushel capacities.

AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE

to Case IH AXIAL FLOW Combines

The Axial Flow concept was new in 1977. After twenty years the single rotor design that eliminated straw walkers and increased the threshing and separating area through the use of centrifugal force is still the same. But the technological advances in the 2100 Series make their cousins of 1978 and 1979 seem like antiques.

PRODUCTIVITY, PERFORMANCE, and PREMIUM GRAIN were the hallmarks of the axial flow combine in 1977 and they still are today - - more so because of the steady productivity and performance improvements, made over the past 20 years.

Hoober People are proud of their association with the Case IH Axial Flow combine since the beginning. Our customers know that our commitment to the Axial flow is based upon our ability to make the Axial Flow combine out perform the competition in all crop conditions.

MAKE YOUR NEXT COMBINE AN AXIAL FLOW COMBINE FROM HOOBERS.

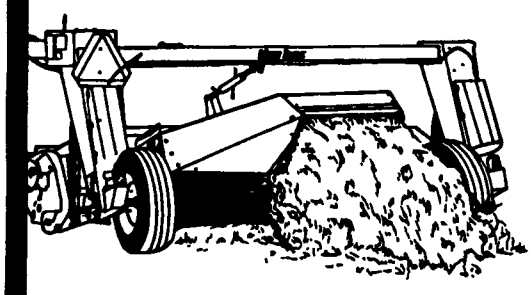
NEW IDEA
AGCO
BUILT FOR THE BOTTOM LINE

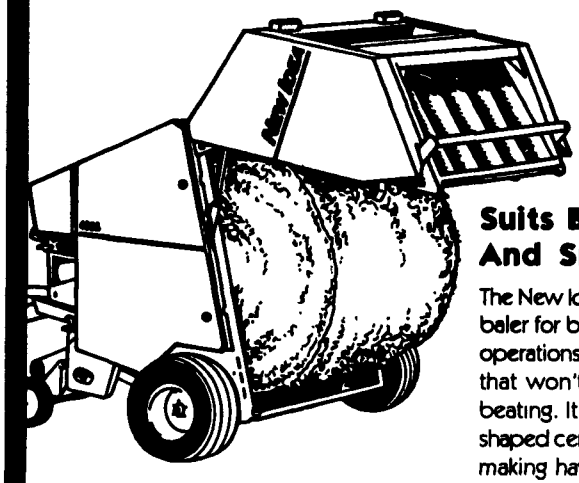
Maximize Your Yield Potential...



Nothing outperforms the New Idea® 5209 Disc Mower Conditioner. Its high-speed cutterbar glides through fields with ease, even in extreme conditions. And its reliable design keeps you mowing and conditioning year after year.

For A Price That's Minimal.

Quality From The Inside Out.



Suits Big Operations And Small Budgets.

The New Idea® 4865 is the perfect baler for big farming and custom operations – available for a price that won't give your budget a beating. It creates a unique star-shaped center that dries internally, making hay more palatable and easier to digest

See what New Idea® equipment and LS&E can do for you... Today!

A BETTER WAY TO MOW

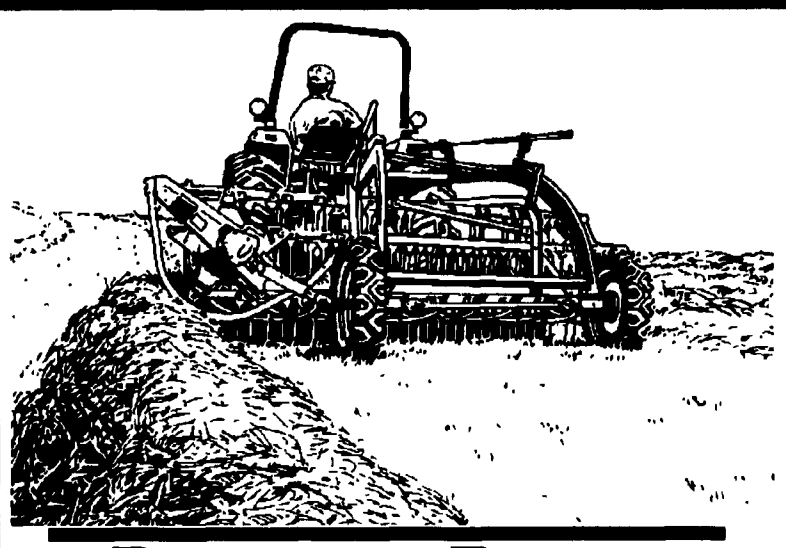
The New Holland Model 1465 Haybine® mower-conditioner features a new header with a five-bat reel for more uniform crop flow. You get a cleaner cut and less scalping in a proven design. And the "1465" can be ordered with a mechanical tongue shift or hydraulic tongue shift Other great features include:

- A torsion-bar roll-pressure system
- Chevron-design rolls for thorough, gentle conditioning and fast drydown
- 100% bolted knife assemblies

When performance, reliability and durability count, you can count on the "1465".

NEW HOLLAND

THE ORIGINAL



ROLABAR® RAKES WITHSTAND THE TEST OF TIME

Don't settle for second best when it comes to rakes. Choose the original-- a dependable New Holland Rolabar® rake. The rake more farmers buy over all other brands combined. Why? Because its rugged construction makes it one hard-working, hay-grabbing machine.

This Is A 3950 John Deere Harvester.

with 9"x24" roll installed w/#4 cut rolls to process corn silage in field. Just ask your feed man what can be done with rolled corn silage. Every bite of processed corn silage has more punch. It's really a concentrate that feeds like a roughage. Cut silage at 1" to 1 1/4" long. Run through high speed 1/4" cut crimping rolls.

Three Ways To Control Grass On Larger Acreages.

2510 Series Rotary Cutters are available in three hitch designs three-point lift, pull or semi-mount But no matter what your choice, all models yield outstanding results with general mowing and pasture clipping jobs Cutting width is 9-feet, 9-inches

Round bladeholders enable the cutter to 'float' over field obstacles, and a slip clutch provides driveline protection from shock loads Deflector shields, front and rear, are standard equipment 1/2 x 4-inch uplift blades overlap 3-inches and high blade tip speeds assure better cutting

Come in and learn more about Bush Hog's 2510 Series Rotary Cutters—your best choice for affordable pasture maintenance

LUCK//NOW MIXER FEEDERS
"P" SERIES

Since 1979 LUCK//NOW Mixer Feeders have been recognized as one of the most dependable and strongest built mixers in the field.

To enhance its existing line of Mixer Feeders, LUCK//NOW introduces the "P" Series of Mixer Feeders with six models ranging in size from the Model 300 with a mixing capacity of 310 cubic ft., to the Model 575 with a mixing capacity of 625 cubic ft.

The Large diameter augers in all the "P" Series Mixer feeders are capable of giving the mix required, from rations with well cured, long stemmed legume-type hay, to mixes with green grass, and mixes with silage and commodities. Better milk production, better weight gains and greatly improved animal health are just some of the results of a finely-tuned feed ration.

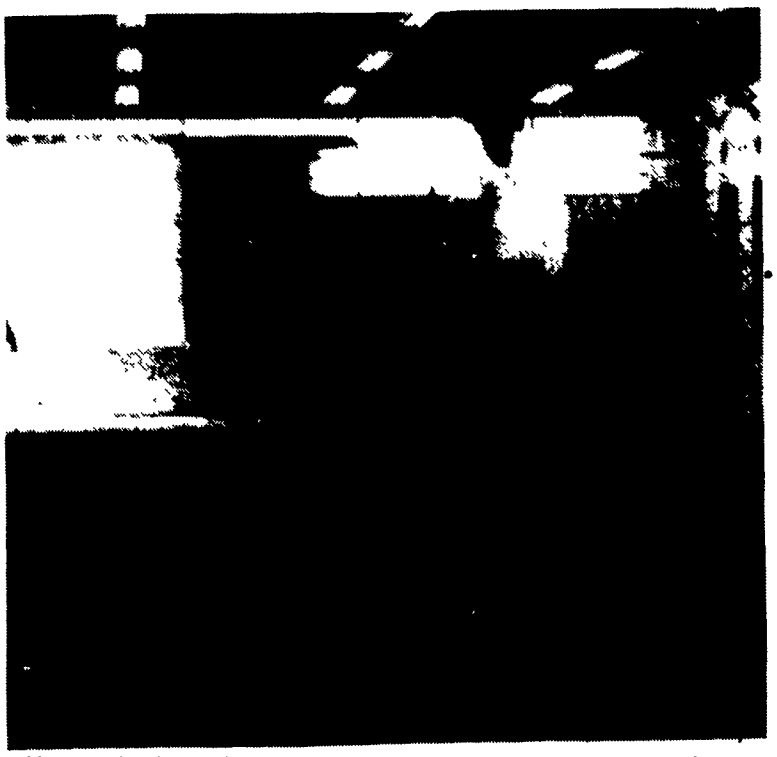
Earth-Smart Soy Spray Debuts At Area Horse Arena

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Soybeans — arguably the world's most versatile plant — have done it again.

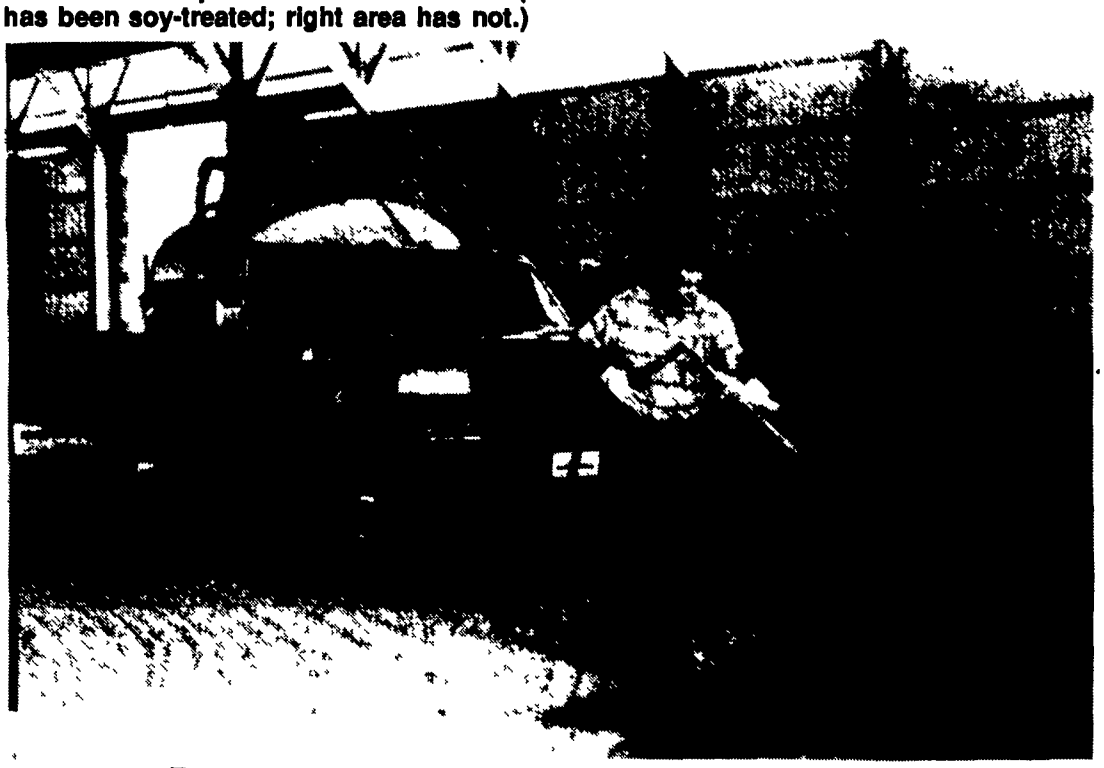
A new, earth-friendly soy oil "dust suppressant" made its East Coast debut at Lancaster's Bridge Acres Stables in a recent demonstration sponsored by the Pennsylvania Soybean Board (PASB) and Central Soya of Indiana. The highlight was a demonstration run by Bridge Acres horses, who kicked up a cloud of dust on an untreated portion of track but didn't raise one speck on the soy-treated side.

Deputy Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Russell Reddin was there to help "clear the air," along with Sen. Noah Wenger and PASB Director Jay McGinnis. The demonstration was provided by "Dustkill," the region's first supplier of the new biodegradable product.

"Anyone associated with horses knows dust is a serious and constant problem," said Dustkill's Jack Coleman. "It creates an unhealthy and uncomfortable atmosphere for people and animals, and can damage equipment. Until now, solutions were short-lived or had side effects, but the new soy products changes all that."



Horses kick up dust on untreated track. (Dark dirt on left has been soy-treated; right area has not.)



Tom Zeng of Dustkill applies the soy-based dust suppressant.

Spectators, human and equine, learn about new soy crop uses.

Traditional dust control treatments include petroleum products or water, both of which have raised certain environmental concerns.

According to researchers who developed the new soy product, it is biodegradable, nontoxic, long-lasting, non-corrosive, washes off equipment easily, doesn't contaminate water supplies, and is made from a renewable American resource.

Applied with spraying equipment, it penetrates ground surfaces, controlling dust for as long as one to two years.

For more information about the new product, please call Dustkill at (888) DUSTKILL. For more information about the Pennsylvania or New Jersey soybean boards, please call the soybean office at (609) 467-5189.

Groff Field Day July 19

HOLTWOOD (Lancaster Co.) — On Saturday, July 19, from 10:30 a.m.-3 p.m., Steve Groff's "New Generation Cropping System" will be showcased here at Cedar Meadow Farm.

Long-term no-till, cover crops, and crop rotation are the foundation of this system. The key to making it work is the development of new equipment and cover cropping strategies.

The field day will start off with a comparative observation of 15 inch row field corn and the standard 30 inch row corn. Dr. Greg Roth, Penn State corn specialists, will be on hand to share his perspective and experience with 15 inch corn. Joel Gruver, University of Maryland, will discuss his research in the area of soil health, including tests at Cedar Meadow Farm.

Highlighting the morning will be a demonstration of the best no-till drills and planters on the market from various manufacturers. Also on display will be some of the latest no-till planter attachments. GPS equipment will also be demonstrated.

A food stand will be available for those who wish to buy lunch. Other agribusinesses are also helping to sponsor this event. Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture and the Keystone chapter of the Soil and Water Conservation Society have also contributed to this event.

The afternoon will be geared toward no-till vegetables. Aref Abdul-Baki, Agriculture Research Service, USDA, will be reporting on his vegetable research work in the no-till system. An update on the most recent no-till transplanter developments will be given by Dr. Ron Morse, Virginia Tech. Ed Beste, University of Maryland, will discuss why all their pumpkin research is done in the no-till system. Following a demonstration of the rolling stalk chopper in forage soybeans, the no-till vegetable transplanter will plant broccoli into this field. The other no-till planters will again be demonstrated in the afternoon.

"We are planning for this event to be informative and educational for farmers, researchers, and anyone interested in agriculture," said Groff. "But is is also designed to be family-friendly, with videos, cart rides, and other activities for the children."

Directions: From the intersection of 272 and 372 (south of Lancaster), take 372 west 4.5 miles to Hilldale Rd. Turn right. Travel 1.5 miles to the Groff Farm on the right.

American Livestock Breeds Conservancy Announces Awards

PITTSBORO, N.C. — The American Livestock Breeds Conservancy (ALBC) board of directors has announced three Breed Conservation Awards for 1997.

David and Millie Holderread of Corvallis, Ore., are founders and owners of Holderread Waterfowl Farm and Preservation Center. Since 1976, the Holderreads have bred and promoted numerous breeds of waterfowl, becoming the most important stewards of duck and goose genetics in the United States.

Holderread stocks are known for their genetic integrity, and the birds consistently demonstrate good health, appropriate levels of performance, and other breed characteristics.

Conservation programs are under way for six breeds of geese and nine breeds of ducks, and they include numerous strains within each breed. Dave and Millie Holderread have directly contributed to the survival of several breeds of waterfowl, including the Australian Spotted, Magpie, and Saxony ducks, and the American Buff, Pilgrim, and Sebastopol geese. The accomplishments and reputation of the Holderread farm have given added credibility to the use and conservation of rare breeds of ducks and geese.

Rea Swan of Lexington, Ky., is the person most responsible for the survival of the Rocky Mountain horse, a unique American breed. This breed was one of the foundations of the American family of gaited horse breeds developed in eastern Kentucky and Tennesseee during the 1800s.

Swan's interest in the breed began with a childhood trip to Natural Bridge State Park in Kentucky, where she rode Rocky Mountain horses. She acquired her first Rocky Mountain horse in 1981. When she realized that the breed was near extinction, Swan began locating remnants of the population and organizing the people who shared her interests. The task has been lengthy and involved, for the breed as a landrace lacked formal documentation.

It was up to Swan, with the support and participation of her husband David, to describe the breed's histry, document its characteristics, and encourage her fellow breeders. The Rocky Mountain Horse Association was formed in 1986, and since then the breed has steadily increased its numbers and popularity, now numbering more than 2,500 horses. The skill and commitment of Rea Swan have saved the Rocky Mountain horse breed from extinction.

John Wheelock is a dairy farm and Milking Devon cattle breeder from Colchester, Vt. Wheelock has been a member of ALBC for 20 years, serving as a member of the first board of directors of what was then the American Minor Breeds Conservancy.

Wheelock's dairy herd is made up of several breeds of cattle, but his favorite is the Milking Devon. This historic cattle breed, found in New England since the 1620s, was nearly extinct by 1970. As a dual purpose breed, it had been replaced by improved dairy and beef breeds and its fate rested with a handful of New England farmers and ox teamsters.

The Wheelock herd of Milking Devon cattle was criticial to the survival of the breed during its darkest days. As demand for the breed again began to increase, Wheelock provided seedstock to breeders in New England and across North America. His knowledge of pedigrees made it possible to include the Milking Devon as the pilot breed in the ALBC's Rare Breeds Gene Bank. He was also pivotal in the organization of a Milking Devon Breeders' Association.

Conservation Service Award

As part of its 20th anniversary celebration, the American Livestock Breeders Conservancy recognizes D. Phillip Sponenberg, DVM, PhD, with the inaugural Conservation Service Award, given for his contributions to ALBC and to livestock breed conservation in the United States.

Sponenberg has been a member of ALBC since its earliest days. He has served the organization in many capacities, on the board of directors, as chair of the ALBC's technical committee, and now as technical coordinator, the unpaid position from which he works on the ALBC staff.

Sponenberg has been pivotal in shaping the organization's evolving philosophy and priorities, as well as in contributing his expertise in the evaluation of breed populations, analysis of herdbooks, and the development of breeding plans for many rare breeds and strains. He has contributed substantially with fieldwork and other forms of research by which rare breeds, especially landraces, are better documented and understood. His work has been the foundation of conservation programs for Spanish cattle, goats, and horses, Caribbean hair sheep, Leicester Longwool sheep, Fainting goats, and several other breeds in the United States.

Sponenberg is professor of genetics and pathology at Virginia Technical Institute and the Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine in Blacksburg, Va. He is the author of numerous publications for scientific audiences and for the public, including the recently published "Equine Color Genetics." He is co-author of several ALBC publications, including "Taking Stock: The North American Livestock Census," "A Conservation Breeding Handbook," and the forthcoming "Guidebook to American Rare Breeds."

Alfa Laval Agri To Sponsor Dairy Conferences

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — In an effort to educate dairy producers about dairy and parlor planning, Alfa Laval Agri, Inc., is holding two-day Dairy Planning Conferences on Oct. 9-10 in Lansing, Mich., Nov. 6-7 in Courtland, N.Y., and Dec. 11-12 in Rochester, Minn.

These meetings are designed to provide producers with the wide range of information necessary for efficient and effective dairy management.

Some of the subjects to be addressed include housing, milking facilities, cooling systems, labor management, cash flow, manure handling and permits. These and other topics will be discussed by experts from Alfa Laval Agri as well as industry leaders.

Dan McFarland, an extension agent responsible for agricultural engineering programs in five counties in Pennsylvania, will speak at the conferences. His area of expertise is livestock housing, and he'll be available to answer questions about topics such as animal comfort, ventilation and feeding systems, and milking center design.

Another featured presenter is Dr. Lawrence Jones. Formerly an assistant professor in animal science at Cornell University, Jones currently works as a dairy consultant. He will provide insights about dairy herd management systems, computerized record keeping, and DHIA.

In addition to industry experts, the conferences will allow attendees the opportunity to listen to a panel of dairy producers who have recently enlarged their dairies. Attendees will learn how they successfully completed their expansion projects.

Producers will get a chance to preview some of the proven systems and plans developed by Alfa Laval Agri, as well as see them implemeneted during on-farm tours. As the worldwide leader in dairy equipment and accessories, the company has put its years of experience into creating parlor designs that maximize production and efficiency.

Case Makes 'Hay In A Day' Even Easier

RACINE, Wis. — Case Corporation has introduced three new models of round and rectangular silage-bale wrappers, the 8630, 8640 and 8650, which allow allow farmers to wrap silage bales quickly and easily, often the same day the hay is cut — truly "hay in a day."

"As the advantages of silage baling for quality hay are becoming fully recognized, more and more farmers are adopting the practice," said Bruce Spidle, Case product and marketing manager.

Spidle added that, by baling hay with a 50 to 60 percent moisture content as opposed to the usual 12 to 20 percent, farmers can cut and bale at any time during the hay-growing process. Less water through spoilage means better quality and an increase in profits for the farmer.

Spidle said wrapped, baled silage can be stored at the feeding site from the time it is produced, eliminating the need for a pit or silo, which, in turn, lowers capital costs for the operation. Nutritional advantages to feeding silage hay to dairy and beef herds have also been recognized.

The new wrappers complement the existing line of Case IH hay and forage machines, including the 8435 Silage Special round baler, the 8575 silage-capable mid-sized rectangular baler and the 8576 bale-accumulator attachment for the 8575.

The new 8630 bale wrapper is available in three different three-point mounted versions: a manually operated machine for round bales and two automatic, optically remote-controlled machines — one for round bales and second, deluxe version which will wrap rectangular or round bales.

Three new Case IH silage-bale wrappers, the 8630 mounted and 8640 and 8650 trailing models, allow farmers to wrap silage bales quickly and easily, very often the same day the hay is cut.

When using the basic version of the Case IH 8630, the operator manually places a bale on the turntable and attaches the wrap. The operator must also cut the film after the bale is wrapped and remove it from the turntable.

The two automatic machines feature a hand-held remote-control device to activate the wrapping cycle and an automatic film cut-and-clamp mechanism. This allows the operator to control the wrapping process from start to finish from the seat of the loader tractor.

The new 8640 and 8650 are available in two versions each: cable-controlled and electronically controlled. The 8640 bale wrapper is designed to wrap round silage bales, while the 8650 can wrap either rectangular or round bales.

"Both the 8640 and the 8650 can wrap bales at the storage area or while on the move in the field, increasing the operator's productivity," said Spidle. "We do recommend, however, that the operator check to determine if crop stubble in the field may puncture the film."

Both models feature lift arms that cradle the bales and place them onto the turntable. To initiate the wrapping process on the cable-controlled machines, the operator activates a turntable-rotation lever while a monitor counts the number of times the bale has been wrapped and signals the operator two revolutions before completion. An automatic film cut-and-clamp mechanism leaves the film in place for the next bale.

For the electronically controlled versions of the 8640 and 8650, pressing a single button on the control pad begins the wrapping process. A monitor counts the number of times the bale has been wrapped and automatically stops at the preset number of revolutions. The operator touches the monitor pad to activate the turntable tilt and cut-and-clamp mechanism to dump the wrapped bale onto the ground.

All three models of Case IH bale wrappers feature a reversible turntable for accurate alignment while loading and unloading bales. The heavy-duty turntable has a hydraulic-tip mechanism, speeding up the wrapping process by dropping the wrapped bales quickly and efficiently.

DeKalb Genetics Considers Stock Dividend

ST. PAUL, Minn. — DeKalb Genetics Corporation is considering a stock dividend of one share of stock for each outstanding share, the company said at a conference of institutional investors.

"DeKalb is enjoying remarkable growth, and our stock price has appreciated accordingly over the past year," said Bruce P. Bickner, chairman and chief executive officer. "In order to increase liquidity and to maintain an attractive price range for investors, management will ask the board of directors at our meeting on July 10 to approve a stock dividend."

Assuming board approval, the stock dividend would be distributed later this summer. The total number of DeKalb Genetics Corporation's outstanding Class A shares would rise from approximately 2.4 million to 4.8 million, while the Class B shares would rise from approximately 14.8 million to 29.6 million. In May 1996, DeKalb shareholders approved a three-for-one stock split of the Class A and Class B common stock.

Bickner also told conference participants that DeKalb's improving financial and operating results were due to a single-minded focus on its seed business, especially corn.

"At DeKalb, we do only a few things, and we work hard to do them well," he said. "Our North American corn business continues to post increases in volume, market share, and unit margins. We expect North American corn volume to be in the neighborhood of three million units this year, the highest in 17 years. Meanwhile, our international seed operation will report record profits, which will be almost double the 1996 contribution."

As announced previously, DeKalb expects to reach its interim goal of 15 percent return on equity this year, three years ahead of schedule. "Obviously, we will soon be raising our benchmark for the year 2000," Bickner said. "We have identified a number of high-return investment opportunities in our corn business; in fact, our five-year plan includes capital expenditures in excess of $300 million."

Animal Health Product Sales $3.3 Billion

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Sales of animal health products in the United States were estimated to be $3.3 billion in 1996, a slight increase from the previous year. The totals were projected by the Animal Health Institute (AHI) as part of its 1996 Domestic Net Sales Survey.

AHI represents manufacturers of animal health products — the pharmaceuticals, vaccines, and feed additives used in modern food production, and the medicines that keep pets healthy.

AHI conducts its sales survey annually. Sales are reported in three major product categories — pharmaceuticals, feed additives and biologicals.

Sales totals for the United States are based on projections made by AHI's Market Research Committee using sales data AHI collected from its member companies. The association then projects the remainder of the market to determine total industry sales. Sales are for products priced at the manufacturer's level.

A summary of the sales data in the three major product categories follows:

• Pharmaceuticals: Pharmaceutical sales increased five percent in 1996. Projected sales for 1996 were $2.3 billion, an increase from the 1995 total of $2.2 billion.

This category covers the sales of dosage-form medicines and other pharmaceutical preparations used in disease prevention and treatment programs for both pets and farm animals.

According to AHI, the growth in the pharmaceutical market was fueled largely by new products to treat pets, as well as new products for beef cattle.

• Feed Additives: Feed additive sales decreased approximately 14 percent in 1996, with projected sales of $540 million. 1995 sales were $629 million.

This category includes sales for all feed additives used in livestock and poultry production, including those used to control or prevent disease, enhance growth, or improve feed efficiency. Nutritionals are not included in the total.

According to AHI, the decrease in feed additive sales correlates to a flat livestock market and record-high feed costs in 1996.

• Biologicals: Sales in this category decreased approximately four percent in 1996, with projected sales of $466 million. In 1995, this figure was $483 million.

This category covers the sales of products used to create immunity to disease in both livestock and pets. Biologicals include vaccines, bacterins and antitoxins licensed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

A compilation of surveys from the past three years showing trends in the animal health product sales and research and development expenditures will be available from AHI in June. The report includes total combined sales figures of AHI members for ruminant, swine, poultry, small animals, and equine products. Sales totals for these species are broken down as feed additives, biologicals, insecticides, and pharmaceuticals. No further breakdowns or tabulations are provided, although the report shows trends in these categories for 1994, 1995 and 1996. The report is $70. Copies can be ordered by calling Marie Gilmore at the Animal Health Institute at (703) 684-0011.

Appraisers Complete Course

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. — Sanford L. Alderfer and Charles L. Moyer of the Sanford Alderfer Auction Company, Hatfield, Pa., were two of 44 appraisers who have successfuly completed part two of the Auction Marketing Institute's (AMI) new Graduate Personal Property Appraiser designation course, bringing the total number who have completed the course to 172.

Held in Elgin, Ill., May 12-14, appraisers from 19 states attended the three-day seminar.

The designation, Graduate Personal Property Appraiser (GPPA), is a two-part course. Part one focused on methodology, identification, Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice, USPAP, report writing, responsibilities of the appraiser to the client, legal aspects, factors affecting value, and definitions. Part two is product-specific and will consist of three distinct specialty areas. Participants may select from forestry, construction and farm equipment; industrial and commercial machinery; or personal property and antiques.

The program, designed to standardize appraisals, is based on a study of industry needs and the USPAP guidelines developed by the appraisal industry. AMI is taking the lead in providing these much needed services for the industry.

Earning and maintaining the GPPA designation will require experience, successful completion of two courses, demonstrated appraisal writing skills, an adherence to a strict code of professional ethics, following USPAP guidelines, and membership in AMI.

ANTIQUE TRACTORS AND FARM MACHINERY ON DISPLAY ALL WEEK AT THE 1997 TIOGA COUNTY FAIR

How Grandfather farmed will be evident from the antique tractor and farm machinery display. It will be at the Tioga County Fair beginning Monday, Aug. 4, and continuing thru Saturday, Aug. 9.

You will be able to see and compare what was used early in the century with what is in use today.

In addition to these displays, the Historical Society's Museum of Agriculture and Mining will be open all week. There is no admission charge to the museum.

If you have a tractor or piece of machinery you would like to display, contact Dick Kinnan at (717) 376-2116 or Tom Brown at (717) 376-2879.

The Mock Dairy Auction will be held on Thursday night at 7:30 p.m., Aug. 7, at the Tioga County Fair.

Did you ever want to go to a cow sale and buy with fake money? Well, here is the chance for the Tioga County 4-H and FFA members. In this contest, the kids learn to read pedigrees, decide the value of the cow, and learn the bidding process.

The sale catalog has the cows listed and the kids bid on each cow. They are in groups of four and have a limited amount of money.

NOTHING WORKS LIKE A SILO
Sollenberger Silos Corp.

"HI-MOISTURE SHELLED CORN"

You know the advantages of hi-moisture shelled corn versus dry corn for animal feeding. So now consider the many advantages of POURED CONCRETE to store and protect your valuable grain.

"Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel."

"Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement."

"PROTECT YOUR CORN FROM THE HEAT."

These farmers from Virginia "switched" to our poured concrete silo to store their shelled corn and said: "Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated. We have the best hi-moisture corn ever." (Cave View Farm, Inc., Weyers Cave, VA.)

MEMBER: International Silo Assn. - PA Forage & Grassland Council - American Soc. of Agric. Engrs. - Cro Storage Institute.

76 Cow Total Ventilation System - Denver, PA
Lapp's Barn Equipment can install a high-performance/high efficiency tunnel ventilation system in your barn. A tunnel ventilation system will give you an even air flow throughout your barn of 2-5 mph. This gives you the advantage of better controlling temperature to give your cows more comfort which means more milk!! Also, a tunnel ventilation system eliminates circulating fans, provides summer and winter ventilation and controls fly problems! An optional unit can even automate your ventilation so you will never even have to worry about it when you're not there, so you can concentrate on other things!
At Lapp's, we sell high quality ventilation systems manufactured by Acme Engineering, Acme products feature such things as:

- Galvanized Construction
- Wide Cambered Propeller
- Rivited Blades
- Unique Captured Bearings
- Vertical Support Frame
- Screens Pre-cut
- Totally Enclosed Motors
- Optional Discharge Diffuser Cone
- Optional Belt Tightener

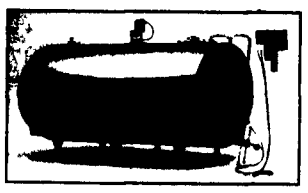
MUELLER
DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ 08 kW for 12,000 Lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total opertating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$2,300

Contact your Mueller distributor for further comparisons.

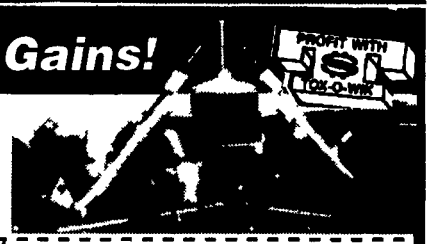
Increase Cattle Gains!



TOX-O-WIK® Cattle Oiler and Face Fly Fighter
It keeps cattle comfortable year around and free of weight-robbing insects and disease. It's automatic, trouble-free and rugged. Plus it pays for itself in profits from increased weight gains.
Our special TOX-A-WIK Insecticide is compatible with the animals natural body oils, skin and hair and keeps them free of flies, lice, grubs, ticks, mange and pinkeye.
- Insecticide tank wick feeds automatically, no valves, jets or pumps to clog.
- Mineral feeder
- 1 to 4 applicators per unit.
- TOX-O-WIK Insecticide is the only insecticide recommended for TOX-O-WIK Cattle Oilers.
- Dairy units also available.

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.

"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price. This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."
EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last

Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.

Beitzel Spraying is now distributing:

SAFECIDE® BRAND IC

For the control of darkling beetles, hide beetles and flies in poultry houses and for control of fire ants

Advantages:

- Efficacious–boron-based SafeCide® Brand IC kills larvae and adults. Breaks the beetle life cycle and reduces diseases carried by beetles
- Contains an extremely safe and effective pest control agent (99% orthoboric acid)– larvae and beetles die 3 to 5 days after contact and ingestion.
- Provides long-lasting residual results. Keeps on working up to 12 months – longer than most available products.
- Provides an effective barrier. Kills larvae and adults as they emerge.
- Cost effective – low cost based on per day of activity.
- Can be applied as a dust or spray. Flexible application options let SafeCide® Brand IC fit easily into your particular management program.
- EPA approved, ecologically friendly– non-carcinogenic, no toxic residues. Safe to be applied by humans.
- Is field proven. Field studies* show heavily infested farms treated with SafeCide® Brand IC have better feed conversion rates, increased weight gains, greater livability, and fewer condemnations than untreated farms.
- No insecticidal resistance reported.
- Retards the growth of Aspergillus in the litter.
- Approved for use in the control of fire ants and flies.

EBY BUILDS IT

M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24', landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- LANDSCAPE BODIES - Lengths to 12', We'll build to your specs!

Let EBY custom build one for you.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer customer options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business - building bodies to haul it is ours.

PURINA PROFILE

NORTH GLADE FEED and SUPPLY

The attractive North Glade Feed and Supply Purina dealership is located along route 194, three miles south of Keymar, Md. Eight years ago, Robert Bowman turned over the family business, R.D. Bowman & Sons, Inc., Purina feed business in Westminster, to his family and moved here to grow another outlet to eventually become part of the family feed business.

Today, North Glade Feed has a growing bulk dairy feed business serving the area's dairy herds with Purina complete mixes and concentrates. Dairy herds in the area range in size from 75 to 500 cows. Purina feeds are distributed over a 20-mile radius from the store in northern Frederick County. In addition, a growing horse feed business is extending beyond this primary area.

Bowman, who has been in the feed business for more than 50 years, has two main objectives in business. He wants to recognize the needs of his customers and wants to supply them with a quality, competitively priced product. For North Glade this translates into good delivery service and Purina mixes formulated to fit individual dairy herd needs.

Because Purina has nutritionists and veterinarians on staff, local farmers have access to help for any feed or herd health problem that may arise. Purina's research team helps farmers get the best production out of their animals and promises opportunity in the dairy business in the future.

"We are comfortable with farmers and we do our best to take care of our customers' needs with quality feed at a competitive price," Bowman said. "I enjoy the business because we are dealing with such good, sound people. They want the service which we give, but they are also very nice people."
